CUBA SWEPT BY STORM.

Great Damage Done by Gale.

HAVANA, MATANZAS AND PINAR DEL RIO PROVINCES BEAR THE BRUNT.

TOBACCO CROP BELIEVED DESTROYED; CITY'S BUSINESS SUSPENDED.

RAIN FALLS IN TORRENTS IN CAPITAL; MANY ARE REPORTED KILLED.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

HAVANA, Oct. 14.—The provinces of Havana, Matanzas and Pinar Del Rio have been in the grip of the severest storm of recent years since Thursday.

The highest velocity of the wind was eighty miles an hour. The rain probably was unprecedented and has wrought great damage to sugar cane and tobacco.

The full force of the storm, the approach of which was heralded yesterday, struck this city early today. The gale brought with it a deluge of rain. Most of the street lights were extinguished.

The storm, after sweeping over the Isle of Pines yesterday, moved eastward and then shifted to the west, affecting chiefly Havana, Matanzas and Pinar del Rio provinces. It is feared the tobacco crop in Pinar del Rio will be destroyed by the washing out of the seed beds.

The Belen Observatory reported just before noon that the vortex of the storm was passing over Havana.

The velocity of the wind did not increase materially during the day but rain fell in torrents. The traffic at the port ceased and business throughout the city was suspended.

It is reported the storm devastated the town of Casilda on the south coast of Santa Clara province and that many persons were killed. It is reported also that the Isles of Pines suffered severely when the gale doubled on its track.

News from the interior is meager as a consequence of the interruption of telegraph and telephone communication.

HURRICANE DISABLES WIRELESS; MOVES WEST.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

KEY WEST (Fla.) Oct. 14.—At 6 o'clock tonight the wireless station here reported the West Indian hurricane centered west of Havana and moving with great intensity toward Progresso, Yucatan. The storm will extend from Florida to Mexico. All wireless stations with the exception of the local government station are disabled. There is an unconfirmed rumor that a liner is ashore near Key West.

Although a 50-mile wind blew steadily throughout the day here, no material damage was done in Key West, but tonight there was considerable apprehension over the approach of the hurricane.

The Weather Bureau station at Sand Key was awash and the men there sought refuge at the lighthouse. The United Wireless station was temporarily disabled and the operator abandoned his quarters when the heavy seas began to come in. The government wireless alone was in operation.

The steamer Olivette, from Tampa, for Key West, was reported thirty miles out, all well.

"THANKS," SAYS BRIDE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] "Good-by, Mr. Brown. Thank you very much for accepting me. I wish you a long and happy life."

With this kindly expression the German girl who has been offering $200 for a temporary husband, who would enable her to secure an inheritance left by an eccentric uncle, parted today from the young man to whom she had been married two hours earlier in the afternoon.

The bride is Miss Eugenie Schumacher-Sauer of Vienna. She selected Harvey O. Brown from hundreds of matrimonial aspirants. An ante-nuptial agreement was drawn and signed.

The marriage ceremony was performed at 12:15 o'clock in the Municipal Court. During the ceremony the stakes were held by a friend of the bridegroom, who was one of the witnesses, and when the words, "I pronounce you man and wife," were uttered the money was handed to the smiling bridegroom.

SOCIETY MAN JOINS NAVY.

MRS. OGDEN GOELET'S BROTHER ENLISTS AT CHICAGO.

Examiners Find Young Man Perfect—He Has Entertained Late King Edward, Emperor of Germany and Deposed King of Portugal at Different Intervals Abroad.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Epes Winthrop Sargent, Harvard, '01, a civil engineer, who says he is a brother of Mrs. Ogden Goelet of New York, who, while abroad, has entertained the late King Edward VII of England, the Emperor of Germany and Manuel, deposed King of Portugal, has enlisted at a Chicago United States naval recruiting station. Today, after an all-night ride to Philadelphia, he began a career as an ordinary seaman in Uncle Sam's navy.

Young Sargent, who is 34, breezed up before the recruiting station at No. 260 South Clark street yesterday, in a chugging taxicab, paid off the driver with a yellow $20 bill, tossed him a liberal tip and entered the Imperial building. He mounted to the office of Capt. W. Brackett, who is authority for this story. Sergeant L. M. Reaser met him at the captain's door.

"Morning sergeant," said Sargent, "I wish to enlist."

If he dies while he is still an ordinary seaman, his "next kin" beificiary will be Mrs. Goelet. She will receive $15 a month for six months, less the funeral expenses.

ELECT ANGELENO.

ATLANTIC CITY (N. J.) Oct. 14—The American Interurban Railway Association in annual convention here today elected Arthur W. Brady of Anderson, Ind., president. The vice-presidents include Charles N. Black of San Francisco. The Claim Agent's Association also elected officers, including Walter S. Heaton of Los Angeles, vice-president.

MOUNTED FIREBUG SETS FRESH BLAZES.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

DENVER, Oct. 14.—Mounted upon a fleet horse and moving rapidly from place to place, a mysterious incendiary is setting at naught the combined efforts of the large force of fire fighters working in the vicinity of Miramonte to subdue the fires which started in heavy timber of that section, several days ago.

So cleverly has he been evading capture that it became necessary today to organize a patrol, whose only duty will be to capture him. Revenge and spite form the only motives for his action, according to Federal forestry officials.

The district in which the fires are burning has settled rapidly in recent months, and this is supposed to have stirred the anger of some of the old settlers.

Today more than sixty small fires had started, but the main blaze covers an area of fifteen square miles.

Narrow escapes from death in the flames have occurred. A party of ten fighters became entrapped in a gulch and were held prisoners for two hours, with flames roaring all around them. All were rescued by government agents sent in search of them.

NO PAY; WE QUIT, SAY WELLMAN'S MOTORMEN.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ATLANTIC CITY (N. J.) Oct. 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Legal advice was sought tonight by Jean Jacon, the motor expert of Walter Wellman's dirigible "America" to secure a claim of $530 he has presented for services rendered since preparations were begun at Atlantic City for the "America's" voyage across the Atlantic. Jacon, who was made a Chevalier of the Order of Stanislaus in May for his work at the Russian Army School of Aviation at Gatchina, made this statement tonight:

SALARY NOT PAID.

"I was oeffred $50 a week by Chief Engineer Vanniman to come to the United States and make the 'America' ready for her trip to England. All my expenses were to be paid and at the end of the first week I was paid what had been agreed upon.

At the end of the second week I was told that I might have what money I needed for my personal expenses. Yesterday I was told that I was to get $30 a week, and then I found that $14 a week was being withheld from my money for my hotel expenses which left me $16 a week for my work which has taken twelve hours a day for seven days a week. Before I sail with the 'America' I must have all the money that is coming to me. If I do not get it I shall not sail. Altogether I have got just $126."

With Jacon in his decision to sue out an attachment against the "America" was George Riffard, who was brought from Paris as a mechanician. Riffard says that $515 is still due him and although he is not to sail as a member of the crew he insists on payment. Jacon and Riffard together claim $1381 from the "America" expedition.

HAS OTHER TROUBLES.

The claims of these two men are not the only troubles that developed for Wellman. F. Murray Simon who has been signed as a navigating officer for the "America," served notice tonight that if a start was not made within twenty-four hours he would sever his connection with the project. Simon, Jacon and Riffard were all called to the Chalfonte tonight to talk their grievances over with Wellman and Vanniman. They left without having committed themselves to any compromise except one based on a binding promise to sail and to pay in full.

If no start is made tomorrow it was said tonight that the indorsement of the hotel men would be withdrawn formally.

TIN-PLATE TRUST ORGANIZER TAKES BRIDE TO NEW YORK COUNTRY ESTATE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Daniel G. Reid, organizer of the Tin Plate Trust, director in some of the greatest corporations in the country, and many times a millionaire, has married Mabel Carrier, formerly an actress.

Mr. and Mrs. Reid are spending their honeymoon in seclusion at the capitalist's country seat at Irvington. Most of their time is spent in motoring over the beautiful roads in the neighboring country.

Mr. Reid modestly refused tonight to divulge the romance of his marriage but it was said by friends that the engagement was of long standing.

The report has many times been cabled from Europe that Mr. Reid had married Miss Carrier. Some time ago it became known that Miss Carrier had withdrawn from the stage and was in retirement, pursuing a course in languages and music at Mr. Reid's request and expense.

LONG RUMORED.

As long as four years ago, Mr. Reid and Miss Carrier were haled into the court of public gossip and accused of having committed matrimony. Neither would own up. Mr. Reid denied it and the same was done for Miss Carrier through her chaperone.

"I have not even discussed it with Miss Carrier yet," said Mr. Reid, with his customary frankness.

Daniel G. Reid was born in Richmond, Ind., and has always retained fond memories of his boyhood days on the farm. Occupying a prominent place at his magnificent country home is an old door, on a panel of which is carved the initials "D. G. R.," which he had cut while a youth. Mr. Reid bought the door, had it carefully crated and shipped to his New York estate.

After eighteen years experience in the Second National Bank of Richmond, where he rose from clerk to vice-president, Mr. Reid became interested in the manufacture of tin plate at Elwood, Ind.

RAPID RISE.

He succeeded rapidly in that business and he and his associates organized the American Tin Plate Company which was formed by the amalgamation by all the principal tin plate mills in America. Mr. Reid personally managed the affairs of the great corporation and was for many years its president.

In 1899 Mr. Reid came to New York where he soon won international reputation as a financier. When the United States Steel Corporation was organized he became a director and member of the executive committee. In 1901 he was made a director in the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railway. In business deals he has been associated with such men as Marshall Field, Henry C. Frick, William B. Leeds, Ogden Mills, John W. Gates and Michael and John Cudahy.

DANCER ADOPTS BABE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

EL PASO (Texas) Oct. 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The deserted child of an American mother has been saved from homelessness, perhaps death by a pretty Mexican girl, Maria Coronado, who makes her money by dancing in an El Paso theater.

The blue-eyed baby girl, less than a week old, was found by the maid of the dancer on the steps leading to her dressing room with a note signed "Mrs. J. W. Bickley," in which the mother despairs of being able to rear the child. Juana, not understanding the desertion, for Mexicans do not leave their children, took the bundle of cloth and flesh to her mistress, and the mute appeal struck home, with the dancer.

Maria came to El Paso from Mexico City, where she had been dancing for many months. The child is to be cared for by the maid when Maria is working.

"Of course, I cannot give her a very good home now," said Maria, who is very young. "Perhaps I can do better later on when I have a home of my own."

TWO DROWN IN ALASKA.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

SEWARD (Alaska) Oct. 14.—H. B. Smith, a wealthy druggist of Norwich, Ct., who came to Alaska to hunt big game, and Alfred Lowell, eldest son of one of the founders of Seward, were drowned in Lake Kenai, Kenai Peninsular, October 11, while returninb from a moose hunt in the mountains.

With William Walker, a guide, they were crossing the lake in a small dory and encountered a storm. The waves swamped the boat and threw its occupants into the water. They were only 150 feet from shore but Smith and Lowell could not swim and were helpless. The guide, Walker, managed to reach the shore.

The bodies of the drowned men were recovered. That of Smith was embalmed and will be sent to Norwich, for interment.

T. R. ARRAIGNS WALL STREET AND TAMMANY.

Colonel Opens New York State Campaign With Broadside for Stimson and Republican Ticket---Addresses Voters in Eight Up-State Cities.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

ELMIRA (N. Y.) Oct. 14.—With one broadside for Tammany Hall, and another for Wall Street, Theodore Roosevelt opened his campaign today for Henry L. Stimson and the rest of the Republican ticket.

His slogan was "You are wanted in room 212. Are you going?"

Room 212 in a Rochester hotel was occupied by Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall, during the Democratic State convention.

Col. Roosevelt started things going in his first speech of the day at Dunkirk. He also spoke at Fredonia, Sinclairville, Gerry, Jamestown, Salamanca, Wellsville, Hornell, Corning and Elmira.

He had only one theme. It was what he termed the alliance between Wall Street and Tammany Hall, which he said was the most complete alliance between corrupt business and corrupt political bosses which the State had seen since the days of Tweed.

If the Democrats should win the election he said, Tammany and Wall Street would dominate the State to the detriment of the people. Opposed to that, he pictured the Republican party as the true representative of popular rule.

"If my career, if my life means anything," he said, at Jamestown, "it means that I never say on the stump anything I do not say in private, that I never say anything I don't believe and that I don't make a promise, unless I try to keep it. So I ask you to take my words at their face value when I speak to you."

In his speech at Wellsville, Col. Roosevelt said while he was abroad he heard one name connected with everything that was bad in the country, and that was Tammany Hall. Next to the name of Tammany he said, "people abroad associated the name of Wall Street with things that were bad."

Leaving Elmira late tonight Col. Roosevelt is due back in New York tomorrow morning.

German Identified by Germans as Former Banker Declares He is the Victim of Bold Kidnapers, Who Took Him From Kansas City Hotel After Smoking Drugs.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] In the deposition of "A. J. White pro tem," the Auburn, N. Y., convict, identified by a dozen German friends and believed by the New York Life Insurance Company to be George A. Kimmel, former Arkansas City, Kan., banker, which deposition was read by Attorneys Judson and Green today before Federal Judge A. S. Van Valkenburg, there came out the sensational testimony that he (White or Kimmel) was attacked and nearly slain in St. Louis early in August, 1898, following his "disappearance" from the Midland hotel, Kansas City, Mo., July 30, 1898, by a group of three men, whom he named as Robert M. Synder, millionaire, now believed dead, Charles A. Johnson, his uncle, of Niles, Mich., and a man named Horton.

"A. J. White," in the deposition, which is 657 pages long, positively asserted and with countless details attempted to prove that he, the supposed A. J. White, was the real George S. Kimmel, who was "for twelve years an outcast from society fighting for the right to his name," although denied by mother and sister.

The man swears in his deposition that about July 26, 1898, he went to Topeka, Kan., to meet his uncle, Charles A. Johnson, that from Topeka he went to Kansas City, Mo., where he was given a drugged cigar and taken away in a closed carriage.

IRONS OUT DISSENSIONS.

Kansas Citizen Who Offers Church Stock in Publishing Concern Withdraws Offer.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

TOPEKA (Kas.) Oct. 14.—R. A. Long of Kansas City, smoothed over the dissensions occasioned by his offer of $129,000 of stock in the Christian Publishing Company, of St. Louis, by formally offering the stock to the Christian Church, and requesting that no decision be made at present.

The difficulty arose over the fact that the church is not an incorporated body and cannot hold property. Action on the Philput resolution, providing for a central organization, was postponed until next year.

zRev. H. D. Smith of Hopkinsville, Ky., was elected president of the American Christian missionary society. This makes him head of the convention next year as this society is recognized as dominant in the church.

He had been accused of sending supplies to the Dalai Lama at Darjeeling, British India.

GENERAL LAND OFFICE SECURES INDICTMENTS IN ALASKA COAL CASES.

RESULT OF MONTHS OF SECRET EFFORT AND PATIENT WORK BY OFFICIALS.

TWO GROUPS CLAIMS HELD UP RIVAL CUNNINGHAM MINES IN IMPORTANCE.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

SEATTLE, Oct. 14.—Charles F. Munday, George Simmonds and Cornelius Christopher, all prominent Seattle men were arrested here late today on indictments returned by the Tacoma grand jury charging conspiracy to defraud the government in the Alaska coal cases. They were taken before United States Commissioner W. H. Toten and released under bonds of $2500 each.

SECRET EFFORT REWARDED.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—After months of secret effort and patient waiting, officials of the General Land Office were able to announce today the indictment of a number of claimants to valuable lands in Alaska.

The entries involved number 154 and cover almost 2000 acres of land, all of which lies in the Bering River district in which the Cunningham claims are located. They are what are known as the English or Stracey, and the Christopher-Simmonds groups, the former containing eighty and the latter seventy-four claims of 160 acres each. The deposits covered by these claims are believed to be as rich as those of the Cunningham mines which cut a conspicuous figure in the Ballinger-Pinchot controversy.

The indictments were handed down in the Federal court at Tacoma. Wash. In the English group indictments were returned against C. F. Munday, A. H. Stracey, Archie W. Shiels and E. E. Siegley, and the second group against Cornelius Christopher, George Simmonds and Mortimer C. Sweeney.

CHARGE USE OF DUMMIES.

The first group of defendants take its name from the fact that a number of people in Western Canada are supposed to be interested. Stracey is a resident of Vancouver, and is charged with being instrumental in making some of the locations. Munday is a prominent attorney of Seattle.

The charge is that the entries were made in the names of "dummies." Most of the entrymen were residents of Washington and they are said to have made an agreement that their claims should be assigned or deeded to third parties. There is said to have been a further understanding that the locator should receive a large percentage of the sale prices.

The charge differs from the charge in the Cunningham claims, in which there were no allegations that the entrymen took the claims for person other than themselves, but rather that they had a previous agreement to won or dispose of their claims as a unit.

NEVER SAW LAND.

It is said few claimants in the new cases ever saw the land on which their names were used for locations.

Both groups of claims figured in connection with the Ballinger-Pinchot inquiry. Charges of fraud in connection with the entries were made two years ago, and it was asserted that investigation had been stayed by the land office, supposedly for sinister purposes.

Meeting this allegation with the statement that the services of the land office force were needed elsewhere, and that there was no statute of limitation to run against these cases, it was conceded that they were not pressed for a period. Since last May, however, Mr. Christensen has been giving the major portion of his time to them.

Another Federal grand jury sitting at Spokane is considering other charges of fraudulent coal entries in Alaska, and results are expected from the investigations similar to those obtained at Tacoma.

MORE ARRESTS SOON; HISTOR YOF CASES

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

SEATTLE, Oct. 14.—Warrants have been issued for the arrest of Algernon S. Stracey, an Englishman; Archie W. Shiels and Earl E. Siegley, Siegley was private secretary to Michael J. Heney, the contractor who was building the Copper River Railroad in Alaska, for the Guggenheims. Siegley is now on the way from San Francisco to Seattle with the body of Heney, who died a few days ago. He will be arrested immediately after Heney's funeral.

Mortimer C. Sweeney, the seventh man for whom an indictment was returned, is dead.

The accused men are charged with having conspired to defraud the government on fictitious entries in which are known as the Christopher and the English groups. Both groups are situated in the Bering River district between Bering lake and Kushtaka glacier, near the famous Cunningham claims. The value of the coal lands which it is alleged the claimants conspired to obtain fraudulently, is placed by the government at $100,000,000.

The men arrested today are to appear before United States District Judge George Donworth for arraign-

All the balloons entered are on the starting grounds. There are a half-dozen representatives of foreign clubs here, besides those who will take part in the race. They have come for the sole purpose of witnessing the start. There will be ten starters representing four countries, France, Switzerland, Germany and the United States.

Capt. Messner of the Swiss Club said tonight that he would pilot the Asuras, with Leon Giraldan as his aid. He objects to the proposal to start the race at night. Col. Schaeck will pilot the Helvetia, with A. Armbruster as aid. The Asuera will start third. Lieut. H. E. Honeywell, representing the United States, will sail in the balloon St. Louis No. 4, with J. W. Tolland as his aid. Inflation of the balloons will be begun Sunday night.

Monday's international meet will be the second in St. Louis, the first being in October, 1907. The trophy then was won by Oscar Erbslohe of Germany, who since has been killed in a balloon accident.

Among the aeronauts who are now in St. Louis are:

France—Walher de Munn, Rheims; Jacques Faure, Ernest G. Schuerolok, Pierre Gasner, Alfred le Blanc, Paris.

Switzerland — Lieut.-Col. Schaeck, Capt. E. Messmer, C. A. Bally, Lieut. E. Laubacher, Lieut. A. Davval and Paul Armbruster, Berne.

Germany—Capt. Hugo von Abercorn, August Blanckertz, Hans Gericke and Lieut. Vogt.

The German aeronauts brought three balloons with them, the Germania, the Dusseldorf and the Hamburg, the latter two of which were used in the international race in 1907.

PROF. PECK SEEKS IN VAIN.

TRIES TO HAVE WIFE OF CORNELL TEACHER ARRESTED.

Says She Wrote Blackmailing Letter to Him, But Judges in New York Refuse to Issue Warrant at Behest of Ousted Columbia Instructor.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Dr. Harry Thurston Peck, the dismissed professor of Latin at Columbia, who has been sued for breach of promise of marriage by one woman, sought in vain today for a warrant for the arrest of another.

Through his counsel, C. D. Francis, Dr. Peck asked Magistrate Herbert to issue a warrant for the arrest of Mrs. Lucia R. Bristol of Ithaca, wife of the professor of Greek in Cornell University, on a charge of attempted blackmail. He presented to the court a letter alleged to have been mailed by Mrs. Bristol on October 15, 1908, which was represented as threatening.

Magistrate Herbert, after asking why action had been delayed until the statute of limitation was about to end, said if any crime had been committed it had been committed either in Ithaca where the letter was mailed or at No. 880 West One Hundred and Twenty-first street, where it was received. In both cases out of his jurisdiction; so he sent the doctor to the Harlem court where Magistrate Breen refused to issue a warrant, saying he couldn't find anything threatening in it. He referred Dr. Peck to the District Attorney who has already refused to act on the case.

MRS. BRISTOL CALM.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ITHACA (N. Y.) Oct. 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] When told at her home today that Prof. Peck was seeking a warrant for her arrest, Mrs. Bristol would say only this:

She did not seem to be alarmed.

Wins Davis's Grand-daughter.

COLORADO SPRINGS (Colo.) Oct. 14.—Miss Lucy Hayes, daughter of J. Addison Hayes, and whose mother, Mrs. Margaret Howell Jefferson Davis Hayes, was the daughter of Jefferson Davis, is to wed George Bowyer Young, son of the late Harvey Young, the famous painter of western landscapes. No date has been set for the wedding.

MURDERER SENTENCED.

FRESNO, Oct. 14.—Jim Maroney was this morning sentenced by Judge Austin of the local Superior Court to spend the remainder of his life behind the prison gates of San Quentin for the murder of Casimiro Tognotti near Firebaugh last July. Maroney shot and killed Tognotti because he thought the latter had cut the stake rope on his horse. When arraigned, he entered a plea of guilty to the charge.

DOCTOR OUT ON BAIL.

FRESNO, Oct. 14.—Dr. Jackson L. Martin of Fresno, accused of having feloniously failed to provide proper medical attendance for his dying wife, has been granted a writ of habeas corpus returnable October 18 before the District Court of Appeals.

He was released from the County Jail today. The new bonds of $1000 required were promptly furnished by local business men.

COAL CASES.

ment at Tacoma, next Monday. It is probable the trial will be set for the November term, in Seattle.

"CORRUPT MEANS."

"The cases wherein the grand jury returned indictments, involved 154 entries and approximately 17,000 acres of coal lands in the Bering River fields in Alaska," said Special Agent Andrew Christensen tonight. "The evidence submitted to the grand jury has been secured during the last two or three years, as the result of investigations by special agents of the General Land Office during that time."

The indictments returned in the Christopher cases charge that a part of the conspiracy consisted of false locations and notices of locations, preferential rights to purchase applications, and to enter and purchase final entries " by cunning persuasions and promises of pecuniary reward and other corrupt means."

It is charged, further, that certain persons were induced to make unlawful, false and fictitious locations, ostensibly for the individual profit of the claimant, but in truth for the benefit of the Alaska Development Company, and the Pacific Coal & Oil Company.

CONSPIRACY CHARGED.

The indictments in the cases of claimants in the English group, charge that Munday, Shiels, Siegley and Streacey conspired with others to get possession of valuable coal lands for the benefit of private corporations known as the Alaska Development Company and the Pacific Coal & Oil Company.

Defendants in the English group will go into court on two counts each. Stracey, who never has been naturalized, it is alleged, was one of the heads of the conspiracy, and Shiels was in his employ. All the Alaska Coal claims, it is charged, were investigated and suspended by L. R. Glavis, who as agent, after detecting fraud, laid the matter before Federal Attorney Elmer E. Todd, in this city. Mr. Todd, pointing out that there had never been any criminal prosecutions under the coal laws, referred Glavis to the Interior Department.

Special Agent Christensen would have proceeded, he says, several months ago, but valuable witnesses were in Washington before the Ballinger-Pinchot investigating committee and the matter was deferred. It is claimed the alleged frauds in the Stracey group were known to the department at that time.

LONG WATCHED STRACEY.

The department obtained first notice of the Stracey deal in 1897 when there were no coal land laws applicable to Alaska. Stracey went to London and interested English capital in the development plans and later the English company assigned its lease to the Pacific Coal & Oil Company, and then to Stracey.

It is charged that Munday induced the government to pass the Alaska Coal Land Act of 1904. He is said to have made several trips to Washington and secured the assistance of influential friends in bringing about the enactment. With this law behind him, Stracey, it is claimed, rushed forty-two of his employees, some of whom were unable to speak the English language, into the deal and induced them to file at $100 each on the coal claims.

"This was so raw, even for Stracey," said Mr. Christensen, "that the claims were never pushed, and Stracey came to Seattle and permitted some of his friends to proceed with the filings."

LOCATED THEIR FRIENDS.

In the case of Christopher, the government charges that he, in company with Mortimer C. Sweeney, now dead, and George Simmonds, conspired in 1904 and 1905 to secure title to 11,008 acres of coal lands, and that Christopher located 37, and Simmonds 23 Seattle friends in the coal claims in their personal interest. The accused men, it is charged, have since conveyed the claims to the original holders.

Three companies were formed, it is alleged, to secure patents under the act of May 28, 1908.

Stracey is a brother of Sir Edward Stracey, of London, who was named manager of the English end of the corporation.

Cornelius Christopher is a veteran of the Civil War and a prominent mining promoter.

TIRED LAWYER DIES FOR REST.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 14.—Having put his home in order for the return of his wife and young son, Maurice C. Lang lawyer and former justice of the peace, five hours before he expected his wife to arrive from a summer's visit to the country, put the canary in an adjoining room, locked himself in the kitchen and committed suicide by turning on seven gas jets, yesterday. Lang had made notes while he was waiting for the gas to take effect. The first one read: "I am done. No hard feelings against anyone." According to his friends and neighbors, Lang for several weeks had been talking of suicide not in a threatening manner, but in the cool, philosophical manner which might be characteristic of a man in his profession. He complained that he was tired and needed a rest.

Here is Mrs. Satterlee's word of advice to the woman in her prime today: "Don't smoke; don't drink; don't wear a hobble skirt, tight corsets or tight shoes; don't play bridge or any other game that makes you worry over it."

VOLCANIC ISLE IN ERUPTION.

REVENUE CUTTER REPORTS TO SEWARD, ALASKA.

VOLCANO THROWS ASHES MILE AND HALF HIGH.

LAKE BOILS; DEAD BIRDS FLOAT IN THE SEA.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

SEWARD (Alaska) Oct. 14.—The famous Bogoslov volcano, in the Aleutian Islands, is in more violent eruption than ever before, according to a report brought from the West by the revenue cutter Tahoma, which arrived today. Smoke and ashes are rising a mile and a half above the crater, according to triangulations made by the Tahoma's officers. Flames burst from the cone and lava is flowing down the sides of the mountain. Huge boulders are thrown high into the air. A lake in the center of one of the Bogoslov Islands is boiling, and dense clouds of steam rise from the caldron.

The island was formerly a rendevous for myriads of sea birds, all of which were probably killed. Not a live bird was visible from the Tahoma, but great numbers of dead ones floated in the sea.

The Tahoma anchored ten miles from the volcano, not daring to approach near there, the cutter's decks being covered with hot ashes even where she lay. The officers spent a day in viewing the magnificent spectacle of the troubled mountain and in making photographs.

While bound to Attu Island, early in September, the Tahoma's officers noted recent and remarkable changes in the topography of the Bogoslov group, a new island having lifted its head where deep water formerly had been and other islands having diminished in size.

A party of volunteers under Lieut. R. R. Waesche, asked to be permitted to land on the islands and make observations until the cutter's southward trip in October, but Chief Engineer Berran, who knows the freaks of Bogoslov, warned the men of the peril of the undertaking and the proposed expedition was abandoned.

If the explorers had remained on the islands they must have perished, for when the Tahoma returned, the chief peak was ablaze and the other islands in commotion.

Committee of Which He is Head Submits Draft of Preamble of Constitution of Arizona, Which Voices Perpetuation of Liberty and Justice in the New State.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PHOENIX (Ariz.) Oct. 13.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Most striking among the day's events in the constitutional convention was the presentation of a draft of a preamble, Delegate Crutchfield, who is presiding elder of the Methodist South Church in Arizona. The suggested preamble reads:

"We, the people of Arizona, invoking the guidance of the Supreme Being—do ordain and establish this constitution, in order to perpetuate Liberty and Justice in our State and provide for the peace and welfare of posterity."

Chairman Winsor of the committee on rules, submitted a draft of proposed rules, which had only one novelty in providing that a motion for reconsideration may be renewed on the succeeding day and not thereafter. This rule, it was explained, would prevent the killing of meritorious measures by voting down of summary reconsideration, as has been the habit in previous Arizona legislative bodies.

The proposition accepted by the committee will be referred to the committee on style, revision and compilation, which at the end of the session, will report the complete constitution with each section properly placed. Then each section will be separately adopted and the complete constitution adopted as such after engrossment and signed by all the members.

There was strong sentiment in favor of adjournment until Monday, but the convention will meet tomorrow morning to look over the rules report.

SENTENCE TWO FORGERS.

WOMAN AND MAN ADMIT CRIME.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 14.—Margaret Young, alias Mrs. Frank C. Dowell, was sentenced to one year in San Quentin and John Hanson, alias J. L. Dowdell, the woman's consort, was given eighteen months in Folsom by Judge Hughes today. Both pleaded guilty to charges of forgery. The woman, who had served a year in the Utah penitentiary, was given the minimum term because it was stated that Hanson was largely responsible for influencing her to commit crime. Hanson's sentence was made light because he has not long to live. Miss Young forged a $30 check while Hanson passed worthless papers, for $35.

SANTA ROSA, Oct. 14.—An indictment charging Henry Yamaguichi with the murder of Thomas Kendall, on the Starbuck ranch, near Cazadero last July, was returned by the grand jury of Sonoma county tonight. It was stated by Dist.-Atty. Lea that the object of this action was to provide means of holding the fugitive in event of his capture in a foreign land. No reference is made in the bill to the murder of the parents of Thomas Kendall, Enoch Kendall and his wife.

LAKE BOILS; DEAD BIRDS FLOAT IN THE SEA.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

SEWARD (Alaska) Oct. 14.—The famous Bogoslov volcano, in the Aleutian Islands, is in more violant eruption than ever before, according to a report brought from the West by the revenue cutter Tahoma, which arrived today. Smoke and ashes are riding a mile and a half, above the water, according to triangulations made by the Tahoma's officers. Flames burst from the cone and lava is flowing down the sides of the mountain. Huge boulders are thrown high into the air. A lake in the center of one of the Bogoslov Islands is boiling, and dense clouds of steam rise from the caldron.

The island was formerly a rendevous for myriads of sea birds, all of which were probably killed. Not a live bird was visible from the Tahoma, but great numbers of dead ones floated in the sea.

The Tahoma anchored ten miles from the volcano, not daring to approach near there, the cutter's decks being covered with hot ashes even where she lay. The officers spent a day in viewing the magnificent spectacle of the troubled mountain and in making photographs.

While bound to Attu Island, early in December, the Tahoma's officers noted unusual and remarkable changes in the topography of the Bogoslov group, a new island having lifted its head where deep water formerly had been and other islands having diminished in size.

A party of volunteers under Lieut. R. R. Waesche, asked to be permitted to land on the islands and make observations until the cutter's southward trip in October, but Chief Engineer Berrn, who knows the freaks of Bogoslov, warned the men of the peril of the undertaking and the proposed expedition was abandoned.

If the explorers had remained on the islands they must have perished, for when the Tahoma returned, the chief peak was ablaze and the other islands in commotion.

NO WAR NEAR, SAYS JORDAN.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—David Starr Jordan, president of Leland Stanford University, who has been abroad lecturing on universal peace, is in New York, on his way home. While abroad he found little indication of an approaching war anywhere in Europe.

"There is no war coming," he said, "and the countries building warships are ruining themselves. Business is good in many countries, including Germany, but the prospects in Europe are not good when viewed from the standpoint of prosperity. It is the peasants, and not business, that are paying the bills, and they are beginning to grumble. That is not a good sign.

"It is always that class that in the end bears the burden for increasing armament.

"As to the prospect of war between Germany and England, there is about as much chance of a conflict between the United States and Mars. The building of warships is throwing away money. War at the present time between civilized nations occupies only the minds of a frenzied few. The only battles between England and Germany will be on paper.

"In London, a few newspapers seem to have the monopoly of it."

TULE INDIANS CAN SELL BEEF.

RECENT DEPARTMENT RULING RESTORES PEACE.

Prospective Opening of Porterville Northwestern Railroad Accompanied by Unprecedented Activity in Mining Circles and Many Claims Are Again Being Punctured.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

PORTERVILLE, Oct. 14.—Word has been received by Indian Agent Edmundson in charge of the Tule Indian Reserve, that a recently promulgated order with regard to the sale of cattle by Indians, is not applicable to the Tules and peace has been restored on the reservation.

As the order read, Indians were prohibited from selling cattle to any except accredited agents, and then only in car lots for shipment to outside points and only upon a written order of the reservation boss farmer.

Upon the receipt of the order and its translation to the Indians, there were campfire meetings and pow-wows without number and a formal protest was forwarded to the Interior Department. The answer received states that the order was originally issued for the protection of the government charges against unscrupulous commission merchants who have been fleecing the dusky natives in the Middle West and Northwest.

MANY PICKS IN CLAIMS.

With the opening of the Porterville Northwestern Railroad, which will be running all the way to the hills by the first of January, there has been an unprecedented activity in mining circles and many claims in which a pick has not been driven for years are now taking on the appearance of activity.

The latest mine, the workings upon which have been made public is that belonging to Charles Elster of Success, who has just filed his location notice. The property is at Baldwin Flat at the terminus of the railroad. Samples of ore taken out show rich values in lead. Some of the samples have assayed as high as $22 in ores.

This mine, it is said, will begin shipping as soon as the railroad is completed to the flat.

Den Nelson, who is the owner of the land which is occupied by the resort, which is known as Camp Nelson, has filed a claim upon property at the base of Mt. Whitney for a mining location and has taken from the property some beautiful topazes, opals and olivines. Samples of the gems sent to New York jewelers for cutting, were returned with the statement that they show the the stones to be of exceptional beauty and fire and that they would be readily salable at $4 to $6 per carat.

Peculiar Accident Which Happened While Putting In an Hydraulic Barber Chair.

Frank Miller, of No. 804 Maple avenue, a porter in a barbershop at No. 108 West Third street, lost an eye in a peculiar accident last night.

Miller was helping to instal a new hydraulic barber chair holding the heavy base in place while the other man drove bolts in with a hammer. One of the bolts flew out, striking Miller squarely in the right eye. He was taken to the Receiving Hospital where he was examined by Dr. J. H. Slater an eye specialist, the latter decided that the eye would have to be removed and Miller was taken to the Clara Barton Hospital.

FIGHT PLANS OFF.

MAILED HAND SEIZES BANK.

STATE OFFICER IN CHARGE OF INSTITUTION.

FIREARM DEFENSE MELTS WHEN HE ENTERS.

DECLARES IT IS SOLVENT, BUT OFFICERS AT WAR.

The mailed hand of the State Superintendent of Banks fell on the All Night and Day Bank last night and spoiled as pretty a skirmish as ever was pulled off in the old Indian days.

The old officers of the bank had arranged to repel the new officers elected by dissatisfied stockholders yesterday. It is stated on good authority that they had provided themselves with firearms to defend their rights to hold the "fort" and in addition had within call a bunch of "roughnecks."

If the "roughnecks" were beaten off when the invaders appeared on the scene, then the guns were to have been brought into play and the men back of them were directed to look as desperate as possible.

WARPAINT OFF.

The stage was all set. Within the bank there was an air of expectation which patrons of the institution could not fail to observe, although they little guessed the cause. The clerks stepped around on tiptoe, pausing often to look through the plate glass windows when the rush of pedestrians sounded like the approach of the invaders.

Then the mailed hand fell, Alden Anderson, State Superintendent of Banks, walked quietly into the bank and announced that it was in his charge. Instantly warpaint was washed off and the firearms were bundled out of the way. The "roughnecks," not averse to mixing in a good fray, disappeared.

cosed banksthe management of the ma

Mr. Anderson had the doors of the banks closed and locked at 10 o'clock. This action brought a crowd of curious persons around the doors, some of whom clamored for admission. Something was up and they wanted information. But inside the bank everything was peaceful. The clerks worked away at the books unconcernedly as though they had not anticipated a few minutes before engaging in a call to "repel boarders."

"SOLVENT," SAYS ANDERSON.

"It is a case of too much Johnson," said Mr. Anderson last night. "There are two sets of officers, one in possession; the other desiring to come in, and I determined to close the bank for several days to see if matters cannot be adjusted. If this cannot be done, it may be necessary to liquidate the bank's affairs.

"The bank is perfectly solvent. It can pay off every dollar it owes. I know this because I have been in touch with the situation. The depositors will not lose a dollar. I am going to try to clear the bank of a complication which has been hanging over it for some time.

"The total deposits of the All Night and Day Bank are about $945,000. The loans are conservative. I required the bank to increase its reserve to more than the usual figures, on account of the complication which arose. But there is plenty of cash on hand.

"If matters can be arranged, the doors will open in a few days. If not, as I say, then its affairs may have to be liquidated."

Mr. Anderson had been in Los Angeles all day yesterday, and anticipated trouble when new directors and new officers were elected by a number of stockholders.

SKINNER PROTESTS.

The State Superintendent of Banks closed the All Night and Day Bank over our protest. He admits the bank is solvent. We have ten days in which to file action in the Superior Court and will do so immediately. We have no doubt but that we will have the bank reopened in that time."

SEEKS NEWS OF ELOPING GIRL.

SANTA BARBARA MAID LOOKED FOR HERE.

Marriage License in Which Her Name Figures With That of a Young Man With an Alias Brings Police Officer of the Bay City on a Hurried Trip to Los Angeles.

"Guy F. Metzler, aged 21, and Ada Scott, aged 19," are the names and ages given in a marriage license issued in this city Wednesday and published in all the papers with the long list of other marriage licenses.

But behind this particular publication, there lies a story of a girl's trustfulness, heart pangs in high social circles, a young man's perfidy and a vain police chase.

The girl, the police say, is only seventeen years of age. Her parents are among the most prominent and wealthy in Santa Barbara, and she is said to be as pretty as a picture.

Guy Metzler is asserted by the officers to be an alias. They say the young gallant's right name is Guy F. Ward, and they are looking for him with a warrant on a forgery charge.

Capt. Kelly of the Santa Barbara Police Department arrived in Los Angeles yesterday evening and at once began a search of the city at once assistance of Detective Hosick of the local police force. Hotel after hotel was visited by the officers, and when they got through with the hotels, they called at many flats and apartment houses, but nowhere did they find a trace of the young elopers. Late this morning they were forced to the conclusion that the young people had left Los Angeles and the search here was abandoned.

Where Ward came from, nobody professes to know. He bobbed up at Santa Barbara last Sunday, with a lot of nice stories about himself for any one who cared to hear them, and much soft talk for the girls. He wore the fine clothes and displayed big diamonds in a modest, unostentatious way that set the little girly heart all a flutter.

In three days, pretty Ada Scott had been wooed and won by the glib-tongued young stranger with the fine clothes. Other little feminine hearts saw the courtship progress with dizzy speed, but there were only the pangs of envy. Ada Scott was pronounced a lucky girl.

On Tuesday, Ada Scott disappeared. Ward—he gave that name in Santa Barbara—also was noted by his absence.

The chase was begun without delay. As soon as the Los Angeles newspapers reached Santa Barbara, the girl's name was noted in the list of marriage licenses. Capt. Kelly lost no time in setting out for this city. How far the pursuit will take him, nobody knows.

Helpful Hints on Hair Health

Scalp and Hair Troubles Generally Caused by Carelessness.

Dandruff is a contagious disease caused by a microbe which also produces baldness. Never use a comb or brush belonging to some one else No matter how cleanly the owner may be, these articles may be infected with microbes, which will infect your scalp. It is far easier to catch hair microbes than it is to get rid of them, and a single stroke of an infected comb or brush may well lead to baldness. Never try on anybody else's hat. Many a hatband is a resting place for microbes.

If you happen to be troubled with dandruff, itching scalp, falling hair or baldness, we have a remedy which we believe will completely relieve these troubles. We are so sure of this that we offer it to you with the understanding that it will cost you nothing for the trial if it does not produce the results we claim. This remedy is called Rexall "93" Hair Tonic. We honestly believe it to be the most scientific remedy for scalp and hair troubles, and we know of nothing else that equals it for effectiveness, because of the results it has produced in thousands of cases.

Rexall "93" Hair Tonic is devised to banish dandruff, restore natural color when its loss has been brought about by disease, and make the hair naturally silky, soft and glossy. It does this because it stimulates the hair follicles, destroys the germ matter, and bring about a free, healthy circulation of blood which nourishes the hair roots, causing them to tighten and grow new hair. We want everybody who has any trouble with hair or scalp to know that Rexall "93" Hair Tonic is the best hair tonic and restorative in existance and no one should scoff at or doubt this statement until they have put our claims to a fair test, with the understanding that they pay us nothing for the remedy if it does not give full and complete satisfaction in every particular. Two sizes, 50 cents and $1.00. Remember you can obtain Rexall Remedy only at The Owl Drug Co., Inc., Los Angeles, San Francisco, Oakland, Cal., Seattle, Wash., and Portland, Ore.

A vagrant rainstorm, without visible or other means of support, came from some unknown place yesterday and gave Los Angeles and a large part of Southern California a goodly drenching.

At 7 o'clock last evening a special reading taken by Local Forecaster Wollaber showed for the storm a precipitation of .72 inch, making the seasonal total .82 inch. The total last season to date was .32 inch. The average for the season to this time is .29 inch.

There were periods last evening when the throngs were pouring out of the business blocks and crowding the homeward-bound cars that the unprotected ones thought there was a sure-enough downpour. Between 5:25 and 5:45 o'clock .22 inch fell. In the five minutes from 5:40 to 5:45 o'clock the downpour amounted to .07 inch.

Although the precipitation for this month to date shows well, it does not come near to breaking the record. In October, 1889, the fall amounted to 6.86 inches. On the 29th of that same month and fall was 3.16 inches in twenty-four hours. The total October precipitations here in the last ten years were, respectively: 1900, .26 inch; 1901, .38 inch; 1902, .40 inch; 1903, trace; 1904, .69 inch; 1905, .86 inch; 1906, none; 1907, 1.19 inches; 1908, .25 inch; 1909, .28 inch.

"This is no well-defined storm," said Local Forecaster Wollaber last evening. "I am inclined to believe that it came from out over the ocean, from where we get no telegraphic word in advance. Conditions indicate that the weather will continue unsettled and more or less showery."

Pasadena and Vicinity.

PASADENA, Oct. 14.—This city and vicinity received a soaking rain this afternoon between 3 and 6 o'clock. This followed a small shower of the night before and orchards, lawns and growing crops were greatly benefited. The rainfall this afternoon was .42 of an inch, which, added to the rainfall of the night before makes a total of .48 for the storm and .72 for the season since July 1.

Tonight's shower was the first good rain of the season. The last was on April 11, a little over six months ago. Ranchers will now start in with their fall plowing as it is believed the ground is wet enough. The outlook for oranges and lemons in the Pasadena district is exceptionally good.

Long Beach.

LONG BEACH, Oct. 14.—The rain which fell most of last night amounted to .80 inch making a total to date of .85 inch, as against .06 inch to the same time last year. Late this afternoon rain again began and .03 inch fell. The weather cleared at 9 p.m.

Santa Monica.

SANTA MONICA, Oct. 14.—During last night there was a gentle fall of rain, amounting to .12 of an inch, raising the total for the month and the season to .15 inch. At 4 o'clock this afternoon rain began to fall again and continued for several hours. No damage has been done to any agricultural interests. The lima beans may be said to be all disposed of and in the warehouse, the harvest of the 12,000 acres in this district having been a trifle below the average. The increased acreage, however, raised the total yield to about the same figure as obtained last year.

Monrovia.

MONROVIA, Oct. 14. Rain started early this morning and continued most of the day. The precipitation varied from .06 of an inch near the mountains to .05 in the lower levels.

ORANGE COUNTY.

Santa Ana.

SANTA ANA, Oct. 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The rainfall today was .35 inch; for the last twenty-four hours .43 inch; for the season .55 inch.

Walnut growers fear no damage unless the storm continues longer than is probable. Celery and cabbage, just planted, received a decided benefit. Sugar beet growers will suffer. Should the rain be heavy or followed by damp weather, the beets will be started to growing again, which would mean the loss of a large share of the remainder of the crop, which is about two-thirds harvested. A dry wind following this rain would be a bonanza breeze for the beet men, as it would quickly dry out the ground.

VENTURA COUNTY.

Oxnard.

OXNARD, Oct. 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] About thirty thousand sacks of lima beans, worth $100,000, will be ruined if present weather continues. Heavy showers tonight have stopped all lima bean harvesting and sugar beet hauling.

SAN BERNARDINO CO.

San Bernardino.

SAN BERNARDINO, Oct. 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Rain commenced falling throughout this valley late this afternoon. Along the mountains the precipitation was severe. As night approached winter temperature prevailed. The orange growers are elated, as the downpour assures a splendid citrus crop coloring in time to meet the high tide of eastern market prices for the holiday trade.

A peculiar feature of the storms which have prevailed here the past week is the unevenness of the precipitation. The rains for today, for instance, measure .19 of an inch by the official record kept by Dr. A. K. Johnson, whose total for the season, including today's precipitation, is .85. Other records give this storm as high as .25, and a season's total of 1.25. Official for valley towns: Redlands, storm, .20, season, .25; San Bernardino, storm, .19, season, .35; Colton, storm, .18, season, .32; Rialto, storm, .19, season, .90; Highland, storm, .16, season, .57.

SAN DIEGO COUNTY.

San Diego.

SAN DIEGO (Cal.) Oct. 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The first heavy rainfall of the season began at 7:30 o'clock last night and continued at intervals until 2 o'clock this afternoon, when the skies cleared. Fair weather now prevails. For the twenty-four hours ending at 5 o'clock this afternoon the total precipitation was .75 of an inch; total for the season, .95 of an inch. This time last year the precipitation was only .02 of an inch.

The storm just ended was general throughout the county. In the mountain districts the rainfall was no heavier than in the city. The rain came from the southeast and swept northward. While the rain locally was the heaviest last night, it did not reach Oceanside and Escondido until this morning. No damage is reported.

RIVERSIDE COUNTY.

Riverside District.

RIVERSIDE, Oct. 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Rain fell today throughout Riverside county, drenching the orange orchards and putting the ground in good condition for plowing, in grain sections. The precipitation was general throughout the county. The storm began shortly before noon and continued steadily for several hours. In Riverside the fall measured .28 of an inch for the day; season's precipitation, .46 of an inch. The fall in Corona for the day amounted to .32; season, .39; San Jacinto, .31 for day, .59 for season.

Corona.

CORONA, Oct. 14.—Practically the first rain of the season fell here this afternoon. A thunderstorm was followed by copious showers, precipitation, .32 of an inch.

SANTA BARBARA COUNTY.

Santa Barbara.

SANTA BARBARA, Oct. 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Several slight showers this afternoon, which registered only .06 of an inch and proved unpleasant for the bean and walnut farmers who are now in the midst of their harvest.

Reports from all over the country show that there was no heavy rainfall but the indications here are that a southeast storm will strike before daylight. The barometer has dropped from 30.50 to 29.75 in twenty-four hours and a stiff breeze southeast by east is blowing.

SETBACK.

RAIN ON RUINS STOPS WORK.

BELIEF GROWS THAT 'ALL THE BODIES ARE OUT.

Deluge of Water From Skies Makes Pit a Mud Hole, in Which It is Impossible to Work to Advantage. Wreckage Slippery and Dangerous to Handle.

As the work on the ruins of the dynamited and burned Times Building goes on the opinion that all the bodies of the victims have been recovered gains in strength. Though the searching of the wreckage is prosecuted as carefully as ever in the suspected places, not even a fragment or a trinket has come to light for three days.

While the officials in charge of the work strongly incline to the belief that all the bodies have been recovered, there will be no abatement of the vigor of the search until all parts of the death pit have been searched.

For the first time since the catastrophe the work on the ruins was suspended yesterday while there was still light to see. The rain, which fell almost uninterruptedly during the afternoon, made the pit a mudhole in which it was impossible to work to advantage. The wet steel of the heavier pieces of wreckage were so slippery that the operation of the crane became extremely dangerous and it was abandoned about 3 o'clock.

Yesterday's progress demonstrated conclusively that there is nothing more to be found in the ruins of the make-up room or in the surface wreckage overlying the great presses in the basement. All of this has been very thoroughly explored and the greater part of the debris removed bodily.

Today the attention of the workmen will be turned to the Baumgardt alley, the last of the places where it has been thought that a body might be concealed. Though the work will be greatly hampered by the soaking of the rubbish it is thought that Contractor Ramish's prediction that the next two days will see the conclusion of the search will be easily verified.

HITS AGED WHEELMAN.

Unknown Automobilist Strikes and Knocks Down Man Who is Over Eighty Years Old.

Although more than 80 years of age, J. A. Barrows of 238 West Jefferson street, one of the pioneers of Southern California, rode a bicycle until he was knocked down by an automobile at the corner of Jefferson street and Grand avenue Thursday evening. He was taken to his home, suffering from abrasions and bruises about the hands and right knee, but more seriously from shock which, at his advanced age, is causing his friends and family much concern.

Mr. Barrows was one of the first white settlers in this section. He came to Los Angeles about sixty years ago and has lived here continuously ever since. Notwithstanding his years, he is well preserved, and some hope for his recovery is based on his vigorous constitution.

The accident was not reported to the police until yesterday evening, when a young man called at the station and gave the facts to Lieut Murray, saying that Mr. Barrows was pedalling along Jefferson street, when an automobile bearing the number 38317 made a wide sweep around the corner to avoid the torn up car tracks and struck the aged bicyclist. The automobilist stopped his car and asked a few questions as to the old man's injury, but failed to make any report to the police, as required by law.

FINDS THE LEAK WITH A MATCH.

STRONG EXPLOSION SHOWS HE HAS LOCATED IT.

Boy, Severely Burned by the Blow-up, Makes Light of His Sufferings and Jokes About Bandages While Mother Stands by His Side at the Hospital.

Looking with a lighted match for a leak in a gas pipe, Arthur Simmons, a 12-year-old lad, living at No. 660 Wall street, caused a gas explosion in which he was all but fatally burned last evening, while every window in the big two-story building was blown out. At the sound of the explosion, one of the neighbors hurriedly sent in a fire alarm, but the gas did not set fire to the house and the damage was slight.

The boy lives with his mother in rooms, the house being owned by Mrs. Breenker and occupied as a lodging house by Mrs. M. C. Galloway. Arthur, an enterprising youngster, detected an odor of gas and went to look for the leak. Where he smelled gas the strongest, he lighted a match. There was a blinding flash, and the next instant the boy had been hurled to the floor and was screaming with pain, his clothing ablaze.

So great was the force of the explosion, that every window pane in the room occupied by Mrs. Simmons was blown out, although there were two closed doors between herself and the boy. The affrighted mother rushed to the assistance of her child, and Arthur was taken to the Receiving hospital with all possible haste. He bravely sought to conceal his suffering for the sake of his mother, and in the hospital there was never a murmur from him while the surgeons and nurses cut a ring from one of his badly burned hands and dressed his face, neck, shoulders and arms, all smarting severely from first and second degree burns.

"Huh, look, mamma, I got a pair of boxing gloves now," chuckled the little man when his hands had been swathed in oiled bandages. And, in order to further reassure the trembling little mother at his side, he took a playful poke at the face of a newspaper man who bent over him, deliberately winking at the reporter the while, as if to say, "Don't mind it, old chap; I just want to make her believe this is fun."

TO GIVE FIRST AID.

All Patrolman Will be Equipped and Instructed to Look After the Injured Persons.

Within thirty days, says Police Surgeon Zerfing, every patrolman on the Los Angeles force will have added to his equipment a neat little package containing everything necessary for the givining of "first aid to the injured." Incidentally, they will also have been supplied with information derived from practical demonstrations as to the proper way to apply treatment to such minor accidents as may come under their notice on their various beats.

Six hundred of the little packages have been ordered, though so far only sixty have arrived. Each one contains three carefully sterilized gauze compresses, three cambric bandages of the same description, one triangular bandage and the necessary safety pins.

When the idea of making amateur surgeons of the patrolmen was first conceived, it was planned to place the necessary materials at some convenient place on each man's beat. This, however, has been discarded in favor of the personal and portable equipment. It is thought that by their use the necessity of taking many minor cases to the Receiving Hospital will be in a large measure obviated.

VARICOCELE-HYDROCELE

Varicocele causes more human wrecks than any most other diseases of man. Those wormy, congested veins of stagnant blood sap up human vitality and destroy manly vigor. It is responsible for poor development of the parts and denies strength to other wise healthy men. A few days at most is all I require to effect a cure. Not months or months of endless doctoring. You do not lose any time. A few days and you are cured.

My treatment for hydrocele is entirely my own and is entirely painless. No pain whatever and have no after trouble

QUORUM HOPE OF COMMITTEE.

WATER DISCUSSION POSTPONED BECAUSE IT RAINED.

Hope of Chairman Now is Members May Get Out Next Friday Night and Do Something—Alleged Beer Peddlers Arrested in Pasadena—Y.W.C.A. Home Dedicated.

(Bureau of The Times, 28 S. Raymond Ave.)

PASADENA, Oct. 15.—Anticipating the first real business meeting of the Board of Trade Water Committee which was called for last night, Jupiter Pluvius opened the flood-gates of the heavens yesterday afternoon and gave the Crown City such a drenching that so many members were kept from attending the meeting that there was no quorum and consequently no business.

After sitting around for an hour and a half talking about the fine rain and the great good it will do, Chairman Magee and seven of his faithful assistants "listed" their umbrellas and went home.

"This committee puts me in mind of the man down in Arkansas," remarked Chairman Magee. "He had no roof on his house, and when a neighbor asked him why he never put a roof on his house, he said, 'When it rains I can't, and when it don't rain, I don't need a roof.' So it looks as though the people here don't want to talk about the water question when it is raining, but when it is dry as a bone then every one talks water.

"I hope we will be able to get a quorum at the next meeting. I may call a special meeting for next Friday night because I believe we should get busy with this matter. We have been fooling along several years, and now we have a chance to do something."

E. F. Scattergood, a member of the committee, was present for the first time since he joined and entertained the few who were out by a short history of the Owens River and the attitude of the Los Angeles people regarding the distribution of the surplus water from the aqueduct.

He stated that the people of that city are not in favor of giving any of the water in perpetuity to districts outside of the corporate limits of Los Angeles; that Los Angeles is not trying to force Pasadena to annex in any form, but that unless Pasadena becomes a part of Greater Los Angeles the people there are not in favor of giving up the water.

NEW HOME DEDICATED.

The Pasadena Young Woman's Christian Association is now officially installed in the new home, No. 73 North Marengo avenue. During the afternoon yesterday a reception was given by the directors but, on account of the rain storm, but few were out. Last night the directors stated that the home will be open all day today so that those who are interested may come and inspect the buildings.

The address of the evening at the dedicatory servicer was by Dr. J. A. B. Scherer. Tomorrow afternoon the first of the Sunday afternoon vesper services will be given and will be continued throughout the winter. At the services tomorrow addresses will be delivered by Mrs. J. A. B. Scherer, Mrs. Lash, Miss Stevens and Miss Lanby.

ALLEGED BEER PEDDLERS.

Charged with selling beer in violation of the city charter Herman Hoeppner and E. E. Erickson were arrested yesterday by Police Captain Copping on a warrant sworn out by Chief of Police Wood. The legal end of the matter is in the hands of City Attorney Carr who stated last night that the arrest of the men has been under consideration a long time. Day before yesterday some one telephoned to Hoeppner instructing him to deliver a case of beer to the home of Capt. Copping. Within a short time the beer was delivered and paid for.

In this way Hoeppner was arrested and charged with being nothing more than a retail beer peddler and not an authorized representative of a brewery. It is alleged that Hoeppner owns and maintains a beer storage house on Bellevue avenue near Fair Oaks avenue where he keeps a half carload of beer on hand to supply customers. This is alleged to be in violation of the provisions of the charter which states that only authorized delivery-men of the breweries can deliver beer in Pasadena under existing laws. The police aver that they have much evidence to the effect that the men arrested are not in reality the delivery-men employed as such by the breweries and consequently are violating the laws. Both men were released on bail and will appear for trial before Justice McDonald this morning.

This action is believed to be the culmination of numerous threats which have been made by various prohibition organizations for some time. They have stated in public that the indiscriminate selling of beer and other liquors in Pasadena must be stopped. A few weeks ago Councilman Cattell stated in open Council meeting that the city is much in need of a cleaning and that he is in favor of such a move. What the outcome of the matter is as yet a matter of speculation and the trial this morning promises to be an interesting proceeding.

ALLIGATOR PEARS PLENTIFUL.

The Pasadena mesa has been found particularly adapted to the raising of that rare combination flavored fruit known as alligator pears or avocado. Avocado is a foreign name and does not signify much to the average American but alligator pear carries with it a watery mouth for just a bite of the best fruit grown in Southern California. During the past few years many of these trees have been set out and are doing nicely. Many of the older trees are now in good bearing.

H. E. Huntington has a large number of alligator pear trees on his magnificent estate. Albert Calkins of Altadena also has several trees which are well filled with fruit this fall. The tree most familiar to the public is the one in Library Park.

NEWS NOTES.

The Pasadena Audubon Society held an interesting meeting last night at the home of Mrs. Fussell, No. 834 East Walnut street. The storm kept many of the members away but the meeting was an enthusiastic one and highly enjoyed by those present.

George W. Stimson was yesterday elected a director in the Union National Bank to fill a vacancy on the board. His name will add much to the strength of the bank. The other directors are C. W. Gates, E. S. Gosney, C. W. Smith, L. R. Macy, T. P. Phillips, H. J. Stuart and E. H. Groenendyke.

Dr. F. J. Smith of San Diego, who has recently been elected as the medical examiner for the public schools of that city, spent yesterday in Pasadena looking into the recently installed medical department of the Pasadena public school. He stated that he was well pleased with his trip and that his city will likely adopt the same system as that used in Pasadena.

A number of the members of the First Universalist Church on North Raymond avenue have been notified to meet at the church next Monday night and vote on the selection of a pastor to fill the vacancy made by the resignation of Rev. Dr. Dunham who will soon become pastor of a church in Oak Park, Ill. The name of the Rev. Dr. Barcesford of Cincinnati, Ohio, will be considered. It is understood several other noted preachers will be considered.

Weather Observer Sorver received word yesterday that the United States Weather Bureau at Washington has shipped to him one of the latest models of hydrographs for use in measuring the humidity in the atmosphere at Pasadena. Sorver states that he will not install it in the "dry tract" because everyone knows there is not even any water there, let alone humidity in the air.

Rev. Dr. Robert J. Burdette will deliver his lecture "Shakespeare in Cap and Bells," before the members of the Shakespeare Club this afternoon. It is the first time Dr. Burdette has ever delivered this lecture in Pasadena.

A charming affair of yesterday afternoon was the entertainment given by Mrs. Charles H. Ward at her home, No. 285 South Marengo avenue, in honor of her house guests Mrs. Thomas and Miss Helen Ward of Des Moines, Iowa.

Miss Elizabeth McMeechen entertained a number of friends at her home, No. 523 Oakland avenue, yesterday afternoon in honor of Miss Mildred Harrah.

The first meeting of the season for the Altadena Woman's Circle was held yesterday afternon at the home of Mrs. Hampton L. Story who is the new president. FALLS WITH POLE.

Man Seriously Injured in South Pasadena While Engaged With Trolley Line Wires.

SOUTH PASADENA, Oct. 14.—James Cochran of No. 1080 Fair Oaks avenue, Pasadena, was the victim of a serious accident this morning. While engaged in adjusting the entangled wires on one of the poles of the Pacific Electric Railway's system at the corner of Mission and Meridian streets. He was strapped to the pole. The pole broke and he was thrown to the ground with the heavy stick of wood on top of him.

He suffered the loss of several teeth a large gash on the chin and his nose was much lacerated. On investigation of Dr. Rose it was found he was also suffering from internal injuries. He was removed to the Crocker-street Hospital in Los Angeles. The cause of the collapse of the pole was due to its rotten condition immediately under the surface of the ground. The weight of his body while at work caused it to fall.

At the first rally and second meeting of the high school student body held this week, Clark Swan spoke on "The Student's Share in School Activities." Ruth Johnson spoke on "Some Essentials for School Spirit." Out of an enrollment of 170, the largest in the history of the high school, not one pupil has withdrawn in the first month. Gas plates have been installed in the domestic science room.

Plans are being prepared for a new Congregational Church edifice at Oneonta Park. Pending the plans for construction the Congregationalists, seventy-five in number in this community, are holding services at the residence of the pastor, Rev. Curtis Meserve on Electric avenue, who was the pastor of the Plymouth Congregational Church of San Francisco for the past seven years.

STARTS SEASON ACTIVELY.

Crescent Bay Women's Club Elects Officers—Laborers Are Wanted at the Seashore.

OCEAN PARK, Oct. 14.—The Crescent Bay Women's Club organization has started upon a season of activity that will be projected through the winter months. At the Thursday afternoon session Mrs. Jane Lippincott of Los Angeles was the speaker. She took the Owens River aqueduct as her subject. Officers were elected for the ensuing term as follows: Mrs. William Anderson, president; Mrs. C. H. Rundle, vice-president; Mrs. H. J. Slater, recording secretary; Mrs. C. E. Maskimen, corresponding secretary; Mrs. C. M. Shissler, treasurer; Mrs. C. H. Ritchie, Mrs. H. C. Burmister, Mrs. F. A. Higgens, Mrs. R. J. Dwyer, Mrs. Sherman Page, Katherine Ruff, directors.

A shortage is reported in the local supply of common laborers. One contractor today found it impossible to add a half-dozen men to his force, although he is paying $2.50 per day. Another employer, who is engaged in making excavations for new buildings, wants twenty workers. The demand has arisen through the starting of a number of new houses. When some of the municipal work that is in contemplation is well under way there will be a still greater demand, and there are indications that there will be unusual activity in the building trades throughout the entire winter.

HARD TO FIGURE.

Question of Local Trolley Line's Part of Business Bothers in Santa Monica Reckoning.

SANTA MONICA, Oct. 14.—The city is once more beginning to make inquiry in an endeavor to discover how it stands with the Los Angeles Pacific trolley line in the matter of compensation for the franchise granted more than two years ago. The franchise provided that annually the company should pay into the city treasury 2 per cent. of the gross receipts of the North Loop line, but, although two years have passed, no payments have been made. The former franchise contained a similar provision, and, as the line in question is a part of the general system, considerable difficulty was experienced in arriving at a basis upon which to settle with satisfaction to both parties.

Mrs. Mary S. Abbott, who died last night at the Third-street home of her sister, Mrs. C. E. Phelps, was a resident at Maricopa, Ariz. She was 74 years of age and had been spending some time as the guest of her relatives here. She was a member of the Episcopal Church and a number of years ago made her home in Los Angeles and at this beach.

The Santa Monica and Whittier football teams are slated to try conclusions here tomorrow afternoon. The game will be played on the Utah-avenue gridiron.

The Sunday afternoon baseball game will be between the Santa Monicas and the Broadway Merchants of Los Angeles. The visiting team is understood to be composed of league players and bushers who are not at this time attached to any of the Pacific Coast league teams. A sharp contest is looked for. Santa Monica has lost but two games in a total of twenty-one played and is strong for the contest.

CAPITALIST BUYS SHOW HOUSE AT LONG BEACH.

Court Grants Continuance in the Julia Ward Gibson Case—Salt Lake Promises New Short Line. Boy Touches Lawn Mower and Loses Tip of Finger.

LONG BEACH, Oct. 14.—W. Greer Campbell, who three days ago leased the Meyers' residence on the bluff opposite Bixby Park, purchased the place today. The price is understood to be $100,000, which is considered a sacrifice, the house alone cost more than that, the land is valued at $40,000. Marital troubles which left Mr. Meyers alone in his big home probably influenced the sale.

The site was purchased in 1907, and the residence begun a few weeks later. It is of smooth-faced stone and brick with red tile roof, Italian renaissance style and contains twelve rooms and suites. The entire house is finished in quarter-sawed white oak, mahogany and pine. The grounds are beautiful. A miniature lake in sunken gardens back of the house is one of the features. In addition there is a garage large enough for two touring cars and quarters for the chaffeur.

Mr. Campbell is a capitalist who divides his time between London, Long Beach and Mexico, being interested in the latter country to the extent of about $5,000,000 worth. At present Mr. Campbell and wife are quartered at the Munholland, but expect to take possession of their new home at once.

Because of his inability to be present today Earl Rogers this morning was granted a continuance until next Tuesday in the preliminary hearing of Miss Julia Ward Gibson, who is alleged to have threatened A. D. Meyers, Wednesday evening, with a gun because he refused to marry her. Miss Gibson is in the County Jail unable to furnish a bond of $3,000

NEW SHORT LINE.

Replying to a delegation of citizens who complained of the annoyance caused by Salt Lake trains passing their houses at Ocean and Alamitos avenues, Vice-president Clark is quoted as saying that the Salt Lake is preparing to abandon its Ocean avenue trackage and build a new short line on its right-of-way from Burnett to East San Pedro, passing across the city north of the Anaheim road.

SHORTENS WIFE'S LIFE.

C. M. Inskeep, who died at the County Hospital of alcoholism, was a former Long Beach citizen. His wife committed suicide three years ago by drinking carbolic acid, due to her husband's habits. A year and a half ago, he was sent to Patton.

George Fremlin, living on Henderson avenue in the northwestern section of the city, in a letter to the City Council writes that he loves city privileges, but objects to being compelled to remove his shoes and socks and wade through sixty feet of water to reach a mail box. Henderson street is a creek from last night's rain.

CHASES PEEPING TOM.

Detecting a man peeping into his home last night, James Holland, living at No. 805 Pine avenue, chased the fellow two blocks, barefooted and in his pajamas, but the Peeping Tom was too fleet. Holland was able to give the police a good description of him.

The Y.M.C.A. has selected Arthur D. Prindle of Chicago, to succeed Fred Thomson as physical director. Prindle is an athlete of Beloit Academy and the Lawrence University at Appleton, Wis. Last year he was physical director of the Y.M.C.A. South Side Boys' Club of Chicago. He will reach here October 20, and Thomson expects to leave for Princeton on the same day. Prindle is 22 years old, five feet, eleven inches in heighth and weighs 160 pounds.

CITY DEBT ISSUES UPHELD BY LARGE VOTE.

Sewer Project, Amounting to One Hundred and Twenty Thousand Dollars, and Water Proposition, of Fifty Thousand Dollars, Are Authorized by Large Majorities.

MONROVIA, Oct. 14.—Reverberating horns and sirens shrillinh at highest pitch announced at 7 o'clock tonight the success of the $120,000 sewer bond and $50,000 water bond election.

The poll was the largest ever recorded in a bond election, 499 votes being cost. The affiramative ballot for the sewer proposition was 368; for water system improvements 396. The change in sentiment since the sewer bonds were defeated a year ago is due to good campaigning and adequate presentation of the matter by the Board of Trade.

The funds accruing from the sale of the water bonds will be used for the extension and enlargement of mains to render available the entire water supply owned by the city. A contingent purposes is the completion of the fire protection system.

Plans for the sewer system were prepared two years ago by Olmsted and Gillelen of Los Angeles. Provision is made for sewerage of the whole city and contiguous areas that will later come within corporate limits. The $120,000 will suffice for the construction, septic tanks, and sewer farm. As all grades have been established and other preliminaries completed, actual construction may begin as soon as the sale of the bonds has been effected.

Notwithstanding that the municipality owns its water system and that nine-tenths of all street improvements are completed, bonds voted for civec betterments in the last six months, including $120,000 for a high school, aggregate $300,000.

A CORRECTION.

In the advertisement of the Franklin Automobile, in last Sunday's Pink Sheet, through an error the prices were wrongly quoted. That of Model "D" should have been $2650 instead of $2850; that of Model "M" should have been $2350 instead of $2250. The price of Model "G," $2100, was correct. There has been no reduction in the price of Franklin cars.

COVINA, Oct. 14.—The Chamber of Commerce and the Covina Valley Farmer's club will tomorrow (Saturday) entertain Prof. R. R. Snowden, soil chemist of Los Angeles. Dr. Snowden will arrive here at 8 o'clock, and will be taken through the valley in search of causes for variegated or mottled leaf in citrus trees. He will address the Farmers' club at 2:30 this afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Berry, on Badillo avenue.

I. V. Degree, formerly a locomotive fireman, who has been working on orange ranches here, shot himself in the left foot on Wednesday morning, inflicting a wound that necessitated amputation, by Dr. Atkinson. The man was hunting jack-rabbits, and accidently discharged the gun while attempting to locate a trouble with the mechanism.

The Charter Oak school is receiving attention this year in school circles because of its remarkable attendance. Out of an enrollment of 84 there has been an average attendence of 80. The school building is inadequate and will be enlarged, or a new one erected. Prof. J. J. Morgan, supervising principal, states that already he has difficulty in seating the high chool scholars at the new Union building. The growth of the community has been so remarkable that all schools, with the exception of the Lark Ellen, are ever-crowded.

Strike Threatened at San Diego Because Contractor Hires a Free Worker—Unionites Ready to Tie Up Construction—Court Amends Order in Julia P. Quinn Case.

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 14.—Mismated couples in San Diego are on the increase. For the three months ending September 30, twenty-five final decrees were entered on the judgment docket of the Superior Court. For the previous quarter, only seventeen decrees were entered.

In most of the cases disposed of the last quarter, decrees were granted the wives, the charges generally being cruelty and failure to provide. In a majority of the cases where the husband was plaintiff, decrees were given on statutory grounds. The figures quoted are from the County Clerk's report to the State Bureau of Statistics.

STRIKE THREATENED.

Because the contractor on the Crane Hotel building hired a non-union carpenter, labor unions threaten to tie up construction of the entire building, which is to be a steel frame structure of eleven stories. Complaint of the Carpenters' Union is to be investigated by the Federated Trades Council.

AMENDS COURT ORDER.

Judge Lewis of the Superior Court, yesterday granted a motion amending his order of September 29, bearing on the Julia P. Quinn habeas corpus case, by which the word "imprisonment" is eliminated, and other minor changes made.

The motion was made by Wright, Schoonover & Winnek, counsel for Katherine Tingley. As the order now stands, Mrs. Tingley's name is in no way connected with the case, so far as the alleged restraint of Julia P. Quinn is concerned. The court order shows that Mrs. Quinn was discharged from the custody of Dr. Lorin F. Wood, physician to Mrs. Quinn. The latter is now at the home of relatives in Newcastle, Pa.

FIGHTS FOR ESTATE.

Santa Ana Youth Begins Legal Battle Against Two Uncles and An Aunt.

SANTA ANA, Oct. 14.—Arthur Roy MacDonald, aged 20, has begun a fight in the Superior Court against his uncles, E. H. and D. F. Markel, and aunt, Mrs. Nellie Arper, for possession of the $25,000 estate left by his grandmother, Mrs. Lucy J. Devonshire, who committed suicide on June 17. MacDonald, through his guardian ad litem, W. T. Brown, today brought suit to quiet title to the property that his relatives declare belongs to Mrs. Devonshire's estate. According to MacDonald's story, there would be no question as to his rights had not Mrs. Devonshire, while mentally deranged a few days before she cut her throat, destroyed a deed and bill of sale transferring the property to him.

A $20,000 orchard at Placentia . . . a part of the wealth concerned.

The complaint states that MacDonald, an orphaned grandson of Mrs. Devonshire, was raised by her and her husband, by whom she had no children. Before the husband died two years ago it was agreed by him that he would transfer the property, which he owned before his marriage to the then Mrs. Markel, to his wife for use during her lifetime, the property to go to Arthur on her death. Papers to carry out this arrangement were made out, and left with the First National Bank of Fullerton.

OFFER REJECTED.

GLENDALE, Oct. 14.—The city trustees have rejected the offer made by General Manager McMillan of the Pacific Electric Railway Company to the effect that as the engineers representing both could not come to a satisfactory understanding as to the establishments of crossings over the company's tracks at certain streets, the latter be allowed to install temporary crossings. The company volunteered, in putting in the crossing, to do all the work at its own expense, and on a trial basis, In declining, the city comes back with a counter offer, to the effect that if the company furnishes the material the city will do the work of putting in temporary crossings. The city also asks the company to deed it the necessary land for street crossings on Brand boulevard at Lomita avenue, Maple avenue, and the westerly prolongation of Ninth street, stating that the question of crossing is a proposition separate from that of grade.

I am the only specialist in Los Angeles who is sole owner of his office and equipment, who does not advertise a fictitious name and photograph.

I publish my true photograph, correct name, personally conduct my office. I am the longest established, most successful and reliable, as medical credentials and press records prove. I make this statement so that you will know you consult a celebrated Specialist, who cures and treats patients personally. I possess skill and experience, acquired in such a way that no other can share, and should not be classed with medical quacks. Experience is the safe standard by which judgment may be valued, and it is unwise and expensive to embrace the statements of medical companies. It is impossible for a medical company to attend college. Companies have no diploma or license to practice medicine in California or any other State. Medical companies usually are named after a doctor. A portrait, whose personality and identity are indefinite, is selected and published as the legitimate specialist of the office. Hired substitutes, ordinary doctors with questionable ability, give consultation, examination and treatment.

A thorough investigation should be made by every ailing man as to the specialist he consults. Duty owed one's self and those who depend upon you demand the best medical attention. I have the ability and I can give you this service. I have always charged a very reasonable fee, so that my services may be obtained by any man who sincerely desires to be cured. I make no misleading statements or misleading like propositions; neither do I desire to be particularly independent, and I would like to have you for a patient, if you will come to me on a strictly professional basis, and the inducements that I offer, which are my ability and thirty years' successful experience, Time-Saving Treatment; and Guarantee of cure of certain Diseases cured to stay cured.

NO MONEY REQUIRED TO COMMENCE TREATMENT. Many patients have no confidence in their doctor, because he demands pay before a cure has been effected, and there are many who have been misinformed about their condition, or through unsuccessful treatment have become skeptical and think there is no cure for them. I want an opportunity to treat such cases. It makes no difference about the financial part, as I accept pay for my services as benefits are derived, when I am satisfied the patient is reliable. Health is capital at interest. I will prove my ability to cure you before asking pay for my professional services. Established 1888.

KRAPP HOLDS VISITORS DOWN TO FIVE HITS.

CRIGER IS HAMMERED FREELY FOR LONG SWATS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PORTLAND, Oct. 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The fact that Portland hit the ball consistently coupled with the errors made by the Southerners gave Portland another shut-out game against Los Angeles today, thereby making seventy-six consecutive innings played without a run against the Beavers.

Krapp pitched a steady game, allowing only five hits and giving but two bases on balls. He did not allow a hit until the fifth inning. Two of the hits obtained off him were made in the ninth inning. Although the errors made by Los Angeles players helped in the scoring, it was the hitting prowess of the Beaver band that won the game, a total of twelve hits being made by Portland, including several extra base wallops.

Hardly an inning passed but what Portland had men on bases. Afetr the locals had hammered Criger, who had beaten Portland the last time the Los Angeles team was here, for several runs, Wheeler, who had played nearly every position on the team at one time or another, went into the box and Portland treated him rather unceremoniously by bunching hits for three more runs. Nagle took Wheeler's place at first base. Bernard had to retire from the game in the third inning and Speckert went to right field.

The ball tolled for Portland in the first inning after two men were out, although no hits were made. The run was made by virtue of two bases on balls and Wheeler's error.

In the fourth an error allowed Rapps to get safely to first. Casey bunted safely and Murray sacrificed, advancing both men. Krapp hit a bouncing grounder through short-stop on which Rapps and Casey scored. Krapp going to second from whence he went to third on Ryan's sacrifice. Olson bunted safely and stole second. Krapp then tried to steal home but was caught at the plate.

Two more runs were scored in the seventh. After Olson was out Kruger was safe on an error and Sheehan sent him home with a long three ply hit to deep center field. Rapps then advanced an infield hit over the pitcher's head, on which Sheehan scored. Ort flew out to Delmas at deep short field.

In the eighth inning Buddy Ryan hit to deep center field for a home run. Daley fielded the sphere but threw wide to third base and before it could be relayed to the plate Ryan scored. Los Angeles tried hard to start a batting rally in the ninth inning, but their efforts proved only a flash in the pan. Daley hit to left but Oredorff and Howard flew to Ort and Ryan respectively, but Nagle hit to right, Ort holding the runners to one base. "Rusher" Kennedy, over whom a scrabble has been taking place down South was an easy out, Casey to Rapps, and the game ended.

Score by innings:

Los Angeles	0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—0
Portland	1 0 0 2 0 0 2 1 x—6

In the first session Cutshaw and Camnitz set themselves down for a couple of errors each, and, although Ralph Willis pitched good ball, the loose support at first and second gave the game to San Francisco, 4 to 3.

Olson was at his best in the second game, allowing only three hits, which were not recorded until the last three innings. Browning was taken out after he had been found for nine safeties, which gave Oakland the trio of tallies. Hastley finished the game. Score, first game:

RAIN PREVENTS GAME.

DOUBLE HEADER TODAY.

Owing to the rain of Thursday night the Vernon ball ground was not in shape for playing yesterday and the scheduled Vernon-Sacramento game was called off. To make up for this a double header is announced for the Chutes Park grounds this afternoon. The first game to begin at 1:45 o'clock. A double-header is also announced for Monday afternoon at the Chutes. One of the Monday games is on the schedule and the other one is to be played to decide a tie game that the two teams played here some weeks since.

BIG SCOUT HERE.

KENNEDY VISITS US.

Sam Kennedy, scout for the Cleveland American League team, arrived in this city yesterday morning to look at the Vernon and Sacramento ball players but, of course, could not see them in action on account of the rain. Kennedy has no particular business here except to continue his trip around the circuit. He saw the other teams play in the north and wanted to look these two over.

He was particularly interested in the work of Krapp, Gregg, Olson and Fisher of the Portland team, for these good men belong to Cleveland. Krapp belonged to Cleveland this year, but was allowed to remain with Portland.

M'CREDIE BACKS UP.

DENIES CROOKED STORY.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Walter McCredie, in a personal dispatch to Judge Graham, states absolutely that he said in an interview that the Pacific Coast League was crooked or that he said it would remain crooked until the present officers were ousted.

This denial, however, does not close the incident. President Graham is determined to get to the bottom of the matter and will endeavor to ascertain who was the man who quoted McCredie and just what the manager of the Beavers said.

"We are going to find out who is who," declared the judge tonight. "McCredie says he made no such statements as were credited to him and now I want to see what the reporter has to say."

The telegram from McCredie came to Judge Graham this afternoon and reads as follows:

PORTLAND, Oct. 14.—Judge Thomas F. Graham, San Francisco, Cal., I can't see why I should be quoted as you wire as our papers have not quoted me so. I deny the same. We are still hustling to keep up. Of course, we are disappointed in your decision. The judge is doing the talking for both of us and he is capable. As to Van (Van Haltren)—all I have to say is what I wrote you some time ago. I am sorry same has appeared. I have been close mouthed in this matter, though sick.

[Signed] WALTER H. McCREDIE.

The reference to Van Haltren is in regard to another matter, being a protest by McCredie to the president that the umpire changed his decision in a game on the Oakland grounds.

"The fact that McCredie denies that he made any such statement," declared Judge Graham, "does not stop the investigation. The article referred to was published under special date line from Portland in two San Francisco papers and I want to get at the bottom of it."

LIFE-SAVER AND BRIDE'S FAMILY TO BE RECONCILED.

Friends of St. Louis Woman, Being Sued by Son-in-Law, Who Eloped With Her Daughter, Believe Differences Should Be Settled—Attorneys and Parish Priest Confer.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 14. [Exclusive Dispatch.] That a reconciliation is probable in the near future between Mrs. Helen O'Brien Howland, St. Louis heiress, and her husband, John A. Howland, the Jersey life-saver, with whom she eloped last August and who is now suing his mother-in-law for $100,000 damages for alienating his wife's affections, is the belief of friends of the couple.

A conference lasting an hour and a half was held today in the office of C. Porter Johnson, attorney for Howland, Johnson, John S. Leahy, attorney for the O'Brien family, and Father O'Rourke, the O'Brien's parish priest, who has interested himself in the case from the first, taking part.

These men agreed, it is said, that a reconciliation will be the best move, if it can be effected. Friends of Howland say the damage suit may never come to trial, believing a reconciliation will be effected. They say Howland does not want the O'Brien's money but that he is in love with his wife and wishes to have her relatives cease their efforts to separate him from her.

WIFE SLAYER HAS SON.

Chicago Young Man Who Shoots Mate, Freed Six Years, Remarries in Interim.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Information that Victor Roland O'Shea, who is soon to be put on trial for the fourth time for the murder of his wife, Amy Hogenson O'Shea, has a new wife and tiny son reached the State's Attorney's office today. A remarkable situation has developed. O'Shea, who has never denied that he shot and killed his young wife, to whom he had been secretly married, has had his freedom for six years.

The fact that he was held in bonds of $25,000 to answer to the charge of having killed his first wife, did not compel young O'Shea to lead the life of a recluse.

Amy Hogenson, his first wife, was the daughter of E. Hogenson, a wealthy business man. Her brother, Ralph Hogenson, was a famous athlete and star runner at the University of Chicago.

O'Shea went to the Hogenson home on September 15, 1902, and during a quarrel, shot and instantly killed his wife.

ALL LIES, SAYS BEAM.

Young San Franciscan and His Wife, Oregon Singer, Declare They Were Not Estranged.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PORTLAND, Oct. 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Matrimonial differences of Willard Metchalfe Beam a young clubman of the smart set of San Francisco, and nephew of former Secretary of the Navy Metcalfe and his wife Mrs. Mary Adele Case Feam, sweet singer of Oregon City and Portland, if they ever had any matrimonial differences, have been settled, a reconciliation has been effected and all is harmony.

"Those were all lies that were published in Portland and San Francisco about my wife and myself," said Beam indignantly. "We never had any trouble, my wife did not run away from me, so I could not have been chasing her to get her back, and I did not say at any time that we were having trouble. I don't know who could have manufactured them or what the motive could have been. The report that I have squandered my fortune on Mrs. Beam is a lie too. I have not done so nor have I asked my mother for money."

When San Francisco press dispatches were published declaring the couple had parted, Mrs. Beam refused to affirm or deny them, she now joins with her husband in declaring that all is peace between them.

FIRE VICTIM HOLDS DOLL.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 14.—Clasping the frame of a doll in her arms, the charred body of 10-year-old Lillian Simons, one of the inmates of the Catholic Orphans' Home, which was burned to the ground early last Sunday morning, was found by workmen engaged in clearing away the debris today.

While the fire was at its height the nuns in charge of the institution heroically marshalled their charges in the corridors. It was not until today that the absence of the Simons girl was noticed. Just after the matter had been reported to the police, the girl's body was found. The girl entered the institution from Reno, Nev.

RELIGIOUS.

CROWDING FOR FIRST PLACE.

BIG SUNDAY-SCHOOL GOES UP NEARER THE TOP.

LIFE WORK OF A PHENOMENAL SUPERINTENDENT.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH TO BE DEDICATED.

Among the vital and active organizations of the city note must be taken of the great Sunday-school of the First Methodist Episcopal Church, now rapidly forging ahead toward world-leadership. In Methodism, the Los Angeles school has been second largest in the world for several years, and about fifth as compared with all denominations. This year it has more than held its own, and is propably a notch nearer the top, in the latter class, and is crowding Brooklyn for first place in the Methodist class. Late reports are not yet at hand, and the standing cannot be verified.

Dr. H. W. Brodbeck was elected superintendent of the school for the twenty-first time, at the annual meeting held last night, a most remarkable record, and in his report gave the following figures: Enrollment, 3382, a gain of 373, as compared with Oct. 1, 1909, and the school has 120 officers and teachers. He also calls attention to the fact that the enrollment of every class is carefully revised at the end of each month and therefore there is no "deadwood" on the rolls, and he has set the stakes for 4000 in 1911. Speaking upon this subject, Dr. Brodbeck said:

"Our school does not grow through the medium of sporadic contests, but must, as it ever has, depend wholly upon the careful, tactful management; the unbiased loyalty and purpose, and the intense living of the Christ-life, by the teacher."

He shows that during the year, 1011 new scholars were enrolled, and 628 withdrawn. He further says:

"The ideal of the greater church, for which so many men and women are giving unlimited thought and energy, is an utter impossibility if its roots are not buried deep into the child-life of the Sunday-school. This is the Golden Age when men and women of intellect are mutually striving to understand child development and the laws that control its nurture. Here is the beginning of conservation; for the getting of life for God in the beginning, and the holding of it to him until the end; is the supreme opportunity for the development of spiritual life.

"God has many times for work, but the best time comes but once, and to be a true superintendent of a department, or the teacher of a class of alert, eager, inquiring and impressionable boys and girls, is the supreme opportunity of the Christian worker in the morning of this century."

W. F. Cronemiller, first assistant superintendent, made a fine report of the senior grade, showing an increase from 956 to 1169, during the year. The increase was almost wholly in the adult class of D. L. Durand, a remarkable organizer in his line. At the beginning of the fiscal year, Mr. Durand had 200 scholars in his class, and he now reports 560, the class itself, like many others in the great organization, being a well organized Sunday-school in itself.

C. A. Parmelee, superintendent of the advanced grade; H. P. Miller, of the intermediates, and Mrs. H. W. Brodbeck of the elementary grades, all made good reports.

Mrs. Brodbeck, who almost equals the record of her husband, having just been elected for the nineteenth annual time as superintendent of the lower grades, has under her control, the cradle roll, the beginners, the primary and the junior departments, with a membership of 558. The equipment of her department covers everything from a building-block to the Bible, and she last night expressed the greatest satisfaction after a year's trial of graded lessons for the little folks.

"Never again," she says, "will there be a return to the thread-bare delusion of 'one lesson for all.'"

Her departments are graded according to age and standing in the public schools, and eighteen officers and eighteen teachers are required to handle the half-thousand youngsters.

Clinton A. Bradley, treasurer of the school, shows the total receipts for the year to have been $3045; expenditures, $1441. The several benevolent and other funds begin the fiscal year with balances aggregating $1604.

Miss Zilpha Martin, librarian, in making her report, called attention to what may be considered a pointer to builders of Sunday-school libraries. She said:

"We found that several of the biographies, books on science, missionary works, and some others, have not been taken out of the library since it was started, by either children or teachers, and as we needed more room for the incoming books, we gave some of these to the Epworth League, and others we exchanged for new books."

It is only fair to say that the subject of missions, and some others, are covered by monthly publications, which are freely used in the great school.

T. H. Oxnam, superintendent of the home department, made an extended report, covering his work, in which he takes the deepest interest. He has on his rolls 1039 persons.

The personnel of the men and women who form the official and teaching corps is of the highest order, many of them coming from the busiest establishments of the city, and from among the educators and professional men and women. Mrs. N. F. W. Pond, the normal instructor, has held the same position for fourteen years. The graduation of the normal class, and the installation of the officers and teachers, will take place at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning, when an address will be delivered by Dr. Charles Edward Locke, pastor of the church.

The annual banquet of the school will be held at the Westminster Hotel on next Thursday evening, for which a programme is in course of preparation.

CHURCH DEDICATION.

PILGRIM CONGREGATIONAL.

The recently-completed Pilgrim Congregational Church, Normandie avenue and Forty-Sixth street, Rev. Charles R. Small, pastor, will be dedicated at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. The dedicatory sermon will be preached by Dr. James A. Blaisdell, president of Pomona College, and a number of ministers of the city will take part in the ceremonies. This church is located in Vermont Square, one of the new and rapidly-growing sections in the Southwest.

A service, which will be elaborated with music, and at which the pastor will preach, will be held at 11 o'clock Sunday morning.

CLUBHOUSE OPENED.

Ebell of Pomona Has New Home. Work On Trolley Extension Soon to Start.

POMONA, Oct. 14.—The attractive new clubhouse of the Pomona Ebell Club was formally opened last evening with an entertainment which was largely attended. The committee in charge was: Mmes. F. E. Graham, Ferdinand Davis, George W. Cobb, George W. Forester, W. B. Todd, Fred Niedermeyer, F. D. Green. An address of welcome was delivered by Mrs. J. T. Brady, president of the club, who welcomed the guests. There were vocal solos by Revell L. English, a vocal quartet, by Misses Canaday, Pierce, Jones, Richmond, a whistling solo by Miss Francis Gillette, and a Spanish dance by Miss Norma Gould of Los Angeles. The programme concluded with a merry little play under the direction of Mrs. E. P. Wallace, participants being Miss Ora Smith, Alma Evans, Ada Egbert, Nellie Crabb, Messrs. Fuller and Wallace.

All arrangements for the final right-of-way of the Pomona-Claremont electric line which extends on to Upland, have now been consummated. Work soon be commenced on this extension sion which will connect with the present North Garey avenue line of the Pacific Electric Company here. Definite assurances have been given that the road will be in operation from here to Upland by January 1. When this work is done, there will remain a gap of eight miles between the western end of this line, and the eastern end of the Los Angeles line now building to San Dimas. This must be connected before communication with Los Angeles is established.

TAKES HORSE MEDICINE.

Barstow Man Swallows Poisonous Stuff and Dies—Was Son of Pioneer Family.

SAN BERNARDINO, Oct. 14.—Fred Brown, a resident of Barstow, became weary of life this morning and took horse medicine at his home, to end his imaginary troubles. He succeeded, death coming two hours later. The medicine contained a large percentage of poison. Brown was the son of a well-known pioneer family of the desert town.

It is believed the recent circus carried away from this valley the surplus of worthless canines which caused a generous circulation of mad dog stories. Curs are now few and far between. Juan Garcia, a professional dog catcher from New Orleans, who dropped into town six weeks before the circus arrived, is believed to have been the advance man for the dog catching department of the big show. It is understood the dogs are used in feeding the wild animals, thus greatly reducing the otherwise heavy meat bill.

Joseph Strawser and associates have bought of Dr. and Mrs. C. D. Dickey the southeast corner of Third and F streets. Consideration $15,000. The purchasers propose to erect a modern brick building on the premises, which are now improved with a one-story frame structure occupied by a laundry.

Angeleno Found Dead.

MALVERN (Iowa) Oct. 14.—A section hand today found the body of James Montgomery lying at the bottom of a railroad embankment near this city. The man was identified by letters in his clothing which indicated his residence to be Los Angeles, where he had a sister and two brothers. Another brother lives at Clinton, Mo. Montgomery had $50 in his clothing. Indications were that he had been hit by, or had fallen from a train.

EMBRACE AND WED ON SIGHT.

Angeleno Actor Meets Partner for First Time and They're Life Partners Now.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

New York, Oct 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] When Leslie Moresco, an actor from Los Angeles, embraced Dorothy Holmes, a Broadway show girl, at the managerial try-out of their vaudeville skit in a Harlem theater last Monday, they met for the first time. They rehearsed their roles separately—she in New York and he in Los Angeles. After rehearsal here Moresco went shopping in a big downtown store for furniture to fit out his new flat. Miss Holmes went to the same store on a like errand. They met again. The man then had his first look at his partner with her stage "fixins" removed and she was able to get first peep at her "side kick" without the trappings of of the matinee idol. Soon after it was agred that they take the ferry boat to Jersey City, where Justice Seymour did the rest.

Commencing October 15, the Paris Figaro will sell for 2 cents instead of 3 cents. The paper announces the reduction is compulsory, owing to the growing poverty of its clientele among the French aristocracy.

OLD SORES
DUE TO DISEASED BLOOD

Every symptom of an old sore suggests diseased blood. The inflammation, discharge, discolored flesh, and the fact that local applications have no permanent effect toward healing the ulcer, shows that deep down in the system there is a morbid cause for the sore. But more convincing proof that bad blood is the cause for these places is furnished by the fact that even removing the sore or ulcer by surgical operation does not cure; they always return. Nature will heal any sore if the blood is pure and healthy, but until the circulation is cleansed of all impure matter and supplied with nourishing and plasmic qualities the infected condition of flesh is OBLIGED to remain. S.S.S. heals Old Sores in a perfectly natural way. It goes into the blood, removes the impurities and morbid matters, adds nourishing qualities to this vital fluid, and brings about the very conditions that are necessary before any sore can heal. S.S.S. is a perfect blood purifier, acting directly on the circulation through the stomach and digestive mem-bers. Its use makes rich, red, healthy blood, which nourishes all flesh tis-sues instead of infecting them with the virulent matter which keep old sores open. Special book on Old Sores and any medical advice free.

LOCAL PRODUCE MARKET.

The rains had something to do with the light trading of yesterday morning. Reports from Los Angeles county show that the late crop of Muscat grapes was pretty badly dam-aged, as were a few of the other varieties. Coachellas suffering next to those mentioned. This did not affect the immediate price of them but advances are looked for and there is little possibility of buying these varieties at less than $1 per box in the next few weeks or until the season on them is entirely past. The bean market was not in the least affected for the reason that all of the beans are har-vested and also because the rains did not ex-tend into Ventura, county or into the southern section of the State where some beans are raised.

The demand for local eggs was very keen, and with only seventy cases of that stock arriving the market went as high as 43 cents on sales of case count which were made. No actual change in quotation was made on account of the absence of the egg committee, which still continues to regulate prices on this commodity.

The demand for first grade butter was very good. Prices on this were steady. There were no changes in secondary grades. Re-ceipts were 14,400 pounds.

The varieties of cheese in chief call were Northern fresh and Eastern twins and dairy. Other offerings were light. Arrivals of cheese were only 202 pounds.

The potato market showed just a little more strength than at any other time this week. A car of fancy Highlands sold at $1.10 or 5 cents higher than has been paid in a jobbing way for a number of days. Other spuds were unchanged. Receipts were 2513 sacks.

Arrivals of beans were only three sacks. The market on them was good. Onions de-clined again in the range of prices. The best price obtainable at present is $1.85. Arrivals of onions were 787 sacks. Receipts of sweet potatoes totaled 665 sacks, including a car of Merced sweets.

Apple arrivals were 5132 boxes. The market on apples was steady with a little falling off in the demand at the end of the week.

Dried fruit prices are relaxing a bit and there is some weakness very apparent in rai-sins. Big steps in prunes have relaxed to the extent of ½ cent in sales of the past two or three days.

Fish receipts included kingfish, a big ship-ment of sardines from Redondo, a few bonita, some barracuda and a few sand dabs and smelt. From the north very heavy ship-ments of carp have been made. These form the chief dish at the big dinners of the Jew-ish people at the time of their holidays.

NEWS AND BUSINESS.

Fined for Cruelty.

L. Wilson and J. Doyle, teamsters, appeared in Justice Chambers's Court yesterday on a charge of cruelty to animals. They were found driving a lame mule and taken into custody by Officers Fowler and Zimmerman. The court fined them $3 each.

Declares Driver Was Negligent.

While crossing Fifty-sixth street at Central Avenue, July 4, last Lee Blass was struck by an auto alleged to have been owned by the W. D. Howard Motor Car Company, knocked down, and severely injured. Yesterday Blass brought an action against the corporation for $2500 damages. Negligence of the driver of the machine is charged.

No Funds in Bank.

John T. Root, a shabby youth of 18 was arraigned in Police Judge Fredericksen's court yesterday on a charge of having uttered a fraudulent check. It appears that Root gave a creditor of his, J. D. Hart, a check on the Commercial National Bank for $8, which when presented for payment was dishonored. Root was taken into custody by Detectives Beaumont, Cowan and Roberds yesterday. The court held him in $1000 bail for trial on November 10.

When Fees Will Increase.

According to Capt. Lenhausen's count, there are exactly nine hundred and ten lodging housekeepers in Los Angles who are delinquent as to the fees for their licenses. The Police Captain is going to give them until next Monday and after that they will have to pay the fees to some one of the police court judges with an additional amount tacked on by the way of fine. They will be taken in just as fast as the officers can get to them, says Capt. Lenhausen, after Monday.

Won't Interfere Again.

The proverbial fate of the butter-in in the troubles of others came to John Carillo at Fifth and Wall streets yesterday morning when he attempted to separate two countrymen who were having a fistic argument on the pavement. The belligerents promptly set upon the peacemaker. An officer happened along and lugged the trio off to jail for disturbing the peace. The scrappers gave their names as John Moreno and P. Maramontes. Moreno, it appeared, was the principal offender and he was fined $5, which he paid.

To Build Municipal Wharf.

A new era in the history of the city was marked yesterday by the opening of bids in the office of the Board of Public Works, for piling and other materials for the construction of a municipal wharf at Wilmington. This is the first bid of such a character ever considered by the city, and the matter was turned over to Homer Hamlin, chief engineer of harbor improvement, for recommendation. The bonds to pay for this material were voted by the city of Wilmington before annexation with the city, and residents of the new seaport territory have been clamoring that bids be received and the work done. They are now near the fruition of their hopes.

STRICKEN ON CAR.

Pretty German Girl Seized With Odd Malady While on Her Way from Shopping Trip.

One of the most peculiar cases in the receiving Hospital in a long time appeared yesterday in the person of Miss Hedwin Eidler, a pretty German girl who recently came to Los Angeles to take treatment for a nervous complaint.

She has been under the care of Miss Carrie M. Breitner, No. 135 East Thirtieth street, and had apparently almost recovered from her ailment. Yesterday morning she went down town to do shopping. On a Main street car, as she was returning home, she was seized with what appeared to be a sort of epileptic fit. Her limbs became rigid, her eyes rolled up and became fixed, and seemingly losing control of her muscles, she toppled from the seat and fell prone on the car floor.

Alarmed, the other passengers summoned Patrolman Yarrow, who sent in an ambulance call and the girl was taken to the Receiving Hospital. After working over her nearly an hour, she was sufficiently revived to be taken to her home by Miss Breitner, who had been summoned. Dr. Kidder diagnosed the case as nothing more serious than acute nervous hysteria, which he said frequently manifested itself in the guise of many other more serious nervous affections.

PLEA UNAVAILING.

Cook, Guilty of Felony, Seeks Probation, But Court Is Stern and Sentences Him.

In Judge Willis's court yesterday, Charles Baker, who withdrew his plea of not guilty to the charge of rape, and entered a plea of guilty to an assault with intent to commit the crime, was sentenced to San Quentin for six years.

His application for probation was denied. It was stated in behalf of Baker ned. It was stated in behalf of Baker that his mother had died many years ago in an insane asylum in Indiana, but this did not seem to soften the court in behalf of the prisoner. Baker has been engaged as a cook in a number of Los Angeles restaurants resturants during the past six years.

Luther Bullock was released on three years' probation, having pleaded guilty to burglary. One of the conditions of the probation is that during the term he shall not indulge in intoxicating liquors.

Ralph A. Shrieve, who pleaded guilty to forging a check for $5, was given a two year stretch at San Quentin. It developed that he had been twice convicted of petty larceny and that he was out on a one year term of probation when he committed the crime for which he was before the court yesterday. Shrieve pleaded for another chance, but Judge Willis reminded him that the probation laws were not made to give a man all the chances he imagined he ought to have after having committed an offense.

David Vernon, a young Englishman, who pleaded guilty to rape, was allowed to go on five years' probation.

ADOPTS FRENCH METHODS.

Negro Footpad Throws Arm Around Victim's Throat While Pal Goes Through His Pockets

Roy Bardens, of No. 3711 Occidental Boulevard, reported to the police that at 6 o'clock last night he was held up by two negroes at the corner of Fresno and Stephenson streets, and robbed of $3.

He says one of the negroes stepped up from behind him and, throwing an arm around his throat, held him powerless while the other footpad searched him. A fair description of the robbers was given the police.

FINANCIAL SPICE.

WOULD OUST OLD OFFICERS.

ELECTION YESTERDAY IN ALL NIGHT AND DAY BANK.

SKINNER CLAIMS STILL TO BE IN CONTROL.

SHERIFF MAY BE CALLED ON TO DISPOSSESS.

Another chapter was added yesterday to the history of the All Night and Day Bank when stockholders in possession of over 1200 shares of the stock met in the office of the institution and elected new directors who proceeded to elect a new set of officers. While this was taking place the old officers were transacting business as if nothing of particular import was going on.

The story of the court proceedings leading up to yesterday's action was told fully in Friday's Times. Months ago L. C. Brand, manager of the Title Guarantee and Trust Company, loaned the officers of the All Night and Day Bank $50,000 on a demand note, accepting over 1100 shares of the bank's stock as collateral. When the demand note was presented for payment the money was not forthcoming and finally the stock held as collateral was sold at public auction. It was bought by Hugh Blue, an employee of L. C. Brand, as trustee, at about 50 cents on the dollar and not enough money was realized to satisfy the loan.

DEMAND FOR TRANSFER.

At that time a demand was made by the trustee upon the officials of the bank to have the stock transferred to the present holders of it, but the demand was refused and the matter has been in the courts ever since. On Thursday Department Five of the Superior Court granted the petition of the receiver appointed for the stock, the Title Guarantee and Trust Company, that it should be allowed to vote the stock at yesterday's stockholders' meeting.

Yesterday morning over 1200 shares of the 1400 shares issued were voted by the Brand interests, and the following new officers were placed in control: L. C. Brand, president; Henry W. Meyer, vice-president; John T. Cooper, secretary; J. S. Moore, cashier and treasurer; Fred W. Gollum, R. I. Cline and B. F. Cline, assistant cashiers.

Moore was the first cashier of the All Night and Day Bank, but sold his holdings some time ago and was succeeded by M. J. Conner. Gollum and the Cline brothers are at present employed by the bank.

President Brand at once made a demand upon the former officers, Newton J. Skinner and M. J. Conner, for possession but this was denied. At that time Skinner made the statement that he was "still on the job." When the new officers left the institution at noon it was with the declaration that they would return at 2 p. m. and take possession by force if necessary. Skinner and Connor at once employed three or four private detectives but President Brand decided to put it up to the officers of the court to oust the old officers, and nothing further was done yesterday.

SHERIFF MAY DISPOSSES.

Late yesterday afternoon Mr. Brand stated that he expected the Sheriff to dispossess the Skinner crowd within the legal five days. There seems little doubt that it will be only a matter of a few days more till the new regime will be at the helm of the institution.

L. C. Brand will take charge of the All Night and Day Bank as soon as he can secure possession and install the other new officers. The institution will be continued so far as present hours are concerned until it is demonstrated that they can be shortened.

Ex-president Skinner says the stock voted yesterday was not two-thirds of the amount issued, and that therefore the action in ouster was illegal. He avers that despite the litigation the All Night and Day Bank has gained new business right along.

DOWN-HILL BUSINESS.

Wagon Does It and Owner Is Sued for Damages Done to a House in Mad Flight.

A wagon which decided to go on a "joy ride" by itself and wound up by seriously damaging a house, injuring a woman and seriously frightening several persons, is blamed for a suit which was filed in Justice Stephens' court, yesterday.

The vehicle was the property of Charles Granuchi. When a teamster was through using it about 5 o'clock on the 8th ult., he left it standing at the top of a hill.

Apparently the wagon thought it had earned a little innocent escapade, having been made to labor hard since early morning, and it started off on a lonely trip down the hill.

By the time it had reached the home of Emilio Carra, No. 1156 Cleveland street, it was going at a merry clip. It slipped from the straight and narrow path and careened on to the lot of Carra. Before it could check its mad flight, it tore off the front porch, crushed in the side of the house and injured Mrs. Carra. Other members of the family were badly frightened.

Carra alleges that he was damaged in the sum of $299.99 and asks for judgement in that amount.

SOUNDINGS.

SEA BELLS RING DEEP IN OCEAN.

STEAMSHIP PRESIDENT GUIDED BY THE SOUND.

Hearing Machinery on Coast Vessel Records Warning at Distance of Seven and Half Miles From Lightship in Fog While on Trip to Los Angeles Harbor.

The Pacific Coast Steamship Company has installed on its steamer President a submarine bell receiver. The wireless telegraphy, will give greater and greater security to ocean travel. All of the lightships along the coast are now equipped by the government with these bells and each lightship has its own particular number of rings.

The bell is placed in the fork of an immense tripod dropped over the side and lowered to a depth of about thirty-fathoms and rung automatically. The receiver is not unlike the ordinary house wall-phone in appearance, except that it is made of metal, but it has a small key which switches and makes it possible to distinguish whether the sound comes from the port or starboard.

From this receiver there is a tube running down from the captain's quarters, through the decks and branching one to each side of the ship, ending in a tank containing liquid which is jam up against the ship's hull, and it is this which catches the sound.

The mechanism is so delicate that it is not in the least difficult to determine from the growing or decreasing intensity of the sound whether the ship is approaching a lightship or getting further away from it, and as the moving vessel has a record of the signals of the various lightships, she knows her position even in the densest fog and by means of the port and starboard switch and indicator can determine the exact position of the lightship.

Capt. Thomas and First Mate Dahlren are justly proud of the fact that their good ship President is the first vessel engaged in coastwise service to be equipped with this receiver and are rejoicing over the fact they picked up a bell at a distance of seven and one-half miles.

The Mauretania, which has one of these receivers holds the present record, a distance of twelve miles, but for the first trip these officers felt that they had made a wonderful showing, and take pride in the fact that they have this pioneer record in a nautical instrument which will prove to be of such value in the art of navigation.

The Pacific Coast Steamship Company should be complimented for its readiness to take advantage of all the modern improvements which add to the comfort and safety of travel by sea.

The Lighthouse Service of the government is now equipping bellbouys with the submarine bell, which can also be picked up by the ship receiver.

RED-SPOT.

LOCAL MUSEUM GETS DEADLIEST SPIDER.

One of the fe. "latrodectus mactans" or red-spot spiders ever captured in America arrived in Los Angeles yesterday, consigned to Charles Smead of the Hollenbeck. The bite of this spider is by far the strongest, most virulent poison, drop for drop, secreted in any living creature. Because of its rarity it apparently has never been fully studied or described by scientists.

The spider was captured near Dos Cabesos, in San Diego county, by George E. Sutton, one of the engineers employed in charting the route of the new Arizona & San Diego railroad. Sutton was in Los Angeles about three weeks ago and at that time read a description of this spider in one of the current magazines.

Just a few nights ago he awakened from his sleep, and striking a match he was just starting for the water cooler to get a drink when he noticed in a chance ray of the light, a spider dropping from the top of the tent. Curiosity lead to a closer examination, and then Sutton yelled. After bringing his friends out of their beds standing, he hunted around for the magazine, all the time keeping his eye on the spider which had nested in a corner of the tent, finally locating the desired article which described the fearful agonies suffered by a number of men who had been bitten by the "red-spot" insect.

The crawler of that name has a main torso about the size of a big pea and as black as jet. Right in the center of the belly two half diamonds, the points touching at center, are located, and the brilliant red of this set against the black gives the spider its name, and serves as a warning as well. The legs are not over long but very strong, while the fangs are sharp and penetrating, particularly when the insect strikes upon a tender skinned part of the body to inject its venom. The fatalities attending the bite are sufficiently well attested to rank as scientific facts.

A year or two ago a ranchman at Anaheim was bitten by the spider and died within twenty hours, according to Dr. Bickford who attended the case. While he was working near an outhouse the spider dropped upon the man's neck. He felt a sharp stinging sensation and found, in sweeping his hand over the place, the "red-spot" spider. Presently a number of small white pimples appeared about the wound, which to the naked eye were invisible, but which the attending physician discovered with the aid of a glass. The pain passed from the neck to the abomen, producing violent cramps, and later a spasmodic attack. These were followed by coma and then death. There was no swelling, but the arm, the neck and part of the left side assumed a stone-like hardness.

Wiliam A. Ball of San Bernardino is one of the few men who have recovered from the bite of the insect. He stated that after the bite a severe contraction of muscles took place, the pain in the hip joints, chest, thighs and abdomen seemed as though the bones were being crushed to fragments and the illness lasted for more than ten days.

The foreign cousin of the "Latrodectus" is a mactans found in Corsica, Algeria, Southern France and in New Zealand. In these places this species of spider has wound itself into gruesome folklore of the country.

PITIFUL.

LETTER FAILS, ALSO DEATH.

DESPONDENT WOMAN TRIES TO END HER LIFE.

USES SCISSORS AS A WEAPON OF DESTRUCTION.

Disappointment at the non-receipt of a letter from her husband, coupled with a long series of misfortunes and illnesses which have relentlessly pursued her, led Mrs. Belle Turner to a desperate attempt upon her life early yesterday morning. Creeping from her sickbed to the dresser, she secured a short pair of sewing- scissors. Then she lay down and tried to disembowel herself.

Failing in this effort she thrust one blade of the scissors into her throat and dragged it forcibly across through the tissues, inflicting a terrible wound. The jugular vein and carotid artery were missed by the merest fraction of an inch. After treatment at the Receiving Hospital she was taken to the County Institution, where she is reported to have a fighting chance for recovery.

Mrs. Turner has been in poor health for several years, having been three times operated upon for appendicitis and abdominal troubles. Three weeks ago she came to California for her health, from her home in Peyton, Col., where her husband, Elmer Turner, runs a creamery.

HEALTH FAILS HER.

Her health did not improve as she had hoped, and she became further despondent because she fancied that she was a burden to her relatives. Her sister, Mrs. Ella Jackson, did everything possible to assure her to the contrary and to put her into a more cheerful frame of mind, but apparently in vain. Mrs. Turner was frequently delirious and raved pathetically concerning the financial losses which her husband had suffered, and the neglect with which she fancied he and her children were treating her.

All day Thursday she was asking constantly if any word had been received from her husband. No letter came and, apparently, the disappointment was more than she could bear. All night Mrs. De Lashmutt, who slept with her, was kept awake by her moaning, though to every question Mrs. Turner made only evasive replies.

About 7:30 o'clock yesterday morning, Mrs. De Lashmutt left the room to go to breakfast. Fifteen minutes later, Mrs. Jackson entered it with the sick woman's breakfast, to find her gasping and struggling in a pool of blood on the bed. In her right hand were found the scissors, covered with blood, which she had taken from the bureau several feet away.

CHANCE FOR LIFE.

Patrolman Robbins was hastily summoned and a hurry call sent for the police ambulance. Mrs. Turner was rushed to the Receiving Hospital and for three hours two police surgeons and three nurses toiled to save her life. It is thought, if no ill consequences set in from the blood which found its way into the body cavity, that the woman will recover.

The Turners are well known in Colorado Springs, where for a number of years, Turner was the owner of considerable amount of real estate. This he sold at a loss about two years ago to secure funds to remove his family to Washington State, where they bought a large tract of land. During the floods of the following spring much of their property was lost and, thoroughly discouraged, they returned to Colorado, where Turner invested his remaining capital in a dairy.

Mrs. Turner has three children, two sons and a daughter, all of whom are helping their father in the creamery. In addition to her sister in this city she has another in Bakersfield, Mrs. Myra Westfall, a widow.

DOWN!

WORKER DROPS TEN STORIES.

PLUNGES FEET FIRST THROUGH ROOF INTO OFFICE.

Plunging downward from the tenth story of the Los Angeles Trust building, now under construction at Sixth and Spring streets, Charles Umberger, a structural iron worker for the Llewellyn Iron Works, drove feet first through the roof of a one-story building adjoining the new structure on the north early yesterday morning. The accident was due to a misstep on the part of Umberger as he leaned outward to assist in getting a beam into place.

The office into which the workman so unceremoniously projected himself was occupied by J. C. Spencer, a clerk for the Union Pacific railway. Spencer was at work on his books when he was startled by a crash and the fall of a few hundred pounds of plaster on his head. Looking up, his amazement was increased at seeing a man's legs dangling downward frrom the roof. He hurried out and summoned assistance and the man who had so suddenly "dropped in" was rescued from his precarious position.

At the receiving hospital Umberger's injuries were found to consist of nothing more serious than a broken left arm and a severely strained back. After treatment he was removed to the California Hospital, where the surgeons say that he will quickly recover.

HERE FOR CELEBRATION.

Assistant Postmaster William M. Burke, Cashier I. Witheimer and Inspector H. B. Hall of the San Francisco Postoffice, arrived in this city yesterday. They will attend the celebration of the local office tonight. While here they are expected to take up some official matters, but attaches of the local office say that they will do nothing which is of public interest.

YOU'RE INVITED.

UNCLE SAM AS HOST, THE PUBLIC AS GUEST.

Many thousands of persons are expected to visit the new postoffice and Customhouse, commonly designated as the Federal building, tonight, in celebration of the completion of the magnificent structure.

The new home of the Federal employees was formally opened several weeks ago when Judge Wellborn of the United States District Court raised "Old Glory," but the public "housewarming" was postponed until tonight.

The building will literally be thrown open to the public. Practically every room above the second floor will hold forth a welcome to the guests. Many of these are private offices where few persons outside of the government officials will ever be admitted again.

Decorators have been busy for several days preparing the gala dress for the new block and its surroundings. The national colors have already been spread on near-by buildings and Japanese lanterns have been strung across the streets.

One pretty feature which has been planned is the idea of having dozens of flags unfurled during a burst of patriotic music.

The heads of each department will be in their most receptive moods. They have decided to bedeck themselves in conventional evening dress.

Innumerable reception committees have been designated to assist in exploring the many features and purposes of the various parts of the new building.

From the numerous inquiries which have been made, it is likely that there will be a continuous stream of persons pouring in and out of the block for several hours. It is so large that hundreds of persons can go sightseeing in it at the same time without seriously discommoding one another.

An extensive programme has been arranged, and it will probably take two hours to carry it out. Among the speakers will be Mayor Alexander, President Scott of the Chamber of Commerce, Former Postmaster Flint, Postmaster Harrison, O. J. Muchmore, superintendent of construction of United States public buildings; Capt. Louis Hansen, Former Senator Del Valle, Congressman McLachlan, Attorney J. G. Mott, Joseph Mesmer and Attorney Will G. Gould.

Garner Curran, president of the Federated Improvement Associations, will preside. There will be an invocation by Rev. Dana W. Bartlett and Mrs. M. G. Gonzalez will give several vocal solos. The services of several bands have been obtained.

During the evening stereopticon views will be thrown from the west side of the Temple Block and St. Charles Hotel.

The programme is scheduled to commence at 7:15 o'clock. The building will probably be opened to visitors earlier.

WOULD SHAKE ON CHRISTMAS.

RACING TO FINISH ELIZABETH TUNNEL BY NEW YEAR.

Miners Wish to Clasp Hands From North and South Through Great Bore For Aqueduct to Celebrate Holiday—Progress Is Rapid and Hope Is Strong.

Another race against time is on at Elizabeth tunnel, the biggest single piece of work on the Los Angeles Aqueduct. Ever since the world's records for drilling were broken three the crews have set their ambition upon completing the great bore by January 1, 1911, a year earlier than the original estimate.

The tunnel is 26,360 feet long, a little over five miles. There remains but 2325 feet to be executed and against this barrier two crews are working, one from the north portal and one from the south. They want to meet in time to hold a Christmas celebration at the middle. If this proves impossible they are determined to welcome the new year by shaking hands through the final opening.

The prospects at the present time are fairly good. The last ten-day report showed an average daily progress of thirty-nine feet per day. At this rate it will require eighty days more to complete the tunnel. This leaves no margin for delays or accidents and means a race every day.

The encouraging feature is that within the past few days a soft stratum of earth has been encountered and the miners are using very light charges of powder, enabling them to progress faster.

Other conditions along the big ditch are satisfactory. There are seven steam-shovels working on the conduit excavation. The present force is comprised of 2376 men and 475 head of stock. The force at work on the Haiwe dam has found conditions for its construction very satisfactory.

COMING.

ROADS BLOCKED BY COLONISTS.

GREATEST RUSH IN HISTORY TO SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA.

Transcontinental Lines Taxed to Carry Travelers from Eastern Points to Sunny Southland—Over Fifty Thousand Tourists in Hundred and Eighteen Days.

When the last train of California colonists rolls out of the Chicago and Kansas City terminals late tomorrow night, the heaviest Western movement of this kind on record will have been completed.

Until the present year 1907 has held the record for the heaviest Westbound colonist traffic, but this year the number of cars and trains ordered is 32 per cent. heavier on the Santa Fe than it has ever been before and is fully 40 per cent, above the schedule of last year.

The Salt Lake is also doing the heaviest business that has been recorded and the result is that the record of last year of California tourists and colonists is being broken.

The Alberquerque divison of the Santa Fe is overcrowded with traffic and, in default of the new engines which have been ordered and not yet delivered, there is not motive power enough to move the business.

The Southern Pacific, which is sending the majority of its colonists West via Salt Lake and Sacramento, is loaded to the guards, and the power companies in the San Joaquin are beginning to receive numerous requests for information in regard to lands along the new power lines.

Not only has the colonist traffic grown into tremendous proportions during the past few weeks, but the summer tourist trade also is on the increase.

For 118 days following May 6 there were more than 8000 tourist tickets validated in Los Angeles alone while at outside points there was fully an additional thousand.

The total California validation, which means that practically the entire number of visitors were in Los Angeles during the time was 51,452 which gives an average of more than 436 tourists per day coming into the State. This report is still incomplete, because of the fact that only 118 days is reported and during the last thirty days two agencies failed to turn in their schedule.

ALL ABOARD!

BREAKING INTO WOODEN FIELD.

NEW LUMBER CONCERN WILL OPEN GREAT YARDS

Well-Known Business Men Complete Plans to Handle Cargo Lots in Not Less Than Ten Million Feet—Wonderful Growth of the Industry.

W. T. Wheatley and Frank Bortel will open a new wholesale lumber business in Los Angeles on November 1. This step is significant of the rapid progress which the lumber business has made within the past few years bringing Los Angeles harbor to the point of the largest lumber port in the world.

Mr. Wheatley as manager and principal owner of the new concern, will open offices at 318 and 319 Story building. He will also "open an umbrella" at the Jonathan Club, where he is the most popular member by recent election, on the same date.

Mr. Wheatley and Mr. Bortel have been manager and assistant manager respectively of the Consolidated Lumber company, which dredged the inner harbor channel to Wilmington and opened up that port to lumber traffic. They have been largely responsible for building up a big business for the San Francisco Company and will now engage in constructing a business of their own.

The new lumber enterprise is indicative of another promising condition in Los Angeles business conditions. Mr. Wheatley is one of the fortunate men to make successful investments in the Midway Oil field. He will devote his profits there to establishing a local business. A large part of the money made in the new oil fields is finding its way into Los Angeles business investments.

"The lumber business of Los Angeles," said Mr. Wheatley, "has reached magnificent proportions and we find there is room for a business dealing in wholesale quantities. We shall buy our lumber in cargo lots. While we shall represent a number of northern mills our business will be independent. We shall buy and sell in quantities of 10,000,000 feet and up.

"In opening a new business here I have made one discovery that is surprising to me. We want to keep our offices in the vicinity of Sixth and Main streets and we could get a choice of but two suitable office locations. I thought with all the new buildings going up and recently opened, we could get anything we wanted. Office room in modern buildings, seems to be harder to find in Los Angeles today, than it ever was. The business of this town must be growing faster than any one realizes."

POST CARD STORY.

Hundreds of Thousands of Photos of Times Building Ruins Sent All Over World.

More than 500,000 postal cards of The Times ruins have been printed and sold in Los Angeles since October 1. Thousands of private views were made by persons owning cameras and there is no possible way of estimating the hundreds of thousands of postal cards made in this way. Persons making a specialty of the postal card business, however, were on the grounds before the flames were extinguished on the morning of the outrage and some remarkable views were made at that time.

As the work of clearing the debris and removing the bodies proceeded other views were taken and as a result, at least twelve striking views are on the market. They have been sent in large quantities to every part of the world, showing every stage of the ruins from the hour of the explosion and fire to the final clearing of as much of the debris as has been cleared away.

As the cards have sold for 5 cents each and as thousands of larger photographs have been sold at 15 cents apiece, it is estimated that a large fortune has changed hands in this way.

Subsidies to steamship companies, as contained in the budget estimates of the Russian ministry of commerce for 1911 amount to $1,822,600, of which $802,000 goes to the volunteer fleet maintaining lines to American and Far eastern ports.

PUBLIC SERVICE: CITY HALL AND COURTS.

SUMMARY OF THE DAY.

The Public Welfare Committee of the City Council yesterday listened to a discussion of the legal phases of the garbage-station question, and will make an inspection of proposed sites this morning.

Mayor Alexander yesterday filed a message vetoing the amendment to the engineer ordinance, providing for the employment of unlicensed men for a period of thirty days, in time of public calamity or other emergency.

Judge Bordwell yesterday threw the damage action brought by G. W. Chester against the State Board of Optometry out of court. Chester wanted $10,000 for alleged false arrest.

Judge Hutton advised David Mast and his wife to divide their property between them and kiss and make up, instead of coming into court for a divorce when neither is entitled to the relief.

J. K. Mackenzie filed an action yesterday intimating that he had been

Mayor Fitzgerald, of Boston, Mass., worsted in a deal for stock in the Coalinga Crude Oil Company.

The troubles of Hogan and Varey, the latter police license inspector, were rehearsed before Police Judge Frederickson yesterday. There are outward manifestations of a feud.

COUNCIL'S LAST JUMP AT THE GARBAGE DUMP.

Legal Phases Discussed Before Public Welfare Committee—Secret Inspection of Sites Today—Mayor Files Veto of Emergency Elevator Ordinance.

An interesting discussion of the interminable garbage question took place before the Public Welfare Committee yesterday afternoon, in which the city was represented by Deputies Houghton and Robison, of the City Attorney's office, and dthe contractor by Attorney H. J. Goudge.

They, together with the committee, went fully over the legal phases of the question, in an apparent determination to make the next step, one definite and final in its conclusions. Mr. Houghton informed the committee that the City Council has full legal power to definitely determine the question, from which it would appear that if a location is chosen for the dumping station, it can only be removed if it is conducted in such a way as to be a menace to health.

The garbage must be handled; there is no escaping this conclusion. The scavenger dogs of Constantinople cannot well be imported to Los Angeles to eat the garbage, and a civilized way must be found to get out of the dilemma.

The earnest temper of the Welfare Committee yesterday, indicated that they are about to take the last step with a determination to recommend something to the Council that cannot be upset by the protests of people who feel themselves aggrieved, unless they can show that the station is a menace to their health.

At 10 o'clock this morning the committee will meet at some point that has not been named, and make a tour of certain districts which are discreetly kept secret, for the obvious reason that they do not wish to be hampered in their inspection by people who may follow at their heels.

WANTS CIVILIZED LIGHT.

BRIDEGROOM'S TOUCHING PLEA.

A plea that touched the hearts of the members of the Board of Public Works, reached them yesterday, from Sibley G. Pease. Mr. Pease plainly, and without reservation, represented that he is in sore distress over his inability to secure electric lights for his new bungalow, in a district traversed by the lines of the Pacific Light and Power Company.

"I have built a nice little bungalow," he says. "I expect to be married in a coupel of weeks, and am, of course, anxious to have some civilized light."

He besought the board to inform him if there was any way in which he could secure relief, as he had been informed by the company that their lines did not extend sufficiently close to his new house to enable them to give him the service he required.

The board determined to use its good offices in his behalf, and directed the secretary to present the circumstances to the Pacific Light and Power Company, with their recommendation that the best possible thing be done to relieve the embarrassment of Mr. Pease.

ANOTHER VETO MESSAGE.

UNLICENSED ELEVATOR MEN.

At the last session of the City Council, an amendment was adopted to the engineer ordinance, providing that in time of public calamity, or other emergency, owners of buildings might employ unlicensed persons to take charge of boilers or elevators, for a period not exceeding thirty days.

Mayor Alexander yesterday filed a message declining to give his approval to the ordinance, in which he states that owners would thereby be enabled to appoint unlicensed engineers or elevator men at their convenience. He argues that the work should be done by experts, and that approval of the amendment to the ordinance would render the whole of it nugatory. He thinks that some provision should be made for emergencies, and recommends an inspection of the ordinances in force in other cities.

Linotype Operators Chance to Register

Many cordial offers of assistance from workers in various Times immediately after the explosion and fire—especially from pritners who were ready to lend a hand. These offers could not be accepted, although they were keenly appreciated. The spirit which prompted them was most gratifying, butThe Times was not in a position to avail itself of them. Indeed, some of its own printers are out of work, on account if the destruction of its job office.

As the new equipment of The Times is increased, however, it may need linotype operators. Several of its former operators were killed; others are in the hospital. The Times suggests that non-union linotype iperators in any part of the country desiring employment register with The Times now. There may be openings for them at the best wages.

AT THE COURTHOUSE.

COULDN'T SEE TRIAL CAUSE.

OPTOMETRICAL DAMAGE CASE GETS BLACK EYE.

Judge Bordwell Throws Celebrated Suit Against State Examining Board by Local Sight Specialist Out of Court—One of Charges Made Was Conspiracy.

In Judge Bordwell's department of the Superior Court, yesterday, G. W. Chester, an optician of this city, who had brought a complaint against Fred Detmers, F. C. Chinn and F. W. Laufer, of the State Board of Examiners in Optometry, for $10,000 damages alleged to have been suffered by the arrest of Chester in this city, during June, 1909, on the charge that he was practicing his profession without a license, was figuratively knocked out of court. The order reads: "Motion to strike amended complaint from the files granted, and cause dismissed."

This is the final act in the little drama played by Chester and the State Board of Optometry, over a year ago, beginning with the arrest of Chester in Mendocino county, on a charge that he was illegally doing business, followed by his incarceration here immediately after.

The Chester complaint set out that the defendants had conspired to cause his arrest, and that in January, 1909, his certificate to practice optometry had been revoked by the board. He declared that he was entitled to practice, and that his certificate was illegally withheld by the defendants. Chester also asserted that he had been a student of De Lano in Paris, from 1887-1889, and had from that time until his certificate was revoked, been actively engaged in work.

The action came up in Judge Bordwell's court on a demurrer setting out the insufficiency of the allegations, and the prayer of the State Board of Optometry, through its officials who had been named as defendants, was granted.

It was stated in behalf of the board that Chester charged with the responsibility of his arrest, that he had been going up and down in California for some time, doing business, and charging people exorbitant prices for optical work, when he had no legal right to do so, having been deprived of his certificate giving him authority to practice after his case had been thoroughly and exhaustively examined. Complaints had been sent to the board in regard to Chester, and immediate action was taken to put him out of the business, so far as the board was concerned.

DUPED, HE ALLEGES.

SAME OLD STOCK-DEAL TALE.

An action to secure a rescission of a bad contract, was filed in the superior court yesterday, by J. K. Mackenzie, against Purcell, Gray and Gale, it being alleged that the defendants had steered the plaintiff up against a bad proposition in the purchase of Coalinga Crude Oil Company stock.

The plaintiff says that the defendants assured him that the stock was of great value, and that it was a great buy at thirty-three cents a share, which was the figure at which he could purchase a holding if he was quick about it. Not only that but it would only be necessary for Mackenzie to invest ten per cent cash in the enterprise, and if at the end of thirty days he did not elect to pay the balance of the purchase price, that the only thing he would lose would be the advance payment.

Mackenzie admits that he knew nothing about the value of the stock, but relying upon the representations that had been made him by the defendants, he agreed to buy 2000 shares of the stuff at the mark-down price of thirty-three cents a share. He paid sixty-six dollars in cash, and gave his note for $594.

Then he discovered he says, that the stock was worthless, that he had been duped, and that the people who were backing the enterprise, were engaged in the buisness of promoting wild-cat mining and oil schemes. Mackenzie asks the court to order a judgement rescinding the contract, and declaring the note null and void.

POTTER ESTATE.

ADMINISTRATORSHIP CONTEST.

A petition was filed in the probate court yesterday, by Henry T. J. Potter, widower of Ida F. Potter, who died July 21, 1909, at Balboa Beach, protesting against the appointment of Sarah C. Collins, his sister-in-law, as administratrix of the estate of his wife. He stated that he had nominated the Los Angeles Trust and Savings Bank as such administrator, and asked that the petition of the first named be denied.

The matter of appointing an administrator of the estate was on the calendar in the probate department yesterday, but with the filing of the notice of contest, the matter went over until the 24th inst.

When Mrs. Potter died she left an estate of about $25,000, the largest asset of which was an undivided half-interest in a $20,000 mortgage recorded in Wayne county,(Mich.), owned by Frances M. Britton and assigned to the testator, the other half being owned by the sister. Mrs. Collins, who filed her petition for appointment as administratrix. In that document it is stated that the husband, Henry T. J. Potter, although entitled to letters of administration, had made no move to that end, although more than a year had passed after the death of his wife.

COURT'S ADVICE.

"MAKE UP," SAYS JUDGE.

An action that was originally docketed as a cause for divorce reached a contest over about $10,000 worth of property in Judge Hutton's court yesterday. After the examination of the witness, the court postponed the further hearing until November 9, in the meantime remarking that if both parties proved all they alleged in their complaints that they would not be entitled to any relief through a divorce decree. Judge Hutton also said that in his opinion the couple were quarreling more over the property than anything else, and after the division of the estate, it would not be hard for them to get along as man and wife. The parties to the action were David Mast, a prosperous rancher, living near Colegrove, and his wife, Dora Mast, against whom the husband had brought an action for divorce on the ground of extreme cruelty, while the wife came right back with a cross-complaint setting out the same troubles.

The Masts were married January 21, 1905. At that time the wife was a widow with three children. She owned a home in Hollywood, and he had a large holding of farming land in Kings county. But there was trouble from the beginning, due, the husband stated, to the jealous disposition of the wife. As the case proceeded it became apparent to the court that the contest between the two was more for the property than anything else, and the action outlined in the opening paragraph was taken. The court room was full of witnesses from Colgrove, and among others was Mrs. Brown, mentioned in the testimony of Mast, as being the cause of the wife's jealousy. One day when the Masts were accompanying the Browns to a neighboring rancher to see a cow they proposed buying, Mast helped Mrs. Brown out of the wagon, and his wife got mad because the woman had placed her hands on Mast's shoulder.

PRIVATE FEUD AT THE BOTTOM?

CASE OF HOGAN AND VAREY IS REHEARSED.

Police License Inspector, on Leaving Courtroom, is Served With Notice of Civil Action for Seven Thousand Dollars—Trouble is of Long Standing.

The outward manifestations of a private feud alleged to exist between Police License Inspector Varey and D. F. Hogan, proprietor of the Westlake Livery Stables, were rehearsed in Police Judge Frederickson's court yesterday. The immediate cause of raking over old ashes was the arrest of Hogan and J. F. Hart, of the livery firm of Hart & Bros., by Varey and McPhillips last Tuesday. The charge against them was the violation of a city ordinance requiring that the owner's name shall be painted on the outside of all public vehicles. Attorney Paul Schenck, who appears for the defense, yesterday filed a motion to dismiss the complaint on the ground that the ordinance is no longer effective, having been virtually repealed by the passage of a later statute permitting the license and license numbers to be kept in the driver's boot.

As Varey left the courtroom, he was served with papers in a civil suit for $7000 damages demanded by Hogan in reparation for his arrest by Varey a month ago on the charge of having violated an ordinance which was subsequently found to be non-existent. It is alleged by the plaintiff that the arrest was made to gratify a personal grudge and private spite, arising from trouble of long standing between the men. Hogan says that he can produce any number of witnesses to prove that Varey has repeatedly said that he "will get that Irishman (Hogan) sooner or later."

It appears that the trouble had its origin more than a year ago when Varey arrested Hogan on a license violation charge. Police Judge Williams gave him a suspended sentence of $10 fine. Varey protested violently but to no effect. When the two men reached the street there was an altercation which resulted in Varey's re-arresting Hogan on a charge of disturbing the peace.

No complaint was found against the livery man on the latter count, which is said to have further angered the inspector. He arrested Hogan again on September 19, last, and took him to the Central Station in the patrol wagon, only to find that there could be no complaint since the ordinance supposed to have been violated had been repealed. Hogan at once filed charges with the Police Commission against Varey for illegal arrest, alleging that it had been prompted solely by Varey's private spite against him. They were dismissed on the supposition that Varey had acted under a misapprehension.

The arrest of Hart in company with Hogan last Tuesday is asserted to have been made in order to disguise the supposed fact that the action was really aimed at Hogan. It is further claimed that, upon investigation, the ordinance which they are said to have violated will be found to be no longer in force.

The damage suit goes to the Superior Court and the hearing on the new charges was set by Justice Frederickson for next Thursday.

MORE TIME THAN MONEY.

Many Witnesses Testify and Help Confuse Matters In Petty Larceny Case.

Thirty bottles and one gunny sack alleged by their owner, Jacob Schneider, of No. 734 Turner street, to be worth ninety cents, took up three hours of Police Judge Frederickson's time in police court yesterday.

Schneider alleges that, during his absence, his neighbor, Dan Liedeff, covested the bottles and the sack, and finally scaled the intervening fence and made away with them, secreting them in a shed on his own property. Numerous witnesses and hot arguments were introduced on both sides, and the court finally decided to take still more time to the case, which was continued until next Monday.

Ample Evidence In Chinese Lottery Cases Clutter Up Police Court Room.

Ten Chinamen, each sadly eyed a cart-load of "evidence" in the shape of lottery tickets and sundry Celestial counterparts for stock-ledgers, in Police Judge Williams's court yesterday. They were the net results of all the lottery raids into Chinatown that have been conducted by Officers Mitchell, Moyer, Shy, North, Ewin and Curtin during the last two weeks.

After taking evidence steadily for six hours, two of the men, Fong Wing and Quong Pong, were found guilty. They will be sentenced today, at which time the rest of the cases will be taken up.

Mrs. E. M. Whittemore of New York city, founder and president of the Door of Hope Missions, will speak on the work conducted by the Salvation Army in the anti-suicide bureau Sunday evening at No. 431 South Hill street.

Mrs. Whittemore has been engaged in this work with the army for sometime. She is also a member of the American Purity Federation. Her addresses are full of thrilling stories of wonderful cases of men and women rescued through the Door of Hope and anti-suicide bureau.

She has been closely associated with Commander Miss Booth the past three years, and holds an office in the Salvation Army with a title of Adjutant. The public is invited to hear her on this occasion.

BREWERY CONCERN MAKES AN EMBEZZLEMENT CHARGE.

Accuses Captain of Vessel With Having Failed to Make Proper Return on Five Hundred Barrels of Bottled Beer Which He Took to Honolulu—Tales Don't Agree.

A. W. E. Thompson, who poses as the owner of the good ship Aldine Bessie, was arrested yesterday on a charge of having embezzled the proceeds from the sale of 500 barrels of beer.

The complainant is the Los Angeles Brewing Company, which alleges that it secured his services to dispose of the foamy liquid in Honolulu and that he did not turn a dollar over to the company.

The beer was consigned to the care of Thompson last July. It was contained in hundreds of bottles which were packed in the 500 barrels. His agreement was that he would transport it on his ship, deduct a reasonable amount for shipping and for his commission and send the balance back to the firm.

The brewers were counting on a handsome profit out of the venture, as they claim to put out a beer which is more suitable for hot climates than the brew of others.

The transaction remained open from month to month. They heard nothing from Thompson, but expected that he would turn up some day with his pockets full of gold for the producers.

Thompson did arrive here and was called on by a representative of the brewery. He is alleged to have told a hard-luck story, asserting that the beer was practically unsalable and that he disposed of it for $300, barely enough to cover freightage charges.

The brewery owners immediately communicated with attorneys in Honolulu, asking them to look into the sale of the product. The report was that Thompson had disposed of the beer for $3600, receiving $1800 and the balance in notes, which he immediately discounted.

The evidence was laid before Deputy Dist. Atty. Keyes and he issued a complaint charging Thompson with embezzlement. The defendant made no effort to get away, although the Aldine Bessie is understood to have been ready to disembark.

He was arraigned before Justice Baird, yesterday, and his examination was set for November 11. He was released under $5000 bonds.

The Standard Oil Company in New York, reduced the price of refined petroleum in cases from $9.40 to $8.90 per gallon.

In the Associated and the Standard weeks ago cut the price of daily ru the San Joaquin valley to 30 cen barrel and the companies outside Agency fold and not having contr with the Standard were facing a situation.

The Independent Agency had n provision for its members by issu storage certificates, but the future not look very bright for the produc Then came the announcement of signing of an agreement between Independents, who had more oil t they could care for, and the Associa which had the contracts but not oil in sufficient quantities. Imme ately the pall was lifted, and the again appeared to the anxious ope tors.

The next big move that brought to the hearts of the oil men was the tion of the directors of the Union Company in increasing its divide by 10 cents a share a month. At o the oil issues known to be strong gan to look up and the business on local Stock Exchange increased leaps and bounds. In a day or two Union's stock advanced several dolla a share, and the stock of the Mexic Petroleum Company Limited made like gain on the local market and San Francisco. This was followed advances in the stocks of the Unit Oil Company, the California Midwa the Consolidated Midway and seve other issues.

At the same time the public began get into the game again, and the bus ness on the Los Angeles Exchan doubled and trebled with the oil sues in the saddle. Since the specula ing public is actuated almost all t gether by the conditions surroundi the interests in which it makes inves ments, it is easy to see that the oil i dustry has received a big boost with the past few weeks.

The news from Bakersfield and Coa inga, the centers of the greatest acti ity in oil development, is to the effe that the operators are feeling muc better and more optimistic than the have for many months, and some of th biggest companies have already give orders to push development on the properties. During the lull, while th operators were playing a waiting gam new work was not undertaken to an great extent, but now all is change and the industry will soon be humming again as it did six months ago.

On top of all the other things de signed to boost the industry the Dohen interests have just made a contract wit the Waters-Pierce crowd to furnish great amount of oil for the Tampico re finery. Oil is being moved to the coas in this state and it is believed that th California market will be extende soon. The best of feeling prevails in o circles at this time.

RUSHING NEW WORK.

VALLECITOS DISTRICT.

Development work is being pushed in the Vallecitos district. The new $14,000 county road from Mendota into the oil field has materially helped the operators and supplies are being rushed in. The New Bedford Oil Company is hauling in the last of its five inch casing. This company's well is down 1650 feet. The drill went through 100 feet of oil sand giving a fair yield; the big pay streak will probably be struck at 2000 feet.

The Range 16 Oil Company has its rig up, boiler and engine connected, and water pipe line laid. It will begin drilling immediately. The company has one of the most commodious and comfortable camps in the field and the crew is well pleased with it. Some of the other outfits now drilling, or preparing to drill in this field, are the Ashurst, the Huis-Berg, German-American, Snelling, Santa Maria, and Standard Development oil companies. Ralph Arnold is interested with E. A. Clark of Boston and W. F. Hamson of San Francisco in the Standard Development Company.

Will Ship Oil Soon.

Construction work is in progress on the side track for the Midway View Oil Company, at Maricopa, and as soon as completed the company will commence shipments of oil from its No. 1 well, which has been a producer for some weeks past. The oil in the meantime is being stored in large earthern reservoirs awaiting the completion of shipping facilities.

The company is now down 2290 feet on well No. 2, and barring drilling accidents, it expects to have it completed by December 1. The drill is now in blue shale and the log of the well is identical with with some of the big producers adjoining the property of the company.

New Well Is Growling.

The latest report from the Consolidated Midway Oil Company's new well on section 32 is that it is growling in a threatening manner, and pending the putting on of the big gate valves the tools have been hung up. The moment the drill penetrated the oil sand there was a ruction, and the oil spattered up against, and over the crown block. Since then the well has spouted several times, then sanded up. The crew hopes that it will stay sanded until the control work is done. As it is, they feel that they are standing over a volcano likely to break loose at any moment. The new well is acting precisely as the section 20 controlled gusher did when it came in.

GOLD PRODUCTION AND PRICES.

"That an increase in the quantity of money," wrote John Stuart Mill, "raises prices, and a diminution lowers them, is the most elementary proposition in the theory of currency, and without it we should have no key to any of the others."

One hundred and twenty-five years ago Hume wrote: "Suppose four-fifths of all the money in Britain to be annihilated in one night. Must not the price of all labor and commodities sink in proportion?

In 1879 Lord Beaconsfield said: "The produce of the gold mines of Australia and California has been regularly diminishing. As a consequence the amount of the currency is yearly diminishing. Gold is every day appreciating in value, and as it appreciates, the lower become prices."

In 1885 Moreton Frewen wrote: "The rise of prices has, during a period of 2000 years, been an efficient indicator of the comparative progress of civilization. When prices have fallen for a time, then we recognize reaction—the ebb of the tide—while the steadier the rise of prices—metallic prices—the greater has ever been the stimulus to enterprise, to industry, and to the accumulation of capital."

The historian Allison wrote: "The two greatest events that have occurred in the history of mankind have been directly brought about by a successive contraction and expansion of the circulating medium of society. The fall of the Roman empire, so long ascribed, in ignorance, to slavery, heathenism, and moral corruption, was in reality brought about by a decline in the silver and gold mines of Spain and Greece. And, as if Providence had intended to reveal in the clearest manner the influence of this mighty agent in human affairs, the resurrection of mankind from the ruin which those causes had produced was owing to a directly opposite set of agencies being put in operation. Columbus led the way in the career of renovation; when he spread his sails across the Atlantic he bore mankind and its fortunes in his barque. The annual supply of the precious metals for the use of the globe was tripled; before a century had expired, the prices of every species of produce was quadrupled. The weight of debt and taxes insensibly wore off under the influence of that prodigious increase. In the renovation of industry the relations of society were changed, the weight of feudalism cast off, the rights of man established. Among the many concurring causes which conspired to bring about the mighty consummation, the most important, though hitherto the least observed, was the discovery of Mexico and Peru. If the circulating medium of the globe had remained stationary, or declining, as it was from 1815 to 1849, from the effects of the South American revolution, and from English legislation, the necessary result must have been that it would have become altogether inadequate to the wants of man; and not only would industry have been everywhere cramped, but the price of produce would have universally and constantly fallen. Money would have every day become more valuable; all other articles measured in money less so; debt and taxes would have been constantly increasing in weight and oppression. The fate which crushed Rome in ancient, and all but crushed Great Britain in modern, times, would have been that of the whole family of mankind. All these evils have been entirely obviated, and the opposite set of blessings introduced, by the opening of the great treasures of Nature in California and Australia. Before half a century has elapsed the price of every article will be tripled, enterprise proportionally encouraged, industry vivified, debts and taxes lessened."

In 1873, when the decrease in the production of gold began, there were 145,000,000 of gold sovereigns in the currency of England. In 1884 this had fallen to 120,000,000, and in 1888 to 100,000,000. England lost 30 per cent. of her entire legal tender currency in ten years. It went abroad to pay for food, and its place was not supplied by increased production of gold. In 1881 the gold coinage of the United States was, in round numbers, $97,000,000. In 1882 it fell to $66,000,000. In 1883 it was $29,000,000. In 1884 it was $24,000,000. In 1890 it reached its lowest ebb at $20,000,000.

During the period of decreased production of gold, prices all over the world fell rapidly. The evidence given in Great Britain before Lord Iddesleigh's Trade Commission was that "no traders knew where they stood; goods were losing their value. In one trade it was a fall of 20 per cent., in another 50 per cent., and prices were all the time going steadily downward.

In 1891 the tide began again to flow slowly but steadily. The gold production of West Australia, of the Transvaal, of Cripple Creek and of Alaska was very great. In 1893 the gold coinage of the United States had advanced from $20,000,000 to $56,000,000. In 1894 it was $79,000,000. In 1899 it was $111,000,000, in 1900 it was $99,000,000, and in 1901 it was $102,000,000. It fell off during the next two years, so that in 1903 it was only $44,000,000. But in 1904 it reached the enormous sum of $233,402,428.

An increase in the volume of money brings with it a decrease in the value or purchasing power of money, and a decrease in the rates of interest. The possessor of $100,000 would have been accounted, thirty years ago, a man of fortune; now he is in genteel poverty. Then he could obtain 7 per cent., or an income of $7000 per annum on his principal. Now he can get but $4000, and his $4000 will not buy as much rent, as much food, or as much clothing as $3000 would have done thirty years ago. The owners of income-paying real estate are largely the gainers by the new conditions, for they obtain larger rents while they can negotiate loans at lower rates. The owners of mortgages, of annuities, of pensions, of fixed incomes from any source are the losers, for the purchasing power of their revenues has decreased.

Labor is always the first to feel the consequence of a fall in prices, for its wages are the first thing to be reduced, and the last to gain the advantages of an advance. Yet labor "gets there" after a while. Carpenters, masons and painters, who formerly received from $1.75 to $2.50 per day, are now paid $2.50 to $4 per day, but they can buy but little if any more of the necessaries and comforts of life with their $4 than they could formerly have purchased with their $2.50. Rents are not much higher, and meats—other than the choice cuts—are not much higher, and whisky is not much higher, and coal oil and sugar are lower, but cigars, and theater tickets and ladies' half-acre hats, and other necessaries of life, are almost out of sight.

On the whole we shall all get along, millionaire and pauper, farmer and miner, clerk and mechanic, and have comfortable beds and plenty of food, "let the wind blow high or low."

WHERE WOMAN RULES.

Can women rule kingdoms better than men? The question comes to one's mind when considering the fate which has overtaken the unhappy Manuel of Portugal, in regarding the somewhat unfortunate position of the young Spanish ruler and then comparing the state of Holland under the gentle Wilhelmina.

In Portugal the crash of arms was heard last week; in Spain the guns may boom at any moment, but in Holland all's well and we find our consular agents referring to the little territory as enjoying so wise and enlightened a government as to maintain a high place among the nations.

But this fact does not prove that a woman can rule a kingdom better than a man. Wilhelmina, much loved as she is, is and must always be, merely a royal figurehead. The men who advise her are those who must chiefly be praised for guiding the destinies of the Netherlands aright. Were Wilhelmina to develop weaknesses similar to those which helped to undo Manuel, her throne would totter. Fortunately she happens to be a domesticated woman, fond of husband and home, and content to figure in "Who's Who" as a monarch while the men really manage Holland.

TREES AND CIVILIZATION.

We are able now to account for the superior knowledge, the virtue, the progress and patriotism of the people of the Pacific Coast States. It is because they have forests. If they had no trees they wouldn't know any more than the people of Nebraska did when they dropped their Republicanism for a time and whooped it up for Bryan.

According to Pinchot the quality of a nation's civilization is measured by the quantity of its growing trees. When you deforest it you deflower it of all that stands for progress and enlightenment (unless the trees are cut under the supervision of the forest reserve corps, and a suitable stumpage paid to its officials.)

Once Nineveh and Tyre were great cities. Their merchants were among the princes and great ones of the earth. Shekels and denari overflowed their treasure chests. Purple and fine linen was their daily garb. Falernian wine flowed down their gullets, they feasted on nightingale's tongues and the anklets and bracelets of their wives and daughters were of beaten gold studded with gems. Where are Nineveh and Tyre now? Ashes and ruins. What caused their decay? It was because they cut down their forests. It was because there was no Tyrean or Ninevehtian Pinchot to beat his breast when he struck a lyre (see the pun?) and sing to the approaching man with the ax: "Woodman, spare that tree."

Unless California commits to her county jails every iconoclastic, marauding, mercenary wretch who proposes to make lumber from her redwood and sugar pine forests (without paying a stiff royalty to the forest reserve people) the result will be that one of these days Los Angeles will resemble Goldsmith's deserted village, and Pasadena will become a roosting place for owls, and Long Beach will be a place for bats to practice aviation in. The only way to save these cities from being decivilized will be to use steel and concrete for the walls and floors and lumber from South America for the woodwork of our buildings.

A PATHETIC ERROR.

"In view of the dreadful tragedy, the Typographical Union should call off the strike against The Times."

This pathetic blunder betrays an unfortunate misapprehension which has a widespread prevalence.

The important fact is that The Times had no strike nor labor trouble of any sort on its hands at the time of the dynamiting and fire. The Times has had no strike in its office for twenty years. Its relations with all its employees were most peaceful and friendly. There was not a murmur in the shop. The enemies of The Times were all on the outside. Within The Times office all, from the President and General Manager to the office boy, were working like one happy family. It was this ideal condition, existent in the office of The Times for so long, that infuriated the enemies of industrial freedom.

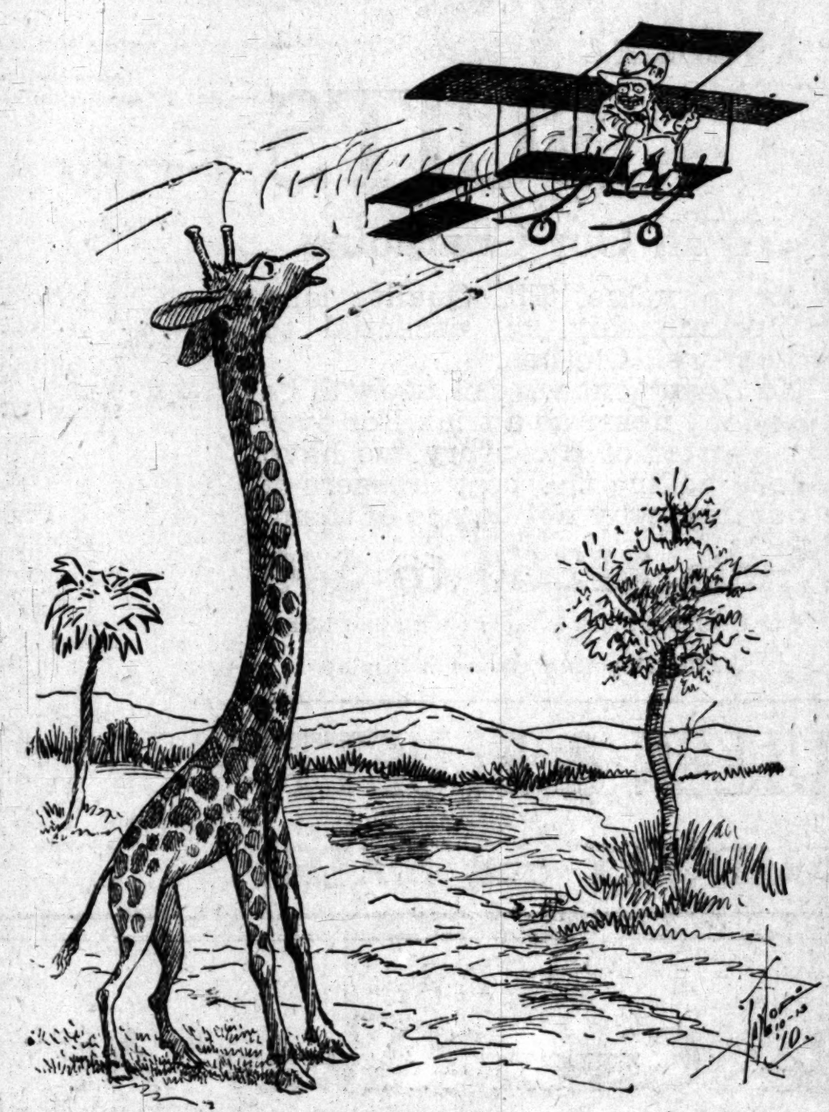
The Times was murderously attacked, not because of any quarrel of its own, but because of its long and fearless championship of the vital principle of industrial freedom, its stand against picketing, slugging, dynamiting and all forms of violence by lawbreaking members of the unions, and its determination to help maintain the independence of workingmen and the freedom of industry in Los Angeles and the Southwest, at all hazards.

No error could be more misleading than the assumption that The Times plant was blown up and burned because of a strike or labor trouble of any sort of its own, when the salient fact is that The Times office has been absolutely free from labor troubles for twenty years.

All of our pleasures come from anticipation. The woman who said she had longed for ten years to possess a brass bed, and now that she can get one discovers that she wants a Napoleon bed in mahogany, has summed up the whole phenomenon of human life.

Wu Ting-Fang has asked the Chinese government to issue an order permitting Chinese to cut off their queues, but they will never be Americanized until they cease wearing their shirts on the outside of their pantaloons.

A HIGHER-UP.



UNCLE WALT.

The Poet Philosopher.

Come hither, little Peterkin, and hear on to my spiel; I've sat and watched you playing there with ball and hoop and reel; and thrice your mother, at the door, hath called you to her aid, for she is busy canning prunes, and making marmalade. And thrice you answered: "I'll be there in just a brace o' shakes," which answers, if not brazen lies, at least were dizzy fakes; and here you play with hoop and reel, and gambol like a lamb, while mother wrestles with the stove and stirs her blamed old jam. I tell you, little Peterkin, you're starting life all wrong; when mother calls, a little lad should line up for her strong. You have a lot of years ahead in which to romp and play, but mother's feet are drawing near the ending of the way. I've lived about a hundred years, and I've forgotten lots; the memory I carry 'round is kind o' blank in spots; but I remember mother well, and when she called I flew and left my play on eager feet, her little chores to do; and had I done the other thing in those dim, distant years, I could not speak of mother now without some bitter tears. So throw away the ball and reel, the hoop and skipping rope, and help your mother feed the stove and stir the boiling dope.

EXPERT SAYS WE LEAD.

Declares California Far in Advance in Dry Farming and Problem Nearly Solved.

California has more nearly solved the problem of dry farming than any other State in this country, according to Bakonyi, who has been investigating various farming communities and also the beet sugar factories of the north.

"Dry farming originated in Hungary, Poland and Austria," he said, "and for that reason it is safe to state that we, having the advantage of years of practice, are still far in advance of America in dry farming methods. Many of our products, peculiar to dry farming countries, are being produced here, the sugar beet among them."

"OUR WAY" THE WINNING WAY.

SUPERB RESPONSE TO TICKET SALE YESTERDAY.

Unique Procession of Kings of Finance, With Detail of Policemen and Regiment of Musicians, Drums Up Sympathy-Trade for Martyr Families—Some Seats Left.

"The Los Angeles Way of Doing Things" was the legend on The Times sufferers benefit relief wagon which made a remarkable procession from the Chamber of Commerce building, down Broadway to Eighth street, yesterday morning. Advanced by a detail of twenty policemen in charge of Capt. Lennhausen, and preceded and followed by large brass bands, the wagon which was loaded down with some of the most prominent citizens of Los Angeles, found it almost difficult to move through the throngs which surrounded it.

Important officials, successful business men and the best-known professional men in the city offered the eager citizens tickets at $2 each, and thousands of dollars passed from the hands of citizens to the hands of the committeemen on their comforting way to the pockets of sufferers from the frightful wholesale assassination of Times' employees which took place when The Times building was dynamited and burned on the morning of October 1.

With his hat in one hand and a handful of tickets in the other, Mayor George Alexander approached scores of persons lining Broadway with the polite request of, "Won't you please buy a ticket?" Moving among the throng a few feet from the Mayor was Joseph Scott, president of the Chamber of Commerce and of the Board of Education. Mr. Scott also met with huge success and added hundreds of dollars to the relief fund through his personal efforts on this occasion.

Scores of prominent people joined the already large committee of influential persons as the procession continued. Men deserted their business to join the sympathetic band of workers. More than a score of business men left their stores and stepped upon the wagon to put on the yelow badge of the committee and take a bunch of ten tickets for sale. Other men on errands of haste joined the splendid relief expedition, so that before the party had covered Spring, Main and Los Angeles streets on their line of march, an army of workers had enlisted.

It was an army in which there were no conscripts; all enlistments were voluntary. They represented that splendid feeling which has inspired the people of Los Angeles almost as a unit since the dreadful occurrence.

Hundreds of persons along the line of march seemed to feel that they had as much to do with the work as the members of the committee, and they proved their interest by their hearty response when tickets were offerd for sale.

The members of the committee darted from the wagon into the crowd with blocks of ten tickets each and quickly returned for more. The money was deposed over to H. D. Gurley, who acted as cashier. It is safe to say that he was the busiest man in Los Angeles yesterday and that he never in his life handled money which was passed to him with more good will.

L. E. Behymer was on the door, so to speak. On the wagon with them were M. C. Neuner, Louis Judah, John Cornell, W. H. Neiswender, G. G. Johnson and H. G. Chilson. They were kept busy assisting Mr. Gurley in managing the transference of tickets to the busy salesmen.

It is certain that this was one of the most remarkable processions which ever passed over Los Angeles' streets, and that the splendid and unique enterprise of the men in charge was one of the most effectual methods possible for the presentation of their worthy appeal to all the people.

LOOKING US OVER.

Eastern Capitalists Arrive to Inspect Big Oil Field in Which They Are Interested.

W. C. Reed, of Potter-Reed & Company, New York investment brokers, with Mrs. Reed and a party of eight Eastern capitalists, arrived yesterday at the Lankershim.

Reed is promoter of the Adeline Oil Company of Maricopa, which is one of the big producing concerns of that field, and the men who accompany him are all heavy stockholders. In the aggregate they represent more than $500,000 invested in Southern California and are preparing to put more money here, according to Reed.

"Strange as it may seem," said Reed, "we have never seen our own property. Its purchase was done on the advice of expert engineers and a member of our company, and we went ahead with the development as fast as possible.

"At present we are producing 30,000 barrels of oil a month, and it is our intention to increase the number of wells so that we shall produce three times that amount of oil. All my experts and friends, who have come here have gone wild over the possibilities of the field."

Other members of the party include Dr. F. B. Collins, a Philadelphia surgeon; Willard H. Walls, who has erected most of the public buildings of Philadelphia in addition to many private buildings in the past twenty years; John J. Kelley, a wholesale druggist of New York; E. A. Maryon, a distiller of East Orange; his son, Arthur C. Maryon and John A. Joa, merely a New York capitalist, and Dr. B. D. Evans of New York.

The party will remain in Los Angeles for several days before proceeding to Bakersfield. From that place they will go to San Francisco, and then on home with several stops, combining pleasure with business.

SOMETHING TO LEARN.

English Biscuit Manufacturer Says America Has Not Achieved Great Britain's Success.

"No, Americans have not achieved the success of the English in the line of biscuits or cookies as yet," he said when asked for a comparison between the two countries. "We make more than 200 different varieties of the sweet biscuit alone. As for what you call crackers, there is no great difference. The American crackers and biscuits are practically as good, but they are so limited in varieties."

Because his plant was destroyed by fire about six months ago, Serpell came to this country to investigate American methods and has visited many factories here.

"I have kept my men on the payroll right along," he went on, "for the simple reason that they are among the finest of their kind in England and I can't afford to lose them. I have two men who entered the service of our father more than forty-six years ago. To find employees of this character is such an unusual thing that they are worth a great deal of money. In our country we do not have nearly the number of labor troubles that are apparent in America. The laboring people are more satisfied with their position in England."

Mr. Serpell will remain here for about a week, and proceed to the Grand Canyon, New Orleans, and home.

PULLS IN RIVERSIDE.

Committee Interested in the Panama-Pacific Exposition Confers With Commercial Body.

The Boosting Committee which is touring Southern California in the interest of the Panama-Pacific Exposition and conducting a series of conferences with a view to better acquainting the voters with Constitutional Amendments Nos. 33 and 52 affecting the international exposition, which are to be voted on in November, held a meeting yesterday at Riverside with the Chamber of Commerce.

Unfortunately several of the more influential members of the Riverside chamber were unable to be present, owing to a conflicting meeting of the Tri-county Reforestation Committee in San Bernardino at the same hour, but notwithstanding this a harmonious and well attended gathering was held.

Addresses were delivered by Assemblyman Cogswell of El Monte, Senator Thompson of Alhambra and Albert Lindley of San Francisco. After the meeting had adjourned, the directors of the Chamber of Commerce held an informal meeting and decided that at some time the latter part of next week they will call an open mass meeting which will be well advertised and doubtless will be largely attended, with a view to discussing all the phases of the proposed Constitutional Amendments, especially Nos. 33 and 52.

FIGHTING CITY ORDINANCE.

An action was brought yesterday in the Superior Court, by the Berlin Dye Works to have declared null and avoid the ordinance creating the office of Fire Marshal and regulating the storage of inflamable articles within certain prescribed districts. Judge Bordwell signed the temporary restraining order.

The defendants in the case are the Mayor, the City Council and Police Justices Chambers, Frederickson, Rose and Williams, before whom actions involving the issues of the case are pending.

The plaintiffs say they have been engaged in the business of dyeing clothes for the last fourteen years, that their investment aggregated about $250,000.

The plant is located on the southwest corner of Washington street and Griffith avenue, and under the terms of the ordinance complained of is excluded from the territory within which a dye works and cleaning establishment using steam power and steam boilers may be operated.

It is alleged that the management is threatened with arrest and prosecution for carrying on legal and lawful business, and asks the protection of the law.

LEAVES ALL TO WIDOW.

The petition of Caroline J. Sproul to have the will of her husband Atwood Sproul, probated was filed in court yesterday. Sproul died at Redondo walk, September 27. The estate, according to the petition amounts to $48,750, the larger item of which is realty. The personal property amounts to about $2000, and mortgages are valued at $800. Under the terms of the will, bearing date of March 12, 1909, when Sproul was 64 years of age, all of the property is given to the widow while she remains such or until their two daughters, Carrie Hillis of Arroyo and Beatrice Sproul, reach their majority, when it is to be divided under the laws of the State of California.

The Chinese Boxers ought to be compelled to take the count. Risings are unpopular just now even in the Flowery Kingdom.

THE STAGE.

ELEANOR GORDON, BEAUTY-WISHER.

EXQUISITELY HANDSOME WOMAN LONGS FOR GOOD LOOKS.

But She's Sincere About It, However—Likes Plays in Which She Has a Chance to Appear as a Real Human Being—Beasley's Reasons for Being Grouchy.

Eleanor Gordon, a young woman of striking beauty, who says that she hopes in some future state the gods will make her beautiful, will debut as the leading actress of the Theater de Black-ness Monday night.

The beautiful Miss Gordon's sighful remark about the beauty she wishes she might have is not an insincere bit of posing hypocrisy, however. She is so unconscious of her own charm that she is deliciously interesting.

She feels some trepidation in assuming a place at the head of an organization as renowned as is the Belasco Theater company, but she anticipates her work with real delight, for she loves acting, and she loves modern plays.

She has been in vaudeville for some time, and has also filled stock engagements and has been featured in important road attractions.

Miss Gordon is dark, five feet, seven inches in height, and robust, though by no means inclined to stoutness. She is a woman who, in a "tall" part, can look a truly commanding stature, and I think that to play the Nora Helmers and other baby-dolls of our modern stage a short skirt will take just about a foot off the top of her head.

She will open in "Zira," Monday night, playing that big emotional role opposite Miss Adele Farrington, who is also renowned as an actress possessing some "come back" ability in a big way.

Miss Gordon says she is fond of any parts in which she has a chance to impersonate a real woman—not a mere puppet, or a creature intended to fill in a certain amount of time, or "look pretty" on the stage.

"Especially do I hate so-called star parts," exclaimed Miss Gordon, looking out of her Alexandria windows upon the gentle rain of yesterday afternoon; "the star part is built to order, like a suit of clothes. She is apt not to be a human being, and if she is, she submerges everybody else in the play, so that one is forced to a practical monologue for the entire evening. And I'm not interested in three-hour monologues. No actress is sufficiently great to keep me from being tired after a three-hour monologue—and if the great actresses are not—what about poor little me? (Oh modesty!)

"Of course, do not understand me to say that I do not like big parts, leading parts, or big scenes; I do; I love them, just as any actress who is a real actress must love them, but I don't like creatures that are so patently the fabric of a dramatist's managerially-ruled imagination—a shell made to fit over the personality of some notable woman.

"I think that all great plays are written, not for special casts, but because their authors just 'have them in their systems,' as our vulgar but very practical old saying goes.

"Of modern plays, I don't think one contains a better part for a woman than 'The Girl With the Green Eyes.' Also we have everything that the philosophers say belongs to feminity—all the aspirations, all the hopes, the affection, the petty jealousy, and finally the burst of hysteric, nervous rage. That woman is very much a modern woman. The author wrote better than he knew."

Miss Gordon is to follow "Zira," with "The Blue Mouse," and she drolly refers to her role in this play as "a highly interesting little hussy."

After all, she is not "Miss" Gordon, but Mrs. Morton, the wife of a well-known local newspaper man, and she and her husband, after a professional separation of a number of months, are again in honeymooning at the Alexandria.

The well known James Whitcomb Riley poem, "Grigsby Station," is to be made into a vaudeville sketch, with the author's permission, and will soon be playing Orpheum time.

Eastern roads have agreed to check trained animals as baggage, much to the delight of acts carrying such paraphernalia. The first animal to be checked, after the rule went into effect, was Minnie, the 6000 pound trained elephant, which Capt. Gruber recently delivered at the Orpheum here. Minnie rides "excess" to the extent of three cars.

Mabie Hite and Mike Donlin are out again, playing Orpheum time. They are headed this way.

Charlie Murray, having broken for good with Ollie Mack, is making the biggest kind of hit in his vaudeville venture, and is now playing the Orpheum circuit, with the likelihood of reaching here ere long.

Funny opposition has developed between rival vaudeville managers in Baltimore. When one announced Wish Wynne, the other put in Bessie Wynn as headliner, and when he announced Miss Tannen, his rival put in Julius Tannen. The fun is in prospect as long as similar names hold out.

There is only one fly in the ointment of happiness at the Burbank theater during the first production tomorrow afternoon of the new play "The Eternal Three" by Frederick Elridge and Basil Heustis. The aforesaid insect is the personal property of A. Byron Beasley, the leading man, and its character is thus described by Mr. Beasley.

"This man Rand Cornell, that I am to impersonate in 'The Eternal Three,' is about the finest specimen of the vile family with whom I have ever come in contact. For many years I have played stage villains, but never in my whole career, have I ever come in contact with such a despicable creation."

This is a genuine tribute to the immaturity of the authors, who have made a woman with an idealized devotion for an unworthy object the central figure of their play. In order to bring out the more strongly the absolute unselfishness of the woman, the man was drawn in no uncertain lines as a thorough-going scamp.

Of course Mr. Beasley's antipathy toward the character is purely personal, and in no way affecting his artistic attitude. The actor who is remembered for such splendid characterizations as Joe Brooks, Jim Platt, Hilarity, and similar men of criminal tendencies, would not hesitate to play heartily and enthusiastically into the playing of the part of such a manly individual even as Rand Cornell, and his role certainly allows broad scope for strong acting.

After the scenic rehearsal of the play yesterday Manager Morosco, who has been conducting the rehearsals himself, declared himself to be thoroughly satisfied with the play.

Miss Gordon is dark, five feet, seven inches in height, and robust, though by no means inclined to stoutness. She is a woman who, in a "tall" part, can look truly commanding stature, and I think that to play the Nora Helmers and other baby-dolls of our modern stage a short skirt will take just about two off the top of her head.

She will open in "Zira," Monday night, playing that big emotional role which Miss Adele Farrington, who is best remembered as an actress possessing the "come back" ability in a big way.

Miss Gordon says she is fond of any part in which she has a chance to impersonate a real woman—not a mere doll, or a creature intended to fill in certain amount of time, or "look pretty" on the stage.

"Especially do I hate so-called star parts," exclaimed Miss Gordon, looking out of her Alexandria windows upon the gentle rain of yesterday afternoon; "the star part is built to order, like a suit of clothes. She is apt not to be a human being, and if she is, she submerges everybody else in the play, so that one is forced to a practical monologue for the entire evening. And I'm not interested in three-hour monologues. No actress is sufficiently great to keep me from being tired after a three-hour monologue—and if the great actresses are not—what about poor little me? (Oh modesty!)

"Of course, do not understand me to say that I do not like big parts, leading parts, or big scenes; I do; I love them, for no any actress who is a real actress must love them, but I don't like dramas that are so patently the fabric of a dramatist's managerially-ruled imagination—a shell made to fit over the personality of some notable woman.

"I think that all great plays are written not for special casts, but because the authors just 'have them in their systems' as our vulgar but very practical saying goes.

"Of modern plays, I don't think one contains a better part for a woman than 'The Girl With the Green Eyes.' Here we have everything that the philosophers say belongs to femininity—all the aspirations, all the hopes, the affection, the petty jealousy, and finally the burst of hysteric, nervous rage. The woman is very much a modern woman. The author wrote better than he knew."

Miss Gordon is to follow "Zira," with "The Blue Mouse," and she drolly remarks to her role in this play as "a high-strung interesting little hussy."

After all, she is not "Miss" Gordon, but Mrs. Morton, the wife of a well-known local newspaper man, and she and her husband, after a professional separation of a number of months, are said to be honeymooning at the Alexandria.

The well known James Whitcomb Riley poem, "Grigsby Station," is to be made into a vaudeville sketch, with the author's permission, and will soon be seen at Orpheum time.

Eastern roads have agreed to check trained animals as baggage, much to the delight of acts carrying such paraphernalia. The first animal to be checked, after the rule went into effect, was Minnie, the 6000 pound trained elephant, which Capt. Gruber recently played at the Orpheum here. Minnie will "travel" to the extent of three cars.

Jack Ellis and Mike Donlin are out this week, playing Orpheum time. They are booked that way.

Charlie Murray, having broken for good with Ollie Mack, is making the rounds of the big kind of hit in his vaudeville sketch, and is now playing the Orpheum circuit, with the likelihood of staying here ere long.

Many opposition has developed between rival vaudeville managers in Los Angeles. When one announced Wish Wynn, the other put in Bessie Wynn the Whistler, and when he announced Julius Tannen, his rival put in Julius Tannen. The fun is in prospect as long as the names hold out.

There is only one fly in the ointment that appears at the Burbank theater this week, and that is the first production tomorrow night of the new play "The Eternal Three" by Frederick Elridge and Paul Renetis. The aforesaid insect is the personal property of A. Byron Beasley, the leading man, and its character is described by Mr. Beasley, that I am the man Rand Cornell, that I am represented in "The Eternal Three," and the finest specimen of the whole family with whom I have ever been in contact. For many years I have played villains, but never in my career, have I ever come in contact with such a despicable creation."

This is a genuine tribute to the powers of the authors, who have made a woman with an idealized devotion for an unworthy object the central figure of their play. In order to bring out the more strongly the contrast between unselfishness of the woman, the character was drawn in no uncertain terms as a thorough-going scamp. Of course Mr. Beasley's antipathy for the character is purely personal, and in no way affecting his acting attitude. The actor who is responsible for such splendid characterizations as Joe Brooks, Jim Platt, Jack Hardy, and similar men of criminal instinct, would not hesitate to enter heartily and enthusiastically into the playing of the part of such a meanie as Rand Cornell, and he certainly allows broad scope for strong acting.

During the scenic rehearsal of the play Manager Morosco, who was conducting the rehearsals, declared himself to be highly satisfied with the play.

With many theatrical managers, this optimism would not be especially significant, but Mr. Morosco, has been either an excellent guesser, regarding new plays, or has had exceptional luck, or else, which is probably the case, his judgment regarding a play in the making is unusually sound. It was he who first produced "Mispah" which has been a success everywhere except New York, running ten weeks in San Francisco at a stretch. He gave "The Rose of the Rancho" its start in the world as "Juanita of San Juan." And in spite of many adverse criticisms he was confident that "The Country Boy," produced at the Burbank last summer would be a big success, a prophecy justified by its present run in New York.

Ferris Hartman, with Mrs. Hartman and Manager Charles V. Kavanagh will arrive from New York this morning and tomorrow afternoon the season of musical comedy will open at the Grand Operahouse with a production of Richard Carle's "Mary's Lamb." "Mary's Lamb" is scheduled to gambol for one week only and will be followed with the first production by a stock organization of Pixley and Luder's well known hit "King Dodo."

SURPRISE FOR SHERIFF.

Kern County Officer Here for One Prisoner and Finds Two Waiting for Him.

Sheriff J. W. Kelly of Kern county arrived in the city yesterday to take charge of Frank Fletcher, alias "the rabbit," wanted in Bakersfield on a burglary charge. He was arrested Thursday by Officers Stevens and Watson.

Hardly had the Sheriff arrived in town when a second Bakersfield man was taken into custody in the person of S. L. Keeney, wanted in the northern city on a charge of having uttered a fictitious check.

Though Keeney was something in the nature of an unexpected guest, Kelly accepted him from Detectives Ritch and Roberds, who made the capture, added him to the bag which was taken North last night.

RESPITE FOR JOHNSON.

A charge against A. W. Johnson of having failed to provide for his minor child was continued to December 23 by Justice Baird, yesterday. Johnson promised to contribute $15 a month for the care of his offspring. If he does so the charge will be dismissed.

You've Been Waiting for This Suction Cleaner

The woman who sweeps her house nowadays without an electric vacuum sweeper, is doing a lot of wholly unnecessary work. For electric sweepers clean one's house more thoroughly and more easily, and more inexpensively, than it can otherwise be done. We want to convince YOU of that fact:

THE MAGIC ELECTRIC SUCTION CLEANER—runs easier than a carpet sweeper, because the motor is mounted upon two little rubber-tired wheels, its cost to operate is less than a cent an hour—current used is no greater than that required to run a 16 c. p. light. It costs only $38.00—or, with complete set of attachments—eight pieces—$49.50.

SEPARATE ATTACHMENTS—While the Magic is complete for ordinary sweeping without the eight extra attachmens, they will be found most convenient for general cleaning.

FOOT—To use when using other attachments.
HOSE—To fit this foot. HANDLE—For the hose.
UPHOLSTERY ATTACHMENT—For curtains and high places.
MOULDING BRUSH—For cleaning off mouldings.
WALL AND CEILING BRUSH.
HARD WOOD FLOOR BRUSH—Felt faced. Polishes and removes dirt.

DEMONSTRATIONS—all day long. We are more than pleased to show prospective customers what this 20th Century sweeper will do.

FAIR DEAL ALL AROUND AIM FOR ACQUEDUCT POWER.

Electric Companies Give Their Views and Ask That the Municipality Declare Its Policy in Interest of All Concerned—Distinguished Audience Hears Discussion of Distribution Question—Expression Opposed to Competition.

THE Council Chamber in the City Hall was crowded with the lore and logic of the city Thursday night, at the discussion of the question of distribution of electric power derived from the Los Angeles Aqueduct.

The City Council, Board of Public Works, Water Board, Aqueduct Commission, and many other city officials sat as interested hearers. The officers of the light and power corporations, judges, lawyers, and other prominent business and professional men of the city, filled the chairs, and it was a "people's parliament" of distinguished personnel.

The interest in the subject was most marked, and the speakers had the closest attention. The discussion was conducted along dignified lines, and the suggestions of speakers were received with respect. The danger at these public discussions, where every speaker is given the privilege of the floor without question, is that irresponsibles will take advantage of it to air a grievance or to throw dirt at somebody. Only one man tried it last night and he got a cool reception.

The first speaker introduced by Mayor Alexander was Mayor Earley of Pasadena, who made a short plea for his city, that it might be able to participate in the benefits to flow from the Aqueduct. He advocated the ownership of all utilities by the municipality.

J. B. Miller, president of the Southern California Edison Company, made a brief but pointed talk.

MILLER'S POINTS.

"Los Angeles has a wonderful asset in her Owens River project," said Mr. Miller. "In Southern California water is life and electricity is power. The problem confronting you, gentlemen, is to keep this life and to utilize this power for the greatest good of the community as a whole. It is to make electricity as abundant, or more so, and rates as cheap, or more so, than in any other city in the United States, and at the same time, make of it an asset, an earner, not a liability or a burden on our city. It should be made to pour into the treasury of Los Angeles a good round profit annually with which to meet bond interest and keep down taxes.

"It is not a simple problem but most complex—as important a matter as has ever come before you. Many questions will have to be answered, much information and advice obtained, legal, technical and economic, before a wise decision can be reached. The problem is complicated somewhat by the plants and properties of the three companies which now serve the city and which are daily meeting with new demands and applications for new lines and new extensions. These properties represent many millions of investment and employment of many thousands of men throughout Southern California, and the fate of those investments and of these men hangs to a degree upon your decision. The city's reputation for good, sound sense and for fair, square dealing also hangs upon the issue. Whatever plan is adopted will be scrutinized and analyzed, not only in California but in every important city in the United States, as our aqueduct is an undertaking so momentous as to command attention from the whole country and even foreign countries.

"But, complicated as is the problem and important as is the issue, gentlemen, I have every confidence in the desire of the people of this city and their representatives to deal carefully, wisely and fairly with the proposition, and I wish to say for the Southern California Edison Company that we are not here in any spirit except that of co-operation and helpfulness. It is not necessary to impair or destroy our investments in order to realize an abundance of cheap electricity for the taxpayer, and in fact, through co-operation this can be done and his taxes actually reduced. Whatever we can do to help solve the problem will be done, and whatever plan is decided upon we will endeavor to adapt ourselves to it, and to co-operate with the city to make electricity so cheap and so abundant in Los Angeles as to wrest from Niagara her title, and cause, not Niagara, but Los Angeles to be known the world over as "the Electric City."

"To the end that your time be not taken up by all three companies presenting similar arguments and participating along similar lines they have united for the purpose of having one man represent them in these meetings. We trust this arrangement will not only bring out all of the points involved so far as we are concerned, but also effect a real saving of time for everybody. That representative is Walter J. Trask, and I have great satisfaction in surrendering the floor to him."

THE COMPANIES' SIDE.

"I appear before you tonight in a dual capacity—first as a taxpayer and second as the representative of the power companies," said Trask, in the main. "But as their representative I shall urge no fact upon your consideration that I do not deem pertinent to and in the interest of the taxpayers. I believe that in the present situation the best interests of the taxpayer, the city and power companies lie along parallel lines.

"In discussing the very important questions involved in the disposition of the Los Angeles aqueduct power we should consider the financial interests of the city, the rights of its citizens, and the equities of the power companies, and if possible, arrive at a conclusion that shall recognize the rights of all and do injustice to none. These subjects are so correlated and interwoven with each other that I shall not attempt any separate consideration of each, but shall consider them together as pertinent to the one great question, 'The Disposition of Los Angeles Aqueduct Power.'

"There are those who urge that the city should establish an independent distributing plant for supplying the city with electric light and power and crush the power companies. As I have contemplated this question I have been unable to believe that there is one fair-minded citizen within our city who fully understanding the situation would favor such a proposition for a moment. When I say that I am a firm believer in the initative, referendum and recall you will understand that I believe in the people, and that means that I believe in their sense of justice and fair play. If the people in their collective capacity favor an unjust proposition it is only because they do not understand the facts, and when they thoroughly understand the facts in the present matter, if they disagree with my views and the views of those I represent, it will be because we are wrong and they are right.

"The subject under consideration in its entire scope is not easy of comprehension—to understand many of its details, to appreciate the difficulties and uncertainties attending the business, requires a technical knowledge, which but few possess. But there are many facts involved that we can all understand, and which will be of assistance in reaching a just conclusion, and it is to such facts that I propose to address myself tonight. I shall assume that the power expected can be generated and for the expense contemplated, and you will bear in mind that the bonds thus far authorized do not include the expense necessary for a distributing plant in the City of Los Angeles or an auxiliary steam plant. It is estimated that at the present time it will cost the city about $5,000,000 to construct such a plant, and to meet the required extensions, including underground conduits for the next three years, an additional expense of more than two millions. It is also estimated that an auxiliary steam plant will cost at least one million dollars. The bonds of this city at present issued and authorized aggregate more than $33,000,00, which is the largest bonded indebtedness of any city of our class in the United States, except Cincinnati.

"Before the city can derive any income from the sale of either water or power, the taxpayer must provide for the interest on the bonds, as well as a sinking fund for their retirement. That this will be a great burden we all know. Our honored Mayor well said at the opening of these meetings that the taxpayer would have a heavy load to carry. If additional bonds are issued that burden must be correspondingly increased, and you will be confronted with the question of floating your securities. Speak of it as you will, disguise it as you may, this will remain a question until the last bond for the great work is negotiated. You, gentlemen, of the Council, have had some experience with the difficulties in this regard. They do not arise because any doubt of our financial ability or integrity, Los Angeles securities are good—as good as gold. It is proper to state right here and now that there will never be a default in the payment of either principal or interest upon any obligation of the City of Los Angeles, for behind its debts stand not only our property but our financial honor as well. We all understand, however, that the money to complete the aqueduct and power plant must be derived from the sale of bonds, and the less amount we issue, the easier it will be to float them. I admire the sentiment of the speakers who have said that we are a city of 350,000 and can float any amount of bonds, or do anything else we desire. But we must not overlook the fact that 'soft words butter no parsnips' and declamations do not float bonds. I quote again from previous speakers that 'the law of economics controls in these matters.' The situation as it exists very naturally leads to the question, 'In what position can the city place itself, for a time at least, to best insure the floating of its bonds and the lessening of the burden of the taxpayer?' Some will undoubtedly answer, 'By going ahead with a distributing plant and an auxiliary steam plant if necessary and entering into competition with the power companies.' But is such a course best? And in consideration of this question, let us for a moment take it up from the standpoint of the consumers. They are entitled to electric light at the lowest price consistent with a reasonable profit to those furnishing it, whether municipal or private corporations. It will not be to their interests to receive either at less than it costs to produce it at a reasonable profit. When any commodity is sold at less than this, somebody pays the freight. And if competition in the present case leads to such a result, it is easy to see upon whom the burden will fall. At the present time the consumer is receiving light at a price far less that the average price in the United States. I think it will be conceded that no city of our class has a rate as cheap as Los Angeles. So far as I am advised, the only cities in the United States having a less maximum rate are Niagara Falls, Jamestown, N. Y., Tacoma, Washington, and Pasadena. It does not follow that because a city is supplied by a municipal plant it will have a cheap rate. Let us briefly refer to these prices charged by cities owning and operating municipal plants."

Trask at this point read a list of forty-two cities within the United States where municipal ownership of lighting obtains, showing the average rate to be eleven and eight-tenths (11.8) cents per kilowatt hour. He then read a list of fifty-seven principal American cities in which the average rate for electric lighting, compiled from data collected during last June, was eleven and four-tenth (11.4) cents per kilowatt hour.

"Measured by other cities, it must be conceded that the consumer in Los Angeles has no valid reason for complaint where the maximum rate is seven cents. Pasadena is frequently referred to as a bright and shining example of what can be accomplished by a municipally-owned plant. There the competition between the municipality and the Southern California Edison company is so sharp that it was stated in the public press a few days since that an attempt was about to be made by certain interested citizens to coerce the Board of Trade of that city into taking light from the municipality instead of from the Edison company. An examination will show that the business there is being conducted at a loss by both parties to the controversy. The rights of the consumer can at all times be safeguarded by the power of the city to fix reasonable rates and should it make a contract with the power companies for the disposition of its power for a time, additional protection to consumers could be made by a provision therein for that purpose, so that in any event the rights of the consumer can be taken care of.

"The rapid growth of the city is constantly requiring the extension of electric light plants to supply outlying districts, the expense of which, including the building of underground conduits in the city, amounts to from $700,000 to $800,000 annually. It goes without saying that in the present unsettled state of affairs the companies cannot afford to make the required extensions. If it should be the policy of the city to enter the field as a competitor of the companies, it follows that they will not be justified in extending their systems in Los Angeles. There is but one course for them to pursue in such a contingency, and that is to stop all extensions, husband their resources and prepare for the best fight they can make to hold the business that they now have. It requires no argument to show that such a result will be most unfortunate to the development of our city. We cannot reasonably expect that the city will be in a position to furnish light before 1915 and it may require a long time after that before its plant will be sufficently extended to supply the outlying districts. Whereas, if an arrangement is made with the power companies at the present time, they can go on with their extensions the same as in the past, thereby enchancing their growth and prosperity. But whatever your policy is to be, it should be declared in the interest of all.

"The problem we have t in hand cannot be solved by competition in rates, neither can it find a solution by an agreement as to rates. To compete, the power companies must of necessity make a lower rate than the city. Otherwise, from a consideration of self-interest, consumers would patronize the city. Such a contest must necessarily be injurious to the city and possibly ruinous to the companies. And, gentlemen, I respectfully submit that the companies are entitled to a better deal from the city of Los Angeles than ruinous competition.

"In the beginning I referred to the equities of the power companies, and I meant what I said. Upon the invitation of this city as expressed in the laws of California, these companies have made very large expenditures to supply it and other territory in the county with light and power. Some idea of the magnitude of their investments can be formed from the amount of their bonded indebtedness which aggregates $27,000,000, and from the further fact that they pay in city and county taxes more than one thousand dollars a day, or in other words, more than one-thirtieth of the taxes that are paid into the treasury of the city and county. They have expended for distributing systems in the city of Los Angeles about six millions of dollars. Their improvements in the city are of a permanent character, consisting of underground conduits and overhead wires, reaching almost every street and available to nearly every business house in the city. The city has properly not permitted these systems to remain with even the appearance of lack of permanency and therefore maintainable at a comparatively minimum expense, but by ordinance has compelled them to become a part of the very soil of the city by obliging them to place permanent and costly conduits underground. Whatever the legal rights of the city may be, it certainly has assumed toward these companies a moral responsibility. It is its plain duty to protect them, if it can consistently do so with the rights of the people, and in any event, it should not by any competition, impair their investments to the extent that they may be unable to meet their obligations, including the payment of interest on their bonds. A default upon their part would be a severe blow to the city of Los Angeles, as their securities are held by the leading banks of this city and State, as well as by eastern banking institutions and the investing public generally. We welcomed the advent of the power companies in the city, and the adjacent cities and towns. By the capital they have brought here they have given great impetus to all of our industries and they have been one of the strongest factors in contributing to our prosperity. Would it be fair? would it be just? would it be in accordance with the "square deal" for the city after it has completed its aqueduct, in part at least, at the expense of the power companies, to cripple them by ruinous competition?

"I have suggested some reasons why there should be an amicable adjustment between the power companies and the city as to the disposition of the Los Angeles Aqueduct power, for a time, at least. I have no special plan to offer at this time, but I respectfully submit that if one can be evolved whereby the city will receive as much net gain as it would by distributing its light and power to the consumers direct and at the same time securing to them just rates, and also the protection of the investments of the power companies, it should be adopted. And I would further suggest that it would be well to call to your assistance, in addition to the able men you already have, and for whom we all have respect, some expert from the East—a man from some of the public utilities commissions who has practical as well as theoretical knowledge—and with such assistance and such other light as you can get by the advice of a board appointed for that purpose or otherwise, determine what profit the city can make if it constructs a distributing plant itself and deals directly with the consumers, and then you will be in a position to take up the subject with the power companies and determine whether a proper adjustment can be made."

VALUE OF A SHOE FACTORY

E. F. Scattergood, electrical engineer of the aqueduct, said that it was not his purpose to offer suggestions as to how the problem should be solved, but to suggest something that might help to arrive at a conclusion. Among other interesting things, he said:

"As to the benefits to be derived from the power, which will be not only abundant, but can be delivered at a very low price by the city, and this should go far toward inducing manufacturing industries to locate here. To dispose of it at a very low rate, to establishments employing but few men, would not be good policy and would probably not produce a profit. Take the establishment at Niagara Falls, for instance, and all of them put together would not bring as many inhabitants to Los Angeles as one shoe factory."

He said that in his judgement the city can sell the energy at a 6-cent rate and make a benefit, but that the greatest benefit will be derived from the industries it will induce to locate here.

"It is believed the city will endeavor to purchase the existing power plants at a fair price" said Mr. Scattergood, "which would be best for the city and best for the corporations. This is a statement of my own, but I believe it to be near the truth."

He thought that the proposition to sell power to the corporations, and they in turn to sell it to the consumers was not to be considered, except as a temporary arrangement, until the city is ready to purchase the plants.

WE WANT TO KNOW

W. B. Mathews, attorney for the aqueduct, while not subscribing to the proposition to sell the power after the city had developed it, said:

"If this power is to be turned over to the corporations by a vote of the people, we must first know on what basis they are to purchase it from the city and what they propose to charge the people for it. This is a popular question and will be worked out and decided in the best way, with the help of competent engineers and other experts. The city and the corporations should get together on the best plan, and if it is decided that the city is to develop the power and then turn it over to the power companies, the sooner we know it the better. The city is prepared to treat them fairly, and they should not assume that unless the power is turned over to them, we cannot adopt a policy that is fair to them.

"I believe that a warfare between the two elements would be destructive, but if the annual increase is what it is claimed to be, there will be room for all. The city has a government of broad-minded men, and the quicker we get together, and the more openly we discuss it, the better."

C. A. King spoke briefly, in which he criticized the service furnished by the power companies but he received little encouragement and quit.

J. A. Anderson was the last speaker. As a former member of the Board of Public Works, his opinion was carefully listened to, though he spoke very briefly and extemporaneously. He said:

"When the matter has received full consideration, we will find some way to avoid disastrous competition. I believe that within the next few months some plan will be decided upon, and if both the city and the power companies adjust themselves to that, there will be a market developed to make room for all. I trust that nothing will be thrown in the way of a speedy adjustment."

He expressed the belief that the people looked at the result of ownership of the water service, when they voted the bonds for the power, and that they expect the distribution of both shall be done by the municipality.

There will be another meeting next Thursday evening, when it is likely that some details for an adjustment will be suggested.

LETTERS TO "THE TIMES."

The Garbage Industry.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 13.—[To the Editor of The Times:] In your article of October 12th, entitled "Not Roses or Violets," it is manifest that there are some features of the garbage matter of which The Times is not fully apprised, one of which is that Mr. Alexander has expressed an intention of locating a garbage station near Covina Junction. We consider it no more than justice to him to forewarn him that any expense he may incur in so doing will be money wasted, as the people in this section of the city have no intention of permitting such a thing to be placed in their midst. Mr. Alexander's garbage station has been declared a nuisance by the courts, and it would be foolish for us to wait until stench, disease and pestilence and upon us before making any remonstrance against it. On the block in which I reside there are twenty-four residences. I have lived here for a year and during that time have never seen a garbage wagon in the neighborhood. We are disposing of our own garbage, and know our neighbors to be doing the same, and permit me to say that we have such excellent housewives in this "neck of the woods" that we would have no objection to an inspection of our premises by the Health Officer any day. In view of the foregoing fact, that we have no garbage service, we feel that it would be the greatest injustice to use this section as a dumping ground for the garbage of all Los Angeles. As a matter of fact, I do not believe a garbage transfer station a fit thing for any residence section. It is an industry, and if it belongs within the city limits at all, it should certainly be located in an industrial district, where there are no homes. It is a well-known fact that there are districts in our city where one bouquet more or less would not make any perceptible impression.

plunging down the street thrill the best of us. The man with a story of stirring adventure gets the floor. A good adventure story is always worth reading. But where can you find such a story? You have to read through a lot of mush to get the real stirring thing you want. Why not get a magazine that has adventure stories and nothing else—especially when you can get a magazine that is edited just as carefully as a magazine like Everybody's—that is, in fact, published by the publishers of Everybody's! For instance:

JUST SUPPOSE you woke from a drugged sleep in the hold of a South American sailing vessel bound for you know not where—

SUPPOSE you found you were alone on the Pacific with a crew of Chinamen and a lady-skipper, whose only name was "Bessie"—

SUPPOSE you had been robbed of an inventory-list of priceless treasure consigned by Pizarro, from Peru, in the galleon Espiritu Santo, to the King of Spain—

BUT SUPPOSE you remembered the latitude and longitude of the spot where the Espiritu Santo went down—and you knew it—for that's the name of the best adventure story you ever read. It's by Gouverneur Morris and it's in ADVENTURE

AND there are 192 pages of just such stories in this brand-new magazine—some fact stories, mostly fiction stories, but all adventure stories. There is "something doing" in every one of these yarns. They'll grip you. They're in The Ridgway Company's new magazine

CONTRACT MADE FOR OIL.

INVOLVES MONEY RUNNING INTO MILLIONS.

Waters-Pierce, Mexican Refinery, Has a Deal With the Doheny Interests That May Prove a Death-Blow to Sir Weetman Pearson, the Head of the English Company.

Joseph D. Cassaus, former United States Ambassador to the United States and at present attorney for the Waters-Pierce interests of the Waters-Pierce Oil Company, arrived in the city yesterday and is at the Alexandria. He was met at the train by Henry Clay Pierce of the Waters-Pierce Company and Norman Bridge of the Mexican Petroleum Company.

Mr. Cassaus has been in the city several days in conference with the officials of the Mexican oil companies presided over by E. L. Doheny. Late yesterday evening a contract was signed between the Waters-Pierce Company represented by H. C. Pierce and the Mexican Petroleum Oil Company, controlled by the Mexican Petroleum of California, under the terms of which the latter interests are to deliver to the Waters-Pierce refinery at Tampico 50,000 barrels of oil a day for the next five years 1,500,000 barrels. The first 1,000,000 barrels are to be delivered as fast as possible. The price paid for the oil is 32½ cents per barrel. The contract was made under the laws of California. It will be seen that the money involved is between $1,500,000 and $2,500,000. A cash payment of $250,000 was made to Dr. Norman Bridge, treasurer of the Mexican Petroleum Company.

The Mexican Oil Company is now producing 8,000 barrels of oil a day, and the same production amounts to 50,000. This oil is all being run at present through the new pipe line recently completed by the Mexican Petroleum Company.

Those familiar with the conditions in Mexico believe that the contract just signed between the Waters-Pierce Oil Company, with the biggest refineries in Mexico and practically the only producers of crude oil, will prove a body blow to Weetman Pearson who has been fighting the Standard, of which the Waters-Pierce Company is a part, for a division of the trade. The business of the sister company will be shut off from crude oil at a reasonable price, and the war that has been waged so long a time between the Pearson interests and the Standard.

Pierce to Hear Oil Men.

Assemblyman Hall on Hill street at 10 o'clock this morning Frank Pierce, Assistant Secretary of the Interior, will hold the first public hearing for California oil men. He is here to learn all he can about the situation and desires to see as many oil men as possible. He would like to hear all sides of the question. Other meetings will be held if necessary to get at the facts.

CAMPBELL-MORGAN'S BIBLE LESSON.

Golden Text: Matthew xxv, 21. "His Lord said unto him, well done, good and faithful servant; thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will set thee over many things; enter thou into the joy of thy Lord."

MATTHEW XXV, 14-30.

(14) For it is as when a man, going into another country, called his own servants and delivered unto them his goods. (15) And unto one he gave five talents, to another two, to another one; to each according to his several ability; and he went on his journey. (16) Straightway he that received the five talents went and traded with them and made other five talents. (17) In like manner he also that received the two gained other two. (18) But he that received the one went away and digged in the earth, and hid his Lord's money. (19) Now after a long time the lord of those servants cometh and maketh a reckoning with them. (20) And he that received the five talents came and brought other five talents, saying, Lord, thou deliverest unto me five talents; lo, I have gained other five talents. (21) His lord said unto him, Well done, good and faithful servant; thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will set thee over many things; enter thou into the joy of thy lord. (22) And he also that received the two talents came and said, Lord, thou deliverest unto me two talents; lo, I have gained other two talents. (23) His lord said unto him, well done, good and faithful servant; thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will set thee over many things; enter thou into the joy of thy lord. (24) And he also that had received the one talent came and said, lord, I knew thee that thou art a hard man, reaping where thou didst not sow and gathering where thou didst not scatter; (25) and I was afraid, and went away and hid thy talent in the earth; lo, thou hast thine own. (26) But his lord answered and said unto him, Thou wicked and slothful servant; thou knowest that I reap where I sowed not, and gather where I did not scatter; (27) thou oughtest, therefore, to have put my money to the bankers, and at my coming I should have received back mine own with interest. (28) Take ye away therefore the talent from him and give it unto him that hath the ten talents. (29) For unto every one that hath shall be given, and he shall have abundance; but from him that hath not, even that which he hath shall be taken away. (30) And cast ye out the unprofitable servant unto the outer darkness; there shall be the weeping and gnashing of teeth.

As we indicated in our introduction to the previous lesson, this parable of the talents is interrelated to that of the husbandman of the vineyard, who did not produce the fruits for the house holder which he had a right to expect. It deals with the subject of responsibility. It is also related to a previous parable, that of the laborers in the vineyard (see ch. XIX), which illustrated the truth that rewards are apportioned according to fidelity to opportunity. This parable completes the teaching of the parable of the faithless husbandman by showing what are the privileges of responsibility and how they are realized. It completes the teaching of the parable of the laborers by showing that there are degrees of ability, and that rewards are the fitting result of such when fully used.

Again we are compelled to notice that the thought here, a well as in that of the ten virgins, is the thought of an absent lord, who is to return. To his servants he has committed the responsibilities of his own interests during the period of his absence. There is fairness and wisdom in the trust reposed. To one man five talents are given, to another two, to a third one; in each case according to ability. Of these they are to make use in his interest during the time of his absence, and in view of his return and the reckoning which will then take place. Thus as in the previous parable we saw that there are responsibilities arising out of privilege, so here we see that the ultimate privileges result from our fulfillment of present responsibilities.

The matters of supreme interest in the parable are those, first, of the use made of the talents, and, secondly, of the issue of such use. The man with the two produced other two. That is to say, in each case the talents given were doubled. The results are different in quantity, as is at once seen by the comparison of five andt two, but they are equal in proportion as is seen by the fact already indicated, that the result is the doubling of the opportunity. The man to whom one talent was committed in the day of reckoning still had but one talent. He had formed his own opinion concerning his lord, and in consequence of that, hid the talent, with the result that when his lord returned, he handed back to him that which he had received from him and nothing more.

The issue of the trading must be carefully noticed and is full of interest. The two men of differing ability, the measure of whose opportunities had differed in proportion to their abilities, and the measure of whose success was mathematically different, but proportionately the same, received exactly the same commendation. To each of them the Master said, "Well done, good and faithful servant; thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will set thee over many things; enter thou into the joy of thy Lord." To the man who had hidden his talent, words of severe condemnation were uttered. Admitting, evidently only for the sake of argument, the accuracy of his estimation of his Lord, he was still condemned because he had not at least placed his lord's talent where it would of itself have produced results. In a striking word, however, the truth about this failing man was revealed. His lord said to him, "Thou wicked and slothful servant." His declaration that his action had been due to fear was untrue. The truth was that he was wicked and slothful.

The privileges and blessings which are the rewards of responsibility are given only to those who are true to opportunity. The parable of the laborers teaches that the rewards are based upon opportunity. Men were called at different hours of the day, and when they respond, each received a penny. This parable completes that teaching by showing that rewards result from opportunities utilized. To fling its light back upon the former parable is to see that had a man entered at the eleventh hour, and while in the vineyard scamped his work, he would not have received a penny.

While dealing with this parable it is important that we should be warned against confusing it with the parable of the pounds which Luke records, and which was spoken before his triumphal entry. While there are remarkable similarities between them, there is also a radical difference. In the parable of the pounds every man had a similar deposit, namely, a pound. As the result of trading, one gained ten, another gained five, another nothing. He who gained ten was given authority over ten cities. He who gained five was given authority over five cities. The failure of the one is exactly the failure of the man with the talent, and the issue is the same. In this parable of the pounds, therefore, we have another element revealed in the law of service, namely, that rewards are according to the measure of success. To the man whose one pound gained ten, the lord said, "Well done, thou good servant; because thou wast found faithful in a very little, have thou authority over ten cities;" while to the man whose pound had gained five, he only said, "Be thou also over five cities." The commendation is not equal, neither is the reward, because the opportunity being equal, the result is not. The three parables make a perfect revelation of the law of service which we do well carefully to consider. Turning to the teaching of the one under immediate consideration, it is perfectly certain that we all supremely desire to hear at last the words of commendation, "Well done, good and faithful servant; thou hast been faithful over many things; enter thou into the joy of thy Lord." In order that we may hear such commendation, our Master gives us opportunity according to our ability. Let this be ever remembered. It is an evil thing to crave five talents, if He have bestowed two. It is equally evil to attempt to evade the responsibility of five, if He have bestowed the five. Then we must remember that His "Well done" is never spoken save to those who have used to the full of opportunity. He creates. His commendations are as surely characterized by strict justice as are His condemnations. He cannot say "Well done" when the work has been ill done. He cannot call those "good and faithful" who have failed and have been unfaithful. This is revealed with great clearness in the parable of the pounds to which we have already referred. The final reward is the joy of the Lord, and His joy is that of opportunity filled to the full, and of all the inevitable results of such fidelity.

GOOD TIMES AND GOOD PEOPLE.

Terse Comments Upon the Christian Endeavor Topic for October 16. "Your Amusements: Do They Build Up or Down?"—Rom. 15: 1-3; Ps. 38: 7-12.

BY WILLIAM T. ELLIS.

The person who is too busy to enjoy himself is busier than he has any right to be.

I know a boy who is daft on baseball. Now baseball is a good game, and in itself only praiseworthy. But its proper place in life is only that of an incidental recreation. Yet this boy has exalted baseball into first place. He lives for baseball. All his talk is of the game. He breaks the Sabbath in his mind by thoughts of baseball. The attention that belongs to books and other duties he lavishes upon his favorite sport. So that baseball is not to him a recreation, but a passion and a dissipation. Any recreation that is truly such, and that may be enjoyed to the glory of God, must be kept in its own place and time.

* * *

Any pleasure that cannot be undertaken for the glory of God is not a Christian recreation.

Many a Christian who is troubled by morbid questionings about his spiritual state needs nothing else in the world so much as to get out in the sunshine and enjoy himself. A tennis racquet or a baseball bat or a fishing pole may be a real instrument of grace.

* * *

Whatever makes for health and happiness makes also for the glory of God.

* * *

A wise old preacher, in picturing the failure of the Prodigal Son to find happiness coined the epigram, "A good time cannot come out of a bad man." If the gospel's philosophy be the true one, then the highest happiness is normal and possible only to the Christian, who alone is in harmony with the laws and with the Lord of life. Good times are the prerogative of the good. They have in themselves the conditions from which happiness springs. "The joy of the Lord" is the heritage of the redeemed and the righteous.

* * *

There are many young persons of upright and irreproachable lives to whom the word intemperate must be applied in relation to their pleasure. All their days seem to be given up to the pursuit of "a good time." What they wear, and the social gatherings thew attend seem to rank as the first things in their lives. No milder word than intemperance can describe these habits, for the place of pleasure in a human life—that is, pleasure when it is made a business—is only a subsidiary and unimportant one.

* * *

A life that finds no time for pleasure is a mistake; but a greater mistake is the life that devotes all its time to pleasure.

* * *

Extremes are usually wrong. As a person who wastes his years in the chase for butterflies of pleasure has an utterly mistaken idea of life, so in another way has the person who thinks that life is too solemn and serious to permit of any enjoyment. God means us to enjoy life. He has made our hearts to be happy and this word to give us gladness. But he has planned it that only the purposeful soul can know true pleasure. Let us follow duty's pathway, but let us not neglect to pluck the flowers of pleasure that grow beside it.

* * *

Pleasures that do not make the work easier and better are intemperate.

* * *

The full-orbed Christian man is an advertisement of the gospel. This is one explanation of the popularity of college athletes as religious workers. Symmetry of life should be one of the fruits of the Spirit; when Christianity permeates a person's work and play, then whatever he does is for the glory of God.

* * *

No doubt there is danger of making a fad of athletics. We may easily run to the excess of cultivating the purely muscular qualities of the body, at the expense of the intellectual and spiritual. There are some communities where the people have run mad over sports; they have failed to maintain the balance of life and of relative values. To preserve a healthy body and to enjoy one's self, it is not necessary to become an athlete. The means may never wisely be permitted to become the end.

THE WEATHER.

LOCAL OFFICE, U. S. WEATHER BUREAU, Los Angeles, Oct. 13.—[Reported by H. Webster, Local Forecaster.] At 5 o'clock a.m. the barometer registered 29.94; at 5 p.m., 29.86. Thermometer for the corresponding hours showed 62 deg. and 80 deg. Relative humidity, 5 a.m., 81 per cent.; 5 p.m., 24 per cent. Wind, 5 a.m., north, velocity 6 miles; 5 p.m., southwest, velocity 8 miles. Maximum temperature, 80 deg.; minimum, 61 deg. Rainfall for twenty-four hours to 5 p.m., .04 of an inch; season, .56 last year to same date, .32; average, .35; seasonal average, July 1 to July 31, 15.03 inches. Character of weather, fair; clear; [illegible] Barometer reduced to sea level.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.—The edge of the disturbance that has caused the unsettled [illegible] weather in Southern California during the last thirty-six hours has appeared off the coast of Central California. A trough of low [illegible] extends inland over the central portion of the state to Northern Arizona, where a second depression is central this morning. This distribution of pressure has caused good rains in Southern California, Southern Nevada, Southern Utah and Arizona. Elsewhere on the Pacific slope fair weather has prevailed. Fair weather continues over the Plains States and in the Lake region. Reports from the Atlantic and Gulf States are missing this morning, owing to wire trouble. At Los Angeles the total precipitation for the storm was .77 of an inch, which brings the total for the season up to .86 of an inch, an excess of .14 of an inch over the same date last year, and an excess of .36 of an inch over the seasonal average to date. Over the citrus-fruit belt the rainfall ranged from .12 of an inch at Redlands to .34 at Riverside, with rain falling at every point at the time of observation. The pressure distribution indicates a continuance of unsettled, cloudy to partly cloudy weather, probably with additional precipitation tonight or Sunday.

FORECASTS, Los Angeles and vicinity: Unsettled, cloudy to partly cloudy weather, probably with showers tonight or Sunday; light, variable winds, mostly east to south.

Pasadena, Redlands, Riverside and San Bernardino: Unsettled, cloudy to partly cloudy weather, with showers tonight or Sunday.
